Quack Nostrums.

THE NEW YORK DAY BOOK says: "The majority of Hair Washes, Hair Dyes, Hair Tonics, Hair Oils, and the numberless preparations which are now before the public under such extravagant, hyperbolical and fantastic titles as we see paraded in window cards, and newspaper headings, are simply humbugs, are all humbugs of the first water; their real merit, when they possess any, is, that they do no harm. HOG'S LARD, WHALE OIL, LARD OIL, SWEET OIL, scented and colored, make up, when in beautiful wrappers and white flint glass bottles, the costliest character of toilets; and when thus costly, are baptized with some triflingly term, and caught at by verdant young and old of both sexes. Such is not the character of Professor Wood's Hair Restorative. This gentleman comes before the world without any 'high falutin' Xilophiloforium, or any other astounding and startling catchpenny terms, he simply advertises a Hair Restorative—what it expresses precisely—and as a Restorative it acts. Buy Professor Wood's Hair Restorative, and as you value your scalp, aye, your very brains, apply nothing else; for it may be that you will get some worse substance than perfumed lard oil on your cranium. Remember, Wood's Restorative for the Hair is the best article extant."

It Will, by Nature's own Process, Restore Gray Hair to the Original Color,

Will make Hair Grow on Bald Heads,
Will restore the Natural Secretions,
Will remove at once all itching,
Will remove all Dandruff,
Will cure all eruptions—even Scald Head,
Will make the Hair Soft and Glossy,
Will make the old appear young again,
Will preserve the Color of Hair to old age,
Will always Fasten it and stop its Falling,
And is one of the best Toilet Articles for the Hair now in use.

Manufactured by O. J. WOOD & CO., and sold Wholesale and Retail, at 444 Broadway, New York, and 114 Market st., St. Louis, Mo.

Sold in Pittsburgh by Dr. GEO. H. KEYSER, B. L. FAHNESTOCK & CO., and all Druggists. [au9:dly]

NOTICE TO CRUDE CARBON OIL COLLECTORS.—The subscribers are well located and offer facilities to those having crude oil for sale, to deposit with them. PUBLISHED DAILY AND WEEKLY BY S. RIDDLE & CO., FIFTH STREET, ABOVE SMITHFIELD.

PITTSBURGH:

WEDNESDAY MORNING, JAN. 9.

THE CAUSES OF OUR TROUBLES.

We give the following abstract of the Fast Day Sermon of Rev. Dr. Thompson, of the Broadway Tabernacle, N. York. His text was:

Thy princes are rebellious and companions of thieves; every one loveth gifts, and followeth after rewards; they judge not the fatherless, neither doth the cause of the widow come unto them.

Therefore saith the Lord, the Lord of hosts, the mighty one of Israel, Ah, I will ease me of mine adversaries, and avenge me of mine enemies:

And I will turn my hand upon thee, and purely purge away thy dross, and take away thy tin:

And I will restore thy judges as at the first, and thy counselors as at the beginning; afterward thou shalt be called The city of righteousness, the faithful city.

Zion shall be redeemed with judgment, and her converts with righteousness — Isaiah, i. 23-27.

After alluding to general topics, Dr. Thompson said: The President's proclamation, appointing this day a day of fasting and prayer, states that "the Union of these states is in danger," the whole showing that the morality of this recommendation is higher than that which was expressed by the celebrated Ostend manifesto, Mr. Buchanan's great bid for the Presidency. It is higher than the doctrine of the highest tribunal of our country, that the Constitution recognizes property in man. I hope that the President, in asking pardon for the sins of the country, does not except its executive head. The President displays the poor condition of the laboring man at the present, day, occasioned by disasters which are daily befalling us. Where are these disasters? The money market is depressed, it is true; the stock market is continually rising and falling; men of all classes of business have become bankrupt; but the cause of this is the precautionary measures which all have taken for their protection against an imaginary danger. I have seen as many smiling faces of late as I could possibly expect. Our New Year calls were just as numerous and pleasant; our toy shops just as liberally patronized; Fifth avenue is as brilliant as we could desire; in a word, we are all comfortable. Everything is the same as if South Carolina had not seceded. How different the condition of our Southern brethren. There is fear and trembling among them, hope has deserted all, confusion reigneth everywhere. Why is this? One section so unhappy, the other so happy! Are we preparing to wage a deadly strife against them? There are men here who wish a dissolution of this Union, and who assert that slavery would be killed thereby. But these men are not the men to vote, neither are they the men to fight. Slavery begets its own terror, and by that terror seals its fate. If slavery was out of the way, what cause of dissention could we possibly have. Are these unforeseen exigencies? Did not Jefferson say, "I tremble for my country when I think of God's justice." Colonel Mason, of Virginia, John Jay, Daniel Webster, all have warned us. The sages of the past, with one voice, warned us of the vengeance which this evil of slavery would bring down upon us. Fifteen years we have spent in discussing how this evil system was to be preserved. The pulpit has caught up the echo from the wise ones gone before, and have warned all of the danger. Dr. Thompson read extracts from sermons delivered in the old Tabernacle in 1848, '51, 54—say not then that these are unforeseen exigencies. Let us accept the evils upon us as the justice of Heaven, and as a well-merited reward for our sins. The nation would not hear the terrible warning, civil war and financial ruin are necessary to bring us to listen. We have boasted that our Union was necessary to the world as the only home of freedom. God has touched us, with but a finger, and we are made to tremble. Let us abase ourselves. That which God demands is renunciation, not evasion, of the evil. He may bear with us awhile, but just as sure as we make compromises, so sure will He unmake them. For four years we have treated slavery as a political evil; that time is past. It has become a matter of conscience. Let us not be implicated as a nation in this great evil. Put it away, now and forever. If we compromise wrongly, the question will only again be agitated; good men cannot compromise with wrong, and there will be no peace till the wrong is effaced, or else God will enter and cast it out. This great nation is in its golden hour—this is the opportunity. Refuse, Refuse a national recognition of slavery. Say that we cannot take this awful burden upon our conscience. Let us not trust in man, but in God; be firm for the truth; be quiet but steadfast. Then we can, or our children will, look upon a nation the like of which the sun never before shone on, united, prosperous, free, blessed by God and man.

Address of Gov. Hicks, of Maryland.

BALTIMORE, Jan. 6, 1861.—Gov. Hicks has published an address to the citizens of Maryland, giving his reason for refusing to convene the Legislature. It fills two columns of The American, and abounds in the most emphatic Union sentiments. The following are extracts:

I firmly believe that a division of this government would inevitably produce civil war. The secession leaders in South Carolina, and the fanatical demagogues of the North, have alike proclaimed that such would be the result, and no man of sense, in my opinion, can question it. What could the Legislature do in this crisis, if convened, to remove the present troubles which beset the Union? We are told by the leading spirits of the South Carolina Convention, that neither the election of Mr. Lincoln nor the nonexecution of the Fugitive Slave Law, nor both combined, constitute their grievances. They declare that the real cause of their discontent dates as far back as 1833. Maryland, and every other State in the Union, with a united voice, then declared the cause insufficient to justify the course of South Carolina. Can it be that this people, who then unanimously supported the cause of Gen. Jackson, will now yield their opinions at the bidding of modern secessionists. I have been told that the position of Maryland should be defined, so that both sections could understand it. Do any really understand her position? Who that wishes to understand it can fail to do so? If the action of the legislature would be simply to declare that Maryland is with the South in sympathy and feeling; that she demands from the North the repeal of offensive, unconstitutional statutes, and appeals to it for new guarantees; that she will wait reasonable time for the North to purge her statute books and to do justice to her Southern brethren, and if her appeals are vain, will make common cause with her sister border States in resistance to tyranny if need be, it would only be saying what the country well knows, and what may be said much more effectually by her people themselves in their meetings than by the Legislature chosen eighteen months since, when none of these questions were raised before them. That Maryland is a conservative Southern State, all know who know anything about her people or her history. The business and agricultural classes—planters, merchants, mechanics, and laboring men—those who have a real stake in the community, who would be forced to pay the taxes and do the fighting, are the persons who should be heard in preference to excited politicians, many of whom, having nothing to lose from the destruction of the government, may hope to derive some gain from the ruin of the State. Such men will naturally urge you to pull down the pillars of this "accursed Union," which their allies at the North have denominated a "covenant with hell."

In the course of nature, I cannot have long to live, and I fervently trust to be allowed to end my days a citizen of this glorious Union. But should I be compelled to witness the downfall of that Government inherited from our fathers, established, as it were, by the special favor of God, I will at least have the consolation, at my dying hour, that I neither by word nor deed assisted in hastening its disruption.

(Signed), THOMAS H. HICKS.

AT the close of a business letter from Springfield, the writer says: "We have lived eleven years on the corner opposite Mr. Lincoln's house, and have never heard him speak an angry word. Let us pray for one who will in the future, if God spares his life, be burdened beyond measure." This is a high tribute to the President elect. And who will not join the writer in prayer for the man who, at such a time as this, is brought to the Presidency?

IT is said that Bailey is not the first man who has tampered with the Indian Trust Fund. During Pierce's administration $200,000 were withdrawn and speculated upon.

Justice to Louis Philippe's Heirs.

The Paris correspondent of the N. Y. Times, writes as follows:

An act of tardy justice (the government, doubtless, considers it generosity, has just been, rendered to the widow and children of Louis Philippe. You know that soon after the re-establishment of the Empire, the entire private property of the Orleans family, amounting in all to about three hundred millions of francs, was confiscated to the State. Among this property—nearly all of which had been acquired and inherited by the king, while Duke of Orleans, was the palace royal, the chateau and grounds at Neuilly, Chantilly, and the beautiful Parc de Monceaux, situated between the Arc de Triumphe and the Batignolles. These grounds have undergone a variety of changes. In 1778 a beautiful palace for the Duke of Orleans was erected in them. Then, when the revolution came, the National Convention decreed that Monceaux should not be sold, as was almost all other property belonging to the nobility, but preserved for various establishments of public utility. Upon the accession of the Emperor, he presented it to the Archbishop Cambaceres, who, finding it too expensive to keep up, restored it five years afterwards to the crown.

Napoleon then annexed it to his private domains, and, after the restoration, Louis the Eighteenth restored it to the Duke of Orleans, and so it remained till the confiscation of 1812. Now a broad boulevard is being run directly through it, and the jury having made an award of the value of the property taken to the amount of four millions five hundred francs, one half of this sum has been relinquished by the widow of Louis Philippe, the Queen Amilie, and her children and grandchildren. Perhaps, like the decree of the 24th of November, this may be supposed to be only the procurer of further concessions, and that this unfortunate exiled family will yet have the bulk of this property restored to them. It is said, that, by order of the Emperor, arrangements are now in progress for the removal to France, and burial among the kings and queens at St. Dennis, the remains of both Charles the Tenth, and Louis Philippe. This certainly ought to be done. The Emperor, in his present strength, need have no fears of the bones of those dead Bourbons disturbing his repose, and he should remember that Louis Philippe brought back the mouldering dust of his great uncle from St. Helena, and that, perhaps, from that act sprang the new-born enthusiasm for the Napoleonic dynasty, through which he now sits upon the imperial throne of France.

THE POPULAR REACTION.—The precipitate course of South Carolina in refusing to await the action of the North, but at once plunging the country into all the perils of civil war, says the New York Journal of Commerce, his alienated the sympathies of many patriotic men who have hitherto remained her steadfast friends, ready to vindicate the justice of her cause at any sacrifice. We have one illustration of this in the case of the veteran Commodore Lawrence Kearney, who stands second on the active service list of the United States Navy, and whose resignation was announced a few days ago. In a private letter Commodore Kearney says:

"Since the course pursued by Charlestonians, I have changed my views in regard to matters in that quarter and elsewhere, and I have asked to be allowed to withdraw my letter of resignation in the Navy."

This is a straw which shows the direction of the wind.

THE Emperor Napoleon's long announced work "The Life of Cæsar," is said to be already in the press, and is expected to be out by the middle of January.
