SUNBURY, MARCH 10, 1876.

Local Affairs.

WM. A. BALDWIN, Esq., superintendent of the Philadelphia and Erie R. R., started in a special train on Tuesday for California.

MR. DILL introduced in the Senate, on Tuesday last, an act to repeal an act entitled "An act to incorporate the Sunbury steam ferry and tow boat company," approved April 5, 1870.

WM. REESE announces himself a public auctioneer in another column. Reese makes a good auctioneer.

THE chicken thieves who made away with about half a dozen of Dr. Awl's chickens, on Saturday night, are invited to take the coop, as he has no further use for it.

ALL Wanamaker & Brown's woolens are sponged in the piece, on the premises, 6th and Market, Philadelphia.

COMMERCIAL COLLEGE.—Prof. J. F. Davis, of Williamsport, proposes to establish, at this place, a branch of his Commercial college, and we hope our citizens will give him all the encouragement they can to make it a success. Prof. Davis is known to many in this vicinity, and as a teacher stands in the front rank. A Commercial college, in this place, is much needed, and will be a creditable addition to our town.

THE "oldest inhabitant" says that when March comes in like a lion it goes out like a lamb; but, as the Dutchman says, "Sometimes he comes in like a lion and goes out like der tuyfel."

EVERYBODY who has kindly feelings towards us will please bear in mind that "it is better to give than to receive."

"PULL down your vest" is the latest slang phrase when you want a man to shut his mouth.

KILLED IN THE MINES.—Jacob Ricke, Jr., a miner, was killed in the mines, at Short mountain, Dauphin county, on Wednesday of last week.

THOSE of our subscribers within the county who are indebted to us for subscription, &c., will greatly oblige us by sending the money with their neighbors next week who may come here to attend court, if they do not come themselves. There will be a good opportunity, as there will be parties attending court from every part of the county.

We publish in another part of this issue the County Auditor's report as a news item. The Democratic board of commissioners are not as liberal as the Republicans were when in power. The latter published their report in papers circulating over the whole county, while the present board is confining its publication to papers that circulate only in one part of the county. The people in other parts of the county are presumed, by the commissioners, not entitled to know how the county does stand, financially. We publish the report for the benefit of those the Democrats think are not entitled to the information.

INFORMATION WANTED.—Catharine Etzweiler, wife of Levi Ditty, deceased, and daughter of Daniel Etzweiler, of Jefferson township, left the home of her parents, with whom she was living, some time in June last, on foot, to cross the mountain to Lykens. She said she was going to Germany and has not since been heard of. The missing woman is about 45 years of age, and shows occasional indications of an unsound mind. Any information concerning her whereabouts will be thankfully received by Peter Etzweiler, Enterline P. O., Dauphin county, Pa.—Lykens Register.

WHERE TO GET CHOICE SEEDS.—By referring to our advertising columns, it will be seen that Dr. C. M. Martin & Co. have received, at their drug store, on Third street, the choicest flower and vegetable seeds of the season. We can speak of James Vick's seeds by experience, as we have thoroughly tested them, and always found them the best that could be found in our market. Mr. Vicks has made it a rule not to send seeds abroad unless they were of the best, and the longer he continues in business the more popular he becomes. He has probably a larger variety of flower seeds than can be found elsewhere, and a general assortment of them may be had at Dr. Martin & Co.'s drug store.

In the counties of Schuylkill, Northumberland, Columbia and Dauphin the number killed, maimed and the number of widows and orphans made in consequence was 4,536 the past seven years. The largest number of casualties were in Schuylkill county, 564 having been killed and 1,667 maimed. The number killed and maimed in Northumberland county was 245 and in Columbia 79. In the several counties the number of fatal casualties from falls of coal was 216, from falling rock and slate 43, from falls into shafts and slope 69, from falls of timber 18, from explosions of fire-damp 101, powder 25, blasts and shots 24 and steam boilers 13, crushed by timbers, wagons, etc., 68, falling off slope and shaft cages 14, breaking of ropes and chains 20, crushed in wheels and machinery 20, crushed in rollers 21, suffocated by noxious gases 8, injured by animals 8, and eight miscellaneous accidents, making a total number of deaths of 735. The number maimed and injured was 2,089. The number of widows was 382 and orphans 1,420.

A SHOOTING MATCH came off at Dewart, on Thursday of last week, for a purse of $65, which was divided into four prizes, viz: $40, $20 and $5. The following is the score:

PERSONAL.—We refer our readers to the card of J. S. Cummings, Esq., in another column, who is located permanently in this place. Mr. Cummings has had extensive experience in the insurance business, and comes well recommended. In the Cameron County Press we find the following notice of his departure from that place:

WILL LEAVE US.—We regret to learn that J. S. Cummings is about to leave us and Sunbury his future home. During his stay here Mr. Cummings has made a host of friends and our citizens generally will regret his departure. He is a high-toned honorable business man and will be popular anywhere. Mr. Cummings intends to continue in the insurance business, and if any where there is a larger field than Sunbury for a live insurance man we heartily commend him to the citizens thereof.

The Adjourned Court Proceedings.

REPORTED BY E. C. GOBIN.

Considerable interest was manifested in the case of James M. Peist vs. the Philadelphia and Reading R. R. Co., on trial this week, in action of assumpsit. Mr. Pettit, the plaintiff, was a conductor on the P. & R. railroad for seven years, and ran between Philadelphia and Pottsville. He was suspected of appropriating the company's funds to his own use. The President of the road, Mr. Smith, employed Pinkerton's detective force to "hunt it up." After six different trials, it appears the evidence, through the detectives, was pretty conclusive that all was not right. Mr. Pettit was then summoned before Mr. Smith, Mr. Nicholas and Allen Pinkerton, the detective, at the office of the President of the company, and charged with the crime. Before the plaintiff was allowed to depart, the defendants allege that Mr. Pettit voluntarily agreed, and did refund, eighteen thousand dollars in bonds, with the understanding that no criminal proceedings should be brought against him. He was then discharged from the company's employ.

After the expiration of two years, Mr. Pettit brought an action against Mr. Smith, personally, for the recovery of the money, in the Lancaster county court, but was defeated. He then brought this action against the company. The plaintiff alleges that the money was obtained from him by threats of prison or criminal prosecution. Upon his examination he swore positively that the money used in purchasing the bonds did not belong to the railroad company, but he declined answering whether or not he had appropriated any of the company's funds to his own use.

The extravagant manner of Mr Pettit's living created the suspicion that he was rather fast. It was given in evidence that he sported a four hundred and fifty dollar breast pin, was the owner of a horse that he sold for two thousand dollars, and lived in an eleven thousand dollar house, while receiving a salary not exceeding seventy-two dollars per month.

In rebuttal to the above, the plaintiff testified that he had been dealing in stock, more or less, since 1870, and related several instances in which he made profitable "dickers" on watches and chains.

We will not express an opinion, but the above is the principal evidence in the case. Gen. Clement for plaintiff and Frank B. Gowen and S. P. Wolverton for defendant.

The jury in the above case, returned a verdict, on Wednesday evening, in favor of the defendants.

AN ATTEMPT TO BREAK JAIL.—On Tuesday last before dinner, a little son of Sol. Malick, Esq., noticed that a prisoner was digging a hole through the jail wall, and at once apprised Sheriff Strine. The Sheriff, on entering the jail yard, found Helt, the prisoner who attempted last week to break jail, had filed off his hobbles, and had nearly completed an aperture about seven feet from the ground through the outside wall to escape. The prisoner was at once locked up in the building, and workmen procured to close up the chasm. Helt had two pieces from an iron bedstead to dig with, and if he had not been discovered in the course of half an hour longer there would have been a general jail delivery, as but little more work was required to complete the hole for the largest sized prisoner to escape through. There are twenty-five prisoners confined in the jail, who entertained the workmen repairing the wall with an original song called "The Northumberland County Jail." The Democrat, who kept electioneering with the grand jurors against building a new jail a few years ago on political grounds, should have an invitation extended to him to attend the concerts held by the prisoners now confined in that institution. It might remind him of bygone days. The present board of Commissioners are pushing ahead the work of building a new structure as rapidly as possible.

COMMITTED FOR LIFE.—Barney McCue, the murderer of John Decter, whose career out of prison was a remarkable one, and who, since his arrest, had a still more remarkable experience, was on Thursday morning taken by Sheriff Piatt to the Eastern Penitentiary at Philadelphia. The prisoner was twice sentenced to be hung, and has faced the murderer's doom since the date of the killing, in October, 1874. Through the unrelenting efforts of firm friends, and after months of anxiety and suspense, the Board of Pardons finally, in December, 1875, commuted the death sentence to imprisonment for life. But a further delay kept Barney in the county prison until last week, when official notification was received by the Sheriff to convey the prisoner to the abode where his life will be hid from the world, and where, within the cold walls of the penitentiary, the doomed man will find a living tomb.

A large crowd of persons was assembled on Third and Pine streets to witness the departure of McCue, and many curious eyes were upon the man thus doomed. Barney, on emerging from the jail, knocked the ashes out of a pipe he had been smoking, and with a farewell gaze upon the prison entrance, descended the steps, walking with a firm step, by the side of the Sheriff. He had been shaved previous to leaving his cell, and presented a very reputable appearance, though long confinement had bleached his face very much. He has for several weeks past expressed a desire to go to his new home, stating that the dull monotony of jail life was disagreeable, and that he preferred employing himself at some avocation, which he will be favored with in its fullest extent, at hard labor within the solid walls of the Eastern Penitentiary.—Williamsport Sunday Times, March 5th.

DISTRICT INSTITUTE.—Institute was called to order by the President, Mr. Boal, at 9½ o'clock. Roll called and minutes of previous meeting read and approved. On motion of Ziegler the following resolution was passed: Resolved, That Rev. Mr. DeMoyer be invited to read his lecture on "the bible, the true basis of all education." Mr. Hower first dealt with algebra, dwelling principally upon the subject of equations. Assigned for next lesson the subject from transportation to problems with solution of examples. Rev. DeMoyer next entertained the institute. The remarks made were well chosen, able and effectually delivered. On motion of W. J. Wolverton, a vote of thanks was tendered Rev. DeMoyer for the able manner in which he entertained the Institute. The subject of arithmetic was dispensed with for the discussion of subjects relating to pupils collecting in the streets in front of school buildings before school hours. The discussion was lively, and, no doubt, had the desired effect. Adjourned to meet at 1¾ o'clock. Institute met at 1¾ o'clock. Roll called and absentees noted. Miss Fisher first entertained the Institute by reading an interesting and well prepared essay. Another teacher then took the floor, and, in the form of an essay, tried to point out some of the faults of other teachers. One was tall, slim and not very straight; another leaned back in his chair and chewed his tooth pick too much; another worked too much at his finger nails in the presence of ladies, and one gentleman had no faults at all. Mr. Ziegler then read two articles, the first entitled "the civilization of lies," the second "why the teaching of the public schools should have an industrial element." On motion, a resolution was passed to elect teachers to prepare essays for next meeting. Mr. Boal then conducted an exercise in reading. The following topics were assigned to be dealt with at next meeting: algebra, arithmetic, geography, grammar, a. m. Essays, reading by Mr. Wolverton and Mr. Kerns, orthography, p. m. Adjourned to meet in two weeks.

HERNDON, PA., March 6th, 1876.

Messrs. Editors American: On Tuesday eve., 29th ult., the Herndon Literary Society convened in the room of the High School. The meeting was called to order with the president (Mr. Wolf) in the chair. Minutes of previous meeting were read and approved. Roll called and nearly all members responded to their names. Debate was lively.

The question "Resolved, That woman should have a voice in governmental affairs," was taken up and ably sustained on the affirmative by Messrs. Lair, Israel and Kniss, and on the negative by Messrs. Kaufman, Showers and Wolverton. The chair rendered decision in favor of the affirmative. Being an unfinished business meeting, the report of the treasury investigating committee was solicited, and reporting favorable, was discharged.

The referred questions were next called for, which were ably answered.

Instructions in the elements of music was given by F. A. Lair, which was very satisfactory.

This was followed by instructions in mathematics by J. B. Kaufman, who, after making a few remarks, showed the importance of the study of fractions. After which the society adjourned to meet, Tuesday eve., March 7th.
