AST sisters prepare for annual pageant ABC hosts 'School Dayz' fashion show

We've got a homecoming king and queen, but now students have the chance to decide who will take home the crowns of Mr. and Ms. Penn State Behrend Pageant.

Sponsored by social sorority Alpha Sigma Tau, 20 contestants, 10 male and 10 female, have been battling all week in front of Bruno's to grab the top five spots on each side.

Each contestant has been engaged in a "change war." Students cut the field from 10 to five on each side by placing spare change and donations into cups in front of Bruno's. The five with the most money move on to the pageant.

AST sisters declined comment on which contestants were in the lead.

Students have the chance to see the final round Thursday at 7 p.m. in the McGarvey. The contestants will face off in beachwear, eveningwear and casualwear. At the end of these events, each will be asked a question. The answer will be factored into the decision of the judges.

Chris Fox and Christa Morris, from the Office of Student Activities, and Linda Lewis, former AST adviser, will be the judges.

The pageant is used by AST to raise money for the Pine Mountain Settlement School in Kentucky. All proceeds, including the $1 donation admission, will go to the school. AST is close to surpassing last year's estimated total of $250 to $300. With one day left in the "change war," the donation admission the total is already more than $200. Attendance last year was Adrienne Schermer, left and Dave Maslunas are the current Mr. and Ms. Penn State Behrend. The two will pass their crowns on this Thursday.

Members of the Association of Black Collegians have been planning the 7th annual Fashion Show since late February.

Event co-chair Pamela Sumah, INTBL/MKTG 04, said "We began recruiting through e-mails, word of mouth, posters, letters, meetings and painting the windows in Reed."

Evidently, their recruitment efforts worked, because 25 models participated in Thursday's fashion show.

The fashion show was modeled after Spike Lee's movie "School Dayz," and had eight different sections: club, sports, formal, pajama, international, business, swimsuit and street apparel.

"Last year's show was based on various movies and music videos," said co-chair Shikia Cuttino, MNGT/MKTG 08, "but we decided on just one movie this year, and highlighting the various aspects of it."

Clothes for the evening were donated by Buckle, David's Bridal, Wilson's Leather and Steve and Berry's, which specializes in sports apparel.

Last year's event drew about 150 students, and the chairs hope that this year the numbers hit around 200. The event was funded through SAF.

ABC uses this event as a recruitment
