SELECTIONS OF NEWSPAPERS.—Most ople think the selection of suitable atter for the newspaper the easiest art of the business. How great an er- r. To look over and over one hun- red exchange papers, from which to elect enough for one, especially when the question is not what shall, but what shall not be selected, is not a very easy task. Not unfrequently it is the case that an editor looks over all his ex- change papers for something interesting and can find absolutely nothing. Every paper is drier than a contribution box; and yet something must be had—his pa- per must be out with something in it, and he does the best he can. Every subscriber thinks the paper is printed for his own benefit,and if there is noth- ing that suits him—it is good for noth- ing. As many subscribers as an editor has, so many tastes he has to consult. One wants something very smart and another something sound. One likes anecdotes, fun and frolic, and his next door neighbor wonders that a man of sense will put such stuff in his paper. Something spicy comes out, and the editor is a blackguard. Next comes something argumentative, and the edi- tor is a dull fool. And so between them all, the poor fellow gets the worst of it.

WHATEVER you do, do it willingly. A boy who is whipped at school never learns his lesson well. A man who is compelled to work cares not how badly it is performed. He who pulls off his coat cheerfully, strips up his sleeves in earnest, and sings while he works is the man for me.

IF the government spends no millions for less worthy objects than that of pen- sioning the veterans of 1812, nobody will complain. The bill to pension the heroes of that war will require an ex- penditure of $2,000,000 per annum. It is a matter of simple justice and should not be permitted to fail in the Senate.

U. S. INTERNAL REVENUE.—B. P. Fortner, Deputy Collector 13th District gives notice that the persons assessed for Excise Taxes in the county of Co- lumbia, will make payment as follows: Berwick, on Saturday, June 25th at the Hotel of Benj. Williams; Bloomsburg, Monday and Tuesday, June 27th and 28th, at the hotel of John Leacock; Catawissa, June 29th and 30th, at Collec- tor's office; Centralia, July 5th. Those neglecting or refusing to pay at the time appointed, will become liable to pay the penalties imposed by law.

SOMNAMBULISM. A few evenings since a little daughter of one of our fel- low-townsmen, who is addicted to sleep walking, was discovered clinging to the sill of one of the second story windows, her body on the outside and in immi- nent danger of falling to the ground be- low. The hired girl discovered the child and immediately shrieked aloud for help. The father of the little som- nambulist came to the rescue and succeed- ed in extricating her from her perilous position.—Miltonian.

PLUCK.—We were a witness the oth- er day of a remarkable instance of cour- age displayed by a hen! A neighbor of ours had a matronly chicken with a brood of a dozen and a half of wee ones, who were picking and peeking about after the manner of those feath- ered bipeds, when suddenly a huge rat darted from an adjacent board pile, and seizing one of the chicks, turned to carry off his prize. His movements were rapid, but not enough so for his own safety; the quick eye of the moth- er saw the foul deed (no joke on the fowl) and with ruffled plumage pounced upon the marauder. So fierce was her attack that but a moment elapsed before the discomfited rat— chickenless and covered with blood— was glad to escape from the beak and claws of the infuriated hen and seek a place of refuge. The chick was found to be uninjured beyond the loss of a few feathers. The hen is partly game, which accounts for the intrepidity displayed by her.

TWO CHILDREN KILLED BY A RAT. —A few days since, a Mrs. Smith, re- siding in Van Buren street, East Brook- lyn, was attracted by the screams of her child, which she had left asleep in one of the upper rooms of the house. As she entered the room a large rat sprang from the cradle and made its escape, and Mrs. Smith discovered that the child's leg was considerably mutilated. A physician was called in but the child sickened and died in a few days. Mrs. Smith had taken a poor woman to live with her, who had a child about the same age or a little older than the one she lost. This woman left her child asleep for a short time in the room she occupied, and was alarmed the other morning by hearing it scream. On hastening to it she found that the rat, which was just making its escape, had bitten the child severely in the neck, severing some of the chords. This child, like the other, immediately took sick and died.

THE Press, in urging its party to se- lect a better class of representatives, says:

"Leaving aside other considerations, we should be pleased to see the good men of both parties devote their ener- gies to securing delegates of reputable character and free from all suspicion of connection with rings, cliques or com- binations of any kind. That point gained, the rest will follow. And this is equally the duty of men of both par- ties. In any district which the Democ- racy will carry, it is the interest of all respectable citizens that the Democratic nominations be of the best character. Who, for instance, in all Pennsylvania, will not thank the Democratic party for sending to the Legislature of the State Mr. Buckalew, instead of some man of the usual character of their nominees."

In the same article it makes a com- plimentary allusion to our Representa- tive, George Scott, and classes him among the few honest and incorruptible members of the late Legislature. Co- lumbia county always sends good men to Harrisburg.

THE YOHE MURDER.—On last Tues- day morning, at 3 o'clock, the young man, Jefferson F. P. Yohe, who was shot and robbed on Friday morning of last week, died from the effects of his wound. An inquest was held on the body the same morning, by Deputy Coroner, James Love, of Girardville, and a post mortem examination made by Drs. Reagan, Shultz, and Rooke, when it was found that the ball passing in at the side of the neck had struck the spinal column, but whether it had gone up into the base of the brain or down into the spinal column, the phy- sicians could not determine, as it would take so much dissection that the body could not have been afterwards remov- ed conveniently. A verdict was ren- dered by the jury in accordance with the facts. The body was removed to Mifflinville, Monday, and buried from his father's residence on Wednesday.

Part of the time, Yohe could converse and was quite sensible, and he describ- ed to Mr. Herring and his father the appearance of the men who committed the deed. The man who asked him to ride and then shot him, was of medium size, had a mustache and wore a black cap and coat, and light pants; the other who rushed out of the woods and rob- bed him, wore light clothing.

As far we can learn, no trace has been found of the murderers. Mr. Peter Creger, of the Coal Police, tried to trace them on the Catawissa road, but if they escaped that way, they left no tracks behind.—Shenandoah Herald.

COUNTERFEITERS.—Two men, one Michael Hertzel, from Mifflinville, Columbia county, and the other— Frederick, of Nescopec, were about town on the afternoon of the shooting of young Yohe. Their actions and appearance were suspicious, and com- ing from the same locality attention was directed to them in connection with the murder.

They arrived by the Reading noon train on Friday, and got off at Flour Barrel station, where they reported themselves as coming from Girardville, where they said they had been staying a few days.

On Sunday morning, Messrs. D. S. Hess and Reuben Hillyard went to Girardville to make inquiries concern- ing them, where they found that they had only been in town over night, and in the morning they had gone to Ash- land before coming to Shenandoah, where they tried to pass a $10 counter- feit note on the National Bank of Rome, N. Y., which was refused, so, being in Ashland at the time of the affair they could have had nothing to do with it personally. They also at- tempted to pass a $20 counterfeit on the same bank, at Kuhn's clothing store in Girardville, but it was also refused. At Shenandoah, however, they had better luck and got off a $1 bill at the Exchange Hotel, and two $10's, one each on Mrs. Delany and Mrs. Groody, all on the National Bank of Rome.

They left town on Saturday morning for Columbia county, in a team, but went no further than Ringtown station, where they got off. They were follow- ed there but could be traced no farther. We suppose that these parties will also make good their escape.—Shenandoah Herald.

——A map of busy life, —Its fluctuations and its vast concerns."

CVI.

CHANCELLORSVILLE.

It is my purpose to detail the move- ments of the different Corps in this eventful campaign only so far as may be necessary to understand our own movements.

Hooker determined to attack Lee on his left flank. It is true this was pro- tected by the Rappahannock and Rapi- dan Rivers, as well as by the "Wilder- ness," but it seemed more feasible than a direct attack, and would have the effect of drawing our opponent from his entrenchments.

The movement began Monday, April 27th, (1863) by the Fifth, Eleventh and Twelfth Corps moving to Kelly's Fo —some twenty-seven miles above— which they reached on the 28th. This was crossed without difficulty, as well as the Rapidan, and the three Corps es tablished their position at Chancellors- ville, which, by the way consisted of but a single house. The Second Corps, in the meantime took up a position at United States Ford so as to maintain a communication between the two wings of the army, and on Thusday evening joined the other three Corps, thus throwing in Lee's rear, without loss, 50,- 000 men. Hooker the same evening made his head-quarters at Chancellors- ville. So elated was he with the success of the movements up to this time that he issued a bombastic order, in the Pope style, in which he stated that "the op- erations of the last three days have de- termined that our enemy must either ingloriously fly or come out from behind his defences and give us battle on our own ground, where certain destruction awaits him." He also boastingly re- marked: "The rebel army is now the legitimate property of the Army of the Potomac. They may as well pack up their haversacks and make for Rich- mond, and I shall be after them." He forgot that Gen. Lee commanded the Confederate army, and that Stonewall Jackson was one of his lieutenants. In order to mask the movements of the flanking Corps, the First, Third and Sixth moved to the river opposite Fred- ericksburg, on Tuesday, the 28th and induced the enemy to believe that an attack would be made there. It rained almost incessantly, but this did not hin- der our march as it would have done a month sooner. Our Battery was then connected with the First Corps, which occupied its old position on the left of the line. On Wednesday, before day- light the batteries were posted within a few hundred yards of the river in order to cover the crossing. An attempt was made to lay the pontoons early in the morning, but failed on account of the vigilance of their sharp-shooters in the rifle pits on the opposite side of the riv- er. About 9 o'clock, however, the fog rose, and a fresh effort was made which proved successful, and in about fifteen minutes our men captured over 100 of their pickets. For some time the firing was very rapid on both sides, but we alone used artillery. It did not take long to construct two bridges, and Wadsworth's Division of our Corps crossed over; and Sedgwick, on our right, also sent across a portion of his Corps, at the same point where they had crossed last December. By means of the Balloon Corps we could see that as yet the enemy had not learned our real point of attack, as their army re- mained behind its entrenchments. We could distinctly hear the firing of the marching Corps.

On Thursday the enemy opened on us from four different points, their guns on our left enfilading our line. Imme- diately in our front they had four 20 pounder Parrott guns, and the aim of their gunners was fearfully accurate. But what annoyed us most was a Whit- worth gun, the range of which is over four miles. The projectile is a solid bolt about ten inches long and three in diam- eter. It flies so swiftly that it gives no notice of its approach, and dodging is useless. Even the "zit" of a minnie ball is more easily avoided. Capt. Thomson, whose Battery was on our immediate right, picked up a few of these troublesome missiles, and fired them back to the enemy, "to make them believe," as he said, "that we had a Whitworth too." During the heavi- est firing a chance shell frightened a rabbit from its lair, and it was at once pursued to the water's edge by a dozen shouting soldiers, whose love for sport exceeded their fear of a rifle shot. Night caused the firing on both sides to cease.

During the day Sickles' Corps, the Third, left us, and unobserved by the enemy joined Hooker at Chancellors ville, making a force of near 70,000 men at that point.

Friday was a day of inaction to the troops in front of Fredericksburg. Just after dusk however, the enemy com- menced cheering lustily along their lines, to which our men as heartily re- sponded. They also built bonfires in front of their works, doubtless to cover the movements of a large part of their army.

In the meantime nothing had been heard of our cavalry, which, number- ing 10,000 men had been sent on a raid to cut the rebel communications, but unfortunately at the same time it de- prived us of the use of an important arm of the service.

By this time Hooker's movements were completely developed, and Lee rapidly concentrated his forces to meet him on his chosen ground, leaving a feeble force to hold the Fredericksburg heights. Hooker, however, push- ed his troops forward several miles, his left resting on the Rappahannock river, and uncovering Banks' Ford, while the right pushed out on the plank road to the open country where after some hard fighting, an admirable posi- tion was obtained on a commanding ridge. To the surprise of every one the line was ordered to be abandoned, and our men reluctantly fell back to their former lines, closely pressed by the enemy. Our distance from Sedg- wick was not only increased, but we were cooped up in an interminable wilderness, and our position was com- manded by the one vacated, which of course was seized by the enemy.

Saturday morning found our Corps (the First) still in front of Fredericks- burg. Their artillery opened on us heavily, and we responded rapidly. Their firing ceased about 10 a. m., and about noon our bridges were taken up, and we commenced moving up the river. By a forced march we reached the scene of action, crossing the Rappa- hannock at the United States' Ford. We there learned what a fearful blow had been dealt us by Stonewall Jack- son's Corps, which, by marching to our extreme right had doubled up and thor- oughly routed the Eleventh Corps, cap- turing thousands of prisoners, and some twenty pieces of artillery. Battery af- ter battery was sent in to check the ad- vancing tide but they could only oper- ate at short range, and were literally used up. Leppine's Battery of our Corps, lost in thirty minutes, out of four officers one killed and two wounded, besides forty men and as many horses. Several of his limbers were exploded and the infantry were obliged to drag the guns from the field. In fact, while the proportion of artillery to infantry in the Corps was as one to twelve, their loss was one-third of the total. The rear of the army was clogged with de- serters, and the remnants of regiments that had been broken during the day.

AMONG the Northern arrivals since our last are Perry John and wife, from Bear Gap, Pa., and Hon. James Kester from Catawissa, Pa.—North Carolinian.

THIS is the age of progress and con- ventions, and the most important one during the last eighteen years assem- bled at New York, each member pos- sessing superior mechanical ability and having had fifteen years experience in making Sewing Machines. All the various patents, plans of construction and different devices were fully consid- ered, with the view of supplying a ma- chine with all the late improvements, adapted to all varieties of family sew- ing, and free from the objections attach- ed to others; making the lock stitch alike on both sides, running at high speed on light or heavy goods, and making perfect work year after year without getting out of order. It was decided that these objects were fully at- tained in the Singer New Family Sew- ing Machines, making a demand for them, greater than ever was known in the history of Sewing Machines. In saving time, health, and in making home happy these machines have done more to advance women's rights than all the conventions held for that pur- pose.

ANOTHER EPISCOPAL DIOCESE CRE- ATED.—The necessity of dividing the arduous labors of Bishop Stevens by the creation of a new diocese has long been apparent, and the subject has been a theme of deep thought and earnest dis- cussion among the members of the Epis- copal persuasion in Phil'a., as well as in other portions of the State. On Thursday the matter was brought before the Episcopal Convention, in session at Philadelphia, when the following favor- able action was taken:

Mr. Robert A. Lamberton, of Harris- burg, offered a resolution to the effect that all that part of the Diocese of Penn- sylvania which lies outside of the coun- ties of Philadelphia, Delaware, Chester, Montgomery and Bucks, be a new dio- cese.

Mr. Bohlea moved as an amendment that there be added to the above named counties those of Northampton, Lehigh, Berks and Lancaster.

An additional amendment was offer- ed requiring that a majority of the cler- gy and vestry within the bounds of the proposed diocese consent thereto.

The last amendment was adopted, and thereupon a discussion arose upon the second amendment.

Judge Parry, of Schuylkill, opposed a division of the diocese, for the reason that he thought it would be impolitic at the present time.

Mr. Lamberton, in advocating a di- vision upon the five county line, said that beyond the counties named, thirty- nine parishes out of seventy-five had, through the clergy and vestry, express- ed themselves favorable to the division proposed.

The Rev. Dr. Paret read a paper, by which it appeared that out of fifty-four clergymen stationed within the counties proposed to be set off, thirty-four had approved the measure.

A protracted discussion took place upon the second amendment, some of the speakers favoring the nine county, others the five county line. The advo- cates of the five county line generally belonged to the parishes embraced with- in the proposed diocese.

The amendment was not agreed to.

The question then recurred on the original resolution, when the yeas and nays were called. The result was as follows: Of the clergy 111 voted aye, 27 voted no. Of the laity 94 churches voted aye, 18 voted no and 2 were di- vided.
