THURSDAY, JULY 17, 1873.

NEW MONEY.—The new fractional currency fifty cent notes will be issued to the public in a few days. The new note will be about a quarter of an inch shorter than that now in circulation, and a quarter of an inch wider, its dimensions being 3¾ inches by 2 inches. On the left hand side of the face of the note is a vignette head of Samuel Dexter, who was Secretary of the Treasury in 1801, and a former Governor of the State of Massachusetts, and on the right a section of geometrical lath-work, with the words "Fifty Cents," in white letters, engraved across the face. The wording of the note is the same as that of the present issue, with the omission of "receivable for all United Stater stamps," which appears at the bottom of the old note. The seal is printed in the centre of the face, and is inclosed in cycloidal work, a new feature upon fractional currency. The back of the note, which will be painted in New York, will be green. It is made up of geometrical lathe-work and scrolls. On the right hand corner the words "cents," found on the old note, is omitted, and the numeral 50 takes its place. The date of the passage of the act authorizing the issue appears on the face of the note instead of the back. On the left hand side of the back there is an open space to show the fibre in the paper, and it will not be shown on the face as in the old note.

GENERAL NOTES.

An Iowa man, aged seventy-five, recently married a woman of fifty, and has been arrested for bigamy.

La Crosse left it to a lightning-rod agent how many rody to put on a new school house, and he hoisted thirteen before they stopped him.

Good Templar lodges are now being opened in England at the rate of ten per day, and 150,000 people have joined in twelve months.

The catch of salmon in Oregon this season is very large, and all the fisheries are employing large numbers of men. One Portland man will send away 28,0000 cases before the close of the season, which will be about the 1st of August.
