SUDDEN DEATH.—On Monday evening last, our citizens were startled by the announcement that Thos. G. Nott, well known in this vicinity, had died suddenly in his tailoring shop, on Fourth street, below Market, from injuries received from being thrown from a buggy. It appears that Mr. Nott had gone to Northumberland in the 4.10 p. m. train to transact business, and on his return, got into a buggy with Messrs Andrew and Gingerich to drive home. On turning the corner of Front and Market streets, in this place, Mr. Nott was heard to caution the driver not to turn short, as they would upset. The driver, however did not heed the advice, and the buggy upturned, threw the occupants out, and Mr. Nott, falling upon a stone or plank, was injured internally. Several persons assisted them in getting their buggy all right, when they got in again, and drove up Market street to the livery stable. During all this time Mr. Nott did not complain of any injury except a pain within or about the eye. He went to the butcher shop where he procured a fresh piece of beef to put on his eye, and from thence went to his shop. Upon his arrival there, he told Miss Sophia Rake, who worked for him, that he felt sick, and was chilly. He laid down upon the board, and requested to be covered up, and that his limbs be rubbed, remarking, "I believe this will be the last of me." Miss Rake attended him until he appeared quiet, and not apprehending any danger left him alone for a short time. On her return she discovered that he was insensible, and at once called a physician, who, on his arrival, pronounced him dead. The body was then taken to his residence in Purdytown, where a post mortem examination was made on Tuesday by Drs. Krebs, Martin, Fisher and Malick, whose report we publish below.

A report was published in one of our papers, that his death resulted from excessive drinking. This is not the fact, and the report of the physicians prove it incorrect. We are reliably informed that Mr. Nott was sober when the accident happened.

Mr. Nott was one of our best mechanics, a law-abiding and good citizen, a man with a true heart, honest and upright. Like all men, he had his faults, but they did the most serious injury to himself.

His remains were interred on Thursday last, and were followed to their last resting place by the Lance and Shield Conclave S. P. K., the order of I. O. of R. M., and the entire Fire Department of the place, he being a member of Steam Fire Co. No. 1. The following is the report of the post mortem examination:

We, the undersigned, having held a post mortem examination upon the body of Thos. G. Nott, twenty hours after death, report the following: External appearances—Upon the left side of the face, and underneath the left eye, was an ecchymosed spot about two and one-half inches in length, and half an inch in diameter. Also one over the left supra orbital ridge, about one inch in length, and one inch in diameter. The dorsal surface of both hands was bruised. On the left leg, upon the middle part of the thigh, and over the middle of the tibia, and upon the lower third of the thigh of the right leg were ecchymosed spots. No bones were fractured. Internal Appearances—In examining the thorax, the lungs were in a collapsed condition. The blood vessels were entirely empty. The abdominal cavity contained a large amount of venus blood. Upon the under surface of the right lobe of the liver was found a rupture of one inch in length, in direct communication with the hepatic veins. Cause of death was internal hemorrhage—from above described rupture of the liver.

LECTURE.—Ex-Gov. Pollock delivered a lecture on Monday evening at the Court House for the benefit of the Presbyterian Sunday School. The subject was a trip to the Golden Shores of the Pacific over the Union Pacific Road to San Francisco. The lecture was delivered in a familiar, conversational style, without notes, and the narrative of events, was listened to with great attention and interest by a respectable and large audience, considering the inclemency of the evening. The lecturer's reference to the Chinese population, which is about 10,000 in San Francisco, was full of interest. Like all impartial observers, he gives the celestials an excellent character for industry, and as faithful servants, but their idolatry, squalor and pig-headedness, is marvellous. His description of their absurd and idolatrous modes of worship in their temples from 8 to 2 o'clock at night, were contrasted with the pure and simple forms of the Christian Church. He related the fact that one of the Chinese worshippers was commissioned to proceed to China, and purchase wooden gods for a handsome new temple just erected. He took with him about $15,000 in gold for that purpose, but concluded on reaching the "flowery kingdom" to make better use of the money, and keep it for his own benefit. Concluding not to risk any more money in that way, they employed Yankee artizans at San Francisco to make their gods. The lecturer's description of the vast wealth and style of living in California was full of interest, as was also the description of some of the gold mines visited, the income of some reaching from one to three millions annually.

AN ELOPEMENT.—On Saturday last, a young man named Miller, and a young woman named Osborne, took flight from the paternal roof in Lewisburg, Union county, and proceeded as far as Georgetown, this county, where they at once set out in search of some suitable individual clothed in authority, to tie the connubial knot, and render them 'one in flesh.' But ere they could make even the preliminary arrangements the stern 'parient' of the truant daughter, put in an appearance, and raised objections to their proceedings, thus frustrating the plans of the recreant pair. On the appearance of the 'parient' the daughter plead to be allowed to share her future with her dear 'lovier,' whose company she had courted for at least eighteen months. But 'parient' was obstinate, and bid her follow him, which request she refused. A warrant was then procured, and the lothario was arrested for some offense committed at Lewisburg. When 'lovier' was once in the custody of an officer, the young maiden, true to her devotion, consented to return with her 'sweet young man' to Lewisburg on Sunday.

This is once again illustrative of the fact that love laughs at 'smith locks and stone walls.' There is no use! Parents might as well yield consent, and save themselves trouble. All opposition amounts to about as much as an effort to make two locomotives pass on the same track. We know of a case of love which happened in our county prison, not many years ago, in which the sheriff, the turnkey and iron bars, failed in preventing two loving hearts from meeting, even in that iron bound institution, at the dead hour of midnight.

A FIRE AT KLINES GROVE.—On Wednesday night, the residence of Ashley Lawrence, at Klinesgrove, in Upper Augusta township, was destroyed by fire. The family were asleep. Between 12 and 1 o'clock, Mr. Lawrence was awakened by the cries of the youngest child, and found his room full of smoke. On proceeding down stairs, he found the lower part of the building in a sheet of flames. Mr. Lawrence was severely burnt about the head in rescuing his family who barely escaped. All the furniture and clothing were consumed, and the family left in a destitute condition.

GAMBLING.—We are reliably informed of the existence of several gambling holes in this place, and that steps will be inaugerated by the ladies to root them out. We rejoice to see such a move made, and hope that the ladies having the matter in hand will not be deterred from a duty which will be a blessing to many poor families. While strong drink has ruined thousands of families, we know many young men, married and single, who having lost all at the gameing table, and having robbed their families became despondent and fell by trying to drown grief, sought the bottle containing the liquid of destruction of body and soul and sank into debauchery. We would say to the ladies that a crusade against gambling hells is just as important as a crusade against the low grog shops.—Such an effort will not only meet the approbation of every honest man and woman, but will be rewarded by the prayers of many a poor mother and children whose husband and father is given to the weakness of visiting the gameing tables.

THE store of C. S. Hazeltine is again open, all the financial difficulties having been adjusted. Mr. Hazeltine has proved himself worthy of the confidence of the citizens in his transactions in contending against panic times.

ASSOCIATE JUDGESHIP.—The following reply to a letter to His Excellency Gov. Hartranft, will settle the question as to the appointment of an associate to fill the vacancy occasioned by the death of Judge Welker:

[FOR THE AMERICAN.]

Filled with "Good Resolutions."

Mr. Wilvert:

With the exception of a few croakers against a woman's lecturing, the general assent was that the lecture of Mrs. Legget was exceedingly good. Especially are we pleased at the high compliments passed upon it by the Sunbury Daily. It says "it was at once grand, eloquent, deep, inspiring—filling the listener, if he or she contained but a lingering spark of manhood or womanhood, with good resolutions." We have not the shadow of a doubt as to the sincerity or unselfishness of the editor's statement, as we don't think he was either courting office or patronage, knowing that the lecturers would not likely vote his ticket, or become permanent patrons.

But the editor left a fine point of moral philosophy in chaos, of which we would like an explanation. If a lingering spark may be the foundation of "good resolutions," what quantity is sufficient to put those "resolutions" into action? Then even some wag might ask whether it is actually a trait of "true manhood" to make good resolutions and break them, or whether it is the fruit of St. James' "double minded man."

I wonder what king Agrippa thinks by this time of the "good resolutions" with which he was filled during St. Paul's grand lecture on the resurrection. But these are queries. The inference is, a crop. The conditions have been fulfilled. The lecture, the seed sown; the soil, the "lingering sparks of manhood;" the blossoms, "good resolutions." When shall we see the fruit? No doubt many of the "hearers" went away charged with these resolutions, as a leaden jar, and now woe to local optionists when they explode. Shall we look to the Daily for the first pop? If fruits fail to follow, may we not, in your next issue, try to give some reasons?

BUCKEYE.

UPPER AUGUSTA, April 15, 1874.

American:

The Golden Wedding of CHARLES and MARY ROBINS, was duly observed at the residence of their son-in-law, Philip Frank, on the 12th inst. They were surrounded by all their living children, and a number of grand-children. Excepting their relatives, none were present but a few who had known them in their single days, more than half a century ago. Such old, gray-headed semi-antediluvians as John Moore, of Snydertown, John Frank, Jacob R. Clark and George Zimmerman. After partaking of an excellent dinner, listening to an appropriate address, and discussing the passing events of the nineteenth century, the company presented the venerable couple with a neat little donation of greenbacks, with their best wishes for their present and future welfare.

The old couple have been church members more than half a century. Mr. Robins belongs to the United Brethren. Mrs. Robins joined the Shamokin Baptist Church, in 1814, 60 years ago, and is the oldest living member thereof. When the final summons comes, may they be ready to join the church triumphant.

ELAM.

As an evidence of returning prosperity of the business interests of the Country, the New York papers notice the full resumption of the "Domestic" Sewing Machine Co. We quote from the "World," of March 24th:

THE "DOMESTIC" RESUMES.

The Domestic Sewing Machine Company, which in common with so many other business establishments was forced into a temporary suspension during the course of the panic, has recently been enabled to resume in full. Its assets have at all times been more than sufficient to meet all its liabilities, and its original capital stock has never been in any way imperilled; but the general tightness and stagnation of three months ago, forced it into a temporary difficulty which was magnified at the time into something more serious than it really was. All that it ever asked of its creditors was a trifling extension of time, proposing to pay all obligations in full, principal and interest. This was promptly and cheerfully granted, and the result was shown that the confidence in the management of the Company was not misplaced, for their business goes on as heretofore. A statement of their affairs show that over and above all liabilities they have their entire capital stock of $1,000,000 unimpaired. Heretofore they have manufactured all their machines in Providence, R. I., but hereafter their principal manufactory will be in Newark, N.J. Their paper fashion department is conducted in the new building of the Company, at the corner of Fourteenth Street and Broadway. 1t.

The People's Vegetable Tonic is playing the mischief with his bitters fired with rum.
