How Sweet It Is

HARRISBURG — Ice Cream lovers converged on the steps of the Capitol this week to celebrate Summer Love Sundae Tuesday.

"We are attempting to bring ice cream to the awareness of the consumer in Harrisburg with this celebration," explained William Smedley, program manager for the Pennsylvania Dairy Promotion Program. The Pennsylvania milk promotion group co-sponsored the event with the Keystone Ice Cream Association.

Volunteers dipped over 10,000 sundaes, or the equivalent of 600 gallons of ice cream, during the event which also spotlighted Governor Robert Casey's proclaiming July as ice cream month in Pennsylvania.

In his proclamation Casey wrote, "In 1986, for the second consecutive year, ice cream production in the Commonwealth registered a 5 percent gain, and the state moved from fifth to fourth place nationally in the number of dairy and ice cream plants, with a total of 100 located throughout the Commonwealth." Casey noted that Pennsylvania ranks first in the nation in the per capita consumption of ice cream, second in the manufacture of ice cream, and third in the production of soft ice cream.
