LIFE INSURANCE.

WE are told that he who neglects to provide for his household is worse than the heathen. There is no doubt of it. When in health the provident man will provide for his change and when that health is lost no prudence should prepare for solace in the dark day, for the hour when the sympathy of friends is a sounding brass. This can be done by Life Insurance. Every man owes this duty to his family. The uncertainty of life is a sound lesson which proves the fact that he who to-day walks in the pride of manhood, may fall to-morrow, and the plans by which riches and honors were to have been brought to the loved ones, vanish as the morning mists. Let every man in health insure in his family the comfort of knowing that what should be he called from them the wolf may be kept from the door.

The United States Life Insurance & Trust Co. effect this end. For pamphlets, terms and general information on the subject, refer to

"Unquestionably the best sustained Work of the kind in the World."

HARPER'S MAGAZINE.

THE most popular Monthly to the world.—New York Observer.

No Magazine in Europe or America is so well known; none has half as many readers; and, we may safely say, none has received so large a tribute of admiration from the cultivated classes. It is delightful in a healthy, diversified, elevating periodical literature. It is the foremost Magazine of the day. The firmament never had a more delightful companion, nor the million a more entertaining friend, than Harper's Magazine.—Methodist Protestant, (Baltimore.)

Twenty-five cents buys it—the cheapest richest, and most lasting luxury for the money that we know. Three dollars secures it for one year, and what three dollars ever went so far? Put the same amount in clothes, eating, drinking, furniture, and how much of a substantial thing is obtained? Ideas, facts, and sentiments have a monetary value—above all, it the humor that refreshes the pleasantries that bring a gentle smile, and brighten the passage of a truth to your brain, and the happy combination of the real and the imaginative in a manner which no one can deny is life above the mark, are to be put into the scale opposite to dollars and cents, then you may be certain, that if Harper were three or four times as dear, it would amply repay its price. It is a Magazine proper, with the idea and purpose of a Magazine—not a book, not a scientific treatise, nor even a supplier of light gossip and chitchat miscellanies—but a Magazine that takes every form of interesting, dignified and attractive literature in its grasp.—Southern Times.

The volumes bound constitute of themselves a library of miscellaneous reading, such as cannot be found in the same compass in any other publication that has come under our notice.—Courier.

Unquestionably it is the best sustained work of the kind in the language, that is to say, in the world. The selected specially essays from the Editor's Table are above praise. The present number is equal to any yet issued, and there is no reason to doubt a long career of prosperity to the work.—N. Y. Christian Advocate and Journal.

We must refer in terms of eulogy to the high tone and varied excellences of Harper's Magazine, a journal with a monthly circulation of about 170,000 copies, in whose pages are to be found some of the choicest light and general reading of the day. We speak of the work as an evidence of the American people, and the popularity it has acquired is merited. For 18 number contents fully 144 pages of instructive matter, appropriately illustrated with good wood cuts; and it continues to merit the rare monthly and the more philosophical quarterly, blended with the best features of the daily journal. It has great power in the creation and dissemination of a love of pure literature.—Trubner's Guide to American Literature, London 1859.

TERMS:

The Magazine may be obtained of Booksellers, Periodical Agents, or from the Publishers, at Three Dollars a year, or Twenty-Five Cents a Number. The semi-annual volumes, as completed, neatly bound in cloth, are sold at Two Dollars each; and muslin Covers are furnished to those who wish their back numbers uniformly bound, at Twenty-Five Cents each. Nineteen volumes are now ready, bound in Cloth, and also in Half Calf.

The Publishers will supply Specimen Numbers gratuitously to Agents and Postmasters, and will make liberal arrangements with them for extending the Magazine. They will also supply clubs of Young persons at Five Dollars a year, of five persons at Ten Dollars, Clergymen and Teachers supplied at Two Dollars a year. Numbers from the commencement can now be supplied. Also, the bound Volumes.

HARPER'S WEEKLY.

Price Five Cents a Number; $2 50 per year.

[From the N. Y. Evening Post, 1859.]

HARPER'S WEEKLY.—The fifty-two numbers of this attractive and entertaining pictorial journal issued during the last year have been gathered in a single volume and now that we see them together, we are surprised at the variety, the sprightliness, and the value of the contents. There is a complete history of not only the public events of the year—there is ample food for information on the leading topics of the day, and the editorial leadings (not always trivial however, but profoundly instructive) of the Lounger—there are the serial stories of Bulwer, Dickens, Thackeray, &c.—there are the records of political, social, and literary life, and there are those striking essays and sketches of the contemporary manners and characters, and of emotions and counsels—in short, there is in this single volume, and in the best form, a complete picture of the world for the past year. It is a library, in itself—the old and those who are now entering on the business of life, should alike be interested in it. We should not forget to say that the illustrations are the best ever published in any American journal, and that the mechanical execution of the work is all that it should be. It is a work of which the publishers may be proud, and which they may place on their table with the certainty that it will be welcomed by every member of the family.—Boston Journal.

A fresh series of the first issue, including various popular serials, will commence upon the 1st instant, at the times, is elegantly written and instructive and amusing, and its also comprehensive. It commends itself to the middle class of society, and one that every month must pass. Its compound series is a treasury of information and humorous delineation, so varied and so comprehensive that it cannot be any other than a welcome visitor, in a form of preservation and binding it takes care of itself, deserves to be, and will be found in future years as welcome a companion for the family and fireside as the day on which it was first perused.—McConnellsville (O.) Inquirer.
