Union State Ticket

[illegible]

FOR GOVERNOR: ANDREW G. CURTIN, of Centre.

FOR JUDGE OF THE SUPREME COURT: DANIEL AGNEW, of Beaver.

[illegible]

Looking to all these pregnant and a gulf- ... facts, ... by the ... of the rebel ... who have been ... carried through the ... of the great Southern ... and ... awakened to full consciousness, for the first time, ... people ... and power, ... and freedom which they have been ... by ... with which they have been ... we shall not ... that the capture of Charleston, which is now imminent, has made an end of the war, without any further act of collision by the military array of the rebel armies, under a sense of utter weakness, and the overwhelming conviction of the utter hopelessness of any further struggle in a case where the advantage sought, if any at all, is not for them, and the substantial blessings of peace will be the sure and immediate reward of submission. We doubt, indeed, whether there is a ... in their ranks, or one of the many thousands of people who have been forced into this rebellion, or have suffered injury in property or person, that will not rejoice to learn that the hour of a just retribution has at last reached ... the proud and ... who ... a little more than two short years ago ... their country's flag and ... high ... it went down ... storm which swept it from its staff ... voted ... beneath its ...

If the war should end in this way, ... They will ... gone. Their mission ... been to serve the ... and propitiate ... They will ... States shall come ... with no interest dis- ... and no rights impaired, and that the proclamation shall be revoked, and a general amnesty declared. They will ... if they dare, as their organ, the World, has already intimated, in insisting upon our assumption of the war debt of the South. They have done as much already, in making us pay the debt of Texas. They will do all this on the assumption that they are still dealing with their old masters, and that the South is still a unit on the subject of Slavery. But they will look in vain for ... He will be either bleaching on some battle field, or dangling at a rope's end, or traveling—for his health—in other lands; and the men still left who composed their armies, and have fought their battles, will be apt to say to these peace makers, when they come on bended knee to offer their humble services—"Get thee behind me, Satan! We know you not. We own no slaves. We have sacrificed enough to gratify the pride and passion of the slave owners, who have degraded our labor, have been using us as an instrument for our own enslavement. Look at our scars. Observe our ragged vesture. Yonder are our humble dwellings. See the vacant places at our hearths. Behold the gaunt and hollow cheeks and the tattered garments of our wives and children, and then tell us what reason we can have for desiring, or what motive you can have for offering, to re-establish amongst us, that thrice-accursed institution which has kept us in beggary and ignorance, and then driven us like cattle to the slaughter, without compunction, and without any quarter of our own? Avaunt and quit our sight! Let the earth hide you!"

If they should make this answer, there is of course an end of the "Democracy" with its stock in trade whittled down to Woodward's Philadelphia speech on the positive blessings, and absolute necessity of the Divine institution of slavery—and that ... about its bulk in Confederate scrip—it must go into bankruptcy at once, along with the Confederate Government. Well, they ought to die together—father and child—the parent and the offspring. United, except ... in their lives—in death they ought not to be divided.

WESTERN UNIVERSITY.—We are pleased to learn that this already popular institution is enabled, by the liberality of gentlemen of this city, to add to its able corps of teachers a Professor of Natural Science, who will enter upon his duties during the ... which will open next Tuesday. Our citizens should congratulate themselves on ... having a home institution which, after years of adversity, has overcome all difficulties, and now is prepared to give a thorough collegiate education to their sons, and which, ... a Department ... the State ... for giving a full course of instruction throughout the entire range of Natural Science.

[illegible]

There was a very large and enthusiastic Union and Proclamation meeting at Franklin, Tennessee, on Saturday last, a full report of which we find in the Nashville Union. The speakers were Gov. Johnson, Parson Brownlow, ... L. C. Houck, Judge Brien and Mr. Edwards, and were, as might be expected, of the straight out Union stamp. The large majority of the audience were country people, who came from all directions, and ... We would like to copy some passages from several of the speeches before us, but can only find room for the following ... Houck on the slavery question:

There is one subject ... the discussion, ... omitted, either intentionally or otherwise by those who have addressed you to-day. I, therefore, propose to say a very few words touching the policy of the Government in regard to the eternal nigger question! Now, Slavery is going. The first gun fired upon Fort Sumter ... and ... warned of all the consequences of ... upon them. And, as they ... sweeping over the land, carrying before it the institution of slavery, they ... as the young lady did her suitor, ... propounded the important question of matrimony, ... "Just as ... you are done you ... yourself." [Great laughter.] So with the institution of slavery. It has received its death blow, and ... But, says one, do you endorse Mr. Lincoln's proclamation, freeing the negroes? I answer, I swallow proclamation and all and endorse all Mr. Lincoln has done, or intends to do, in order to crush out, and forever destroy this ungodly and wicked rebellion. [Applause.] ... understand this question now, ... prepared to meet ... There is not power ... cultivated?

Our rebel sympathizing friends very ... you in favor of arming the negroes to fight in defense of the Government? Certainly I am. I have in my hand the statutes passed by the Legislature of Tennessee, at its extra session of 1861. In this book I find a law, made by a rebel Legislature in secret conclave assembled, and presided over by King Isham Gulliver Harris, authorizing the Governor to enlist as many free persons of color, between the ages of fifteen and fifty, as he might in his discretion decide to be necessary. (Here the speaker read several sections of the law.) Now, you see, from this law, made by the same men who are so bitterly opposing enlisting negroes, that they not only authorized the Governor to enlist free negroes, but provided for the sheriffs of the various counties to conscript them into the rebel army. The rebels themselves say the war is to free the negro. I don't believe, ... that it is, but that it will ... result all must see. But, taking the rebels own word for it, and acknowledging they understand the subject, I am decidedly in favor of letting the negroes work out some part of their own salvation. I say arm them, and let them kill traitors.

The following resolutions were adopted by the meeting:

Resolved, That in the opinion of this meeting the restoration of civil law and order is indispensable to the security of persons and property, and to this end the re-establishment of the authority of the Federal Government over our State is a necessity.

Resolved, That an experience of the years of anarchy, confusion, and misrule, ... impresses us with the inestimable value of the ... we have lost, and the ... of the past ... taught us wisdom for the future—and if possible increased our attachment and devotion to our old Government, and we therefore earnestly desire the restoration of the Federal and State Governments over us as soon as possible, and pledge ourselves to make all honorable exertions to restore and maintain the supremacy of the Government of the United States.

Resolved, That as one, and in our opinion the best means to accomplish these objects, Gov. Johnson be requested to issue writs of election for members of the Legislature at the earliest day practicable.

NEGRO VOTERS IN NORTH CAROLINA.—Free negroes were permitted to vote in North Carolina until the amendment of the Constitution in 1835, when a prohibition was adopted. Senator Douglas, in the debate on the admission of Minnesota into the Union, stated, as a historical incident, (which was not contradicted by the North Carolina Senators present,) that a distinguished North Carolinian emancipated a large number of his own negroes in order to make them voters to elect him to the Legislature of the State.

KENTUCKY FINANCES.—The Auditor General of Kentucky has made a report which shows that the annual increase of expenditure since the war commenced, amounts to over ten millions of dollars, while the value of the taxable property upon which taxes are laid to supply the treasury has decreased one hundred and sixty-five millions of dollars.

FAME.—"What is fame?" asks a correspondent of the Boston Saturday Evening Gazette, who, writing from Nahant, tells the following amusing anecdote: "A couple from the rural districts were stopping here a few weeks ago, and expressed a desire to see all the 'sights,' among others, 'them big fellars they heard tell on.' They were sitting on the piazza of the hotel, one evening, watching the passers by and inquiring who they were. A gentleman was passing, when some one said to them, 'That is Professor Longfellow, of whom you doubtless have heard.' 'Oh, yes,' replied ... 'is he going to give one o' his performances here to-night?' 'I don't understand, sir.' 'That ain't the one,' said ... 'that's the feller that makes poetry!'"

MR. PRENTICE, of the Louisville Journal, was at Stevenson, Ala., on August 21st, and states that a little before noon on that day General Rosecrans, accompanied by members of his staff and his little son, ... Bridgeport, where the ... bridge over the Tennessee was destroyed. While he was there, a rebel sharpshooter fired at him across the river, five hundred and fifty or six hundred yards, the ball striking the body of a tree ... and another ... at his son, ... two feet of the gallant little fellow.

The officers of the steamer Forest City, ... [illegible]

A gossip monger at Saratoga writes:—"Mrs. Banks, (who is here), cannot be called a handsome woman, but she is 'comely,' dresses well, and has wit as keen as her husband's sword. Some stupid fool ventured to ask her what she would do if the General was killed. 'Go and work for my living, as I did before I married him,' was the ready reply of the lady.
