Root Crops for Milch Cows.

Every farmer who has cows should put in an acre of root crops for his cattle. There is plenty of time, if he wishes to try it, to prepare for this work. The effect of carrots, beets, parsnips and rutabega turnips upon the health of cows are undoubtedly good, and when, with other food, used alternately, or mixed together, will be found to add greatly to the productions of the dairy. Provide the necessary manures for them, and we will in due time give such hints as may be found useful to those not in the habit of saving these vegetables beyond the mere row or two in their gardens. Well rotted stable or barn yard manure, or bone dust and guano, are the necessary requirements for these crops, to raise them in the large quantities which, by proper treatment, they can be made to yield.

If a small lot which could be spared for artichokes was put in cultivation the result would pay well; but as it is almost impossible to get them out of the ground when once planted, the lot must be considered as permanently devoted to them. Sandy land is best for them; manure with say twenty loads of stable or barn yard manure per acre, half to be spread broad-cast and plowed in, and the other half to be applied in the rows. The land should be fully prepared, the same as for ains of the sidewalk merchants as nuisances.

—A little boy was recently sent by express from Boston to Pittsburg.

—Holy Springs, Miss., has two jug factories and one temperance society.

—Kansas has 1500 miles of railroad completed and is making more.

—Jersey City firemen steal chickens and cook them in the engine houses.

fall, after harvesting, be allowed to root in the lot, and they will indulge to their heart's content, without any ceremony, and still enough seed or roots will be left without replanting; the moisture in the root is sufficient for the hogs without water; but a little salt, ashes or charcoal would add to their health and growth. An acre cultivated as advised ought to yield 400 or 500 bushels. The quantity for seed per acre is 12 to 15 bushels, cut into sets as potatoes are.

Color and Warmth in Soils.

I have long been looking for something in regard to the color in soils in agricultural papers, and have tried an experiment with the common thermometer, covering it with white muslin and then with black, showing eight degrees difference; but I think, with some better mode of trying the experiment, say by marking the scale on the tube and painting boxes the color of different soils, and new straw, etc., it would show fifteen to twenty degrees in the open air. If so, such black substance as muck, soot, and others, composted and dried, so that it may be applied easily like plaster, would be very beneficial to corn and its kindred, and also the plants from southern latitudes in a cold spring, or with new straw and light colored substances as a mulch about peach trees, to keep them back from blossoming until after frost, in a warm and growing spring. This theory will make plain the conflicting statements—by one, that muck is very beneficial as a fertilizer, probably on light colored soils—and by another, that it is not worth applying or does not pay. Place a black chip or some soot on a piece of ice on a fine winter day, and see how soon it will find its way down. Now wait till the air and sun are much warmer, throw out an armful of bright straw or new shavings, and note how many more days the snow remains under these than where the dark soil is plown among the snow. I trust farmers will take notice, and report progress next season.—Correspondence of Western Rural.

THE BEST PLACE FOR A HORSE.—"Gossiper" in the "Rural World," says: "Winter or Summer, except in a stormy time, there is no place so comfortable for colts or tired work horses as a good pasture lot. To tie up a horse at night in a narrow cell, with a plank floor to stand on, is a specimen of cruelty that civilization ought to be ashamed of. If the poor animal must be confined like a convict in a dungeon, for pity's sake let him have his head, and give him at least twelve feet square, with a soft dry floor to stand or lie on. In the large cities land is worth more money than horses; but on the farm there is no excuse for any such wicked economy. Ask the horse what he wants, and he will tell you that a place where he can walk around, lie down and stretch his tired limbs, and roll over from one side to the other, gives him more ease and comfort, after a day of hard work, than the most costly plank stalls, with all the accomplishments of curry combs, stiff bristle brushes, rubber clothes and dexterous hostlers that can be produced.

A NEW HORSE SHOE.—Among the useful inventions we noticed at the late Fair was a new style of horse shoe, made and patented by Henry R. Hitner of Marble Hall, of this State. It consists of two parts, the first a plain curved plate, without calks, which is fastened to the hoofs with nails, in the usual way, and to this plate the shoe proper, with dull calks is attached by means of screws. By this arrangement a horse can always be provided with sharp calks, in icy times with little trouble. The idea strikes us as excellent, and we thind it worthy the attention of horsemen.—Doylestown Demoerat.

SULPHUR FOR LICE ON CATTLE.—How shall we kill lice on our cattle? I have tried almost all the panacens I have seen recommended. Some of them have proved beneficial, while others, kerosene oil, for instance—were worse than the disease. I have settled upon the following, which has proved entirely satisfactory to me. Fill the hair full of sulphur, rubbing it in thoroughly with the hand; and give the animal a little internally, with its meal or salt. Two or three applications have always effected a cure.—New England Farmer.

THE EGG TRADE.—Few persons understand the magnitude of the egg trade of New York City. The receipts for nine months of 1869 averaged one thousand barrels per day. A barrel contains about 80 dozen, or 960 eggs; the aggregate, therefore, was in one day nearly a million. One thousand barrels of eggs, at an average price of 30 cents pe dozen, amounts to $24,000 per day, or $8,790,000 per annum.

JINKS says although he eats but once a day, still declares he has three meals—rye meal, Indian meal, and mealy potatoes.

The sight of the aged assisted, the weak strengthened and the perfect preserved.

PHILADELPHIA OPTICAL INSTITUTE,
For the manufacturing of
CONCAVE CONVEX, CRYSTAL LENSES, LONDON SMOKED AND TINTED GLASS FOR WEAK OR INFLAMED EYES.

The Concave Convex Crystal Spectacles, made by the above institute are now a long time before the public, and the rapid and increased demand for them combined with the universal acknowledgment of their clearness in vision and ease to the eye, shows plainly that they are superior to any other glasses in the market.

The majority of Spectacles, (mostly imported) and no matter how fine the frames, contain but a poor and worthless article of glasses, (generally cast or pressed;) they are made to be sold only, without any calculation respecting benefit to the eye, and therefore the great complaint of poor and weak sight. Thousands are using glasses now which tire and fatigue the eye, where the objects get dim after short usage, or require an intensely strong light and therefore destroying the sight, which, were they properly suited, would be preserved a life time.

The advantages claimed for the Concave Convex Crystal Glasses are the following:

The Lenses are ground of the best material, pure and hard, and made only for optical purposes, they are therefore not liable to get scratched or dim.

They confer a brilliancy and distinctness of vision not found in any other glass.

They can be used equally well by day or candle light without tiring or fatiguing the eyes.

They are ground mathematically true in the concave convex mirror, according to the philosophy of nature, and shape of corners of the eye, therefore assisting nature only instead of forcing it.

That the lenses are centered correct into the frames.

They can be used longer than any other glasses without changing to a higher power.

The frames are made strong and durable by experienced workmen and warranted to give satisfaction.

WM. A. CHAMBERLIN,
Dealer in Watches, Jewelry and Silver Ware, Towanda, Pa., has the sole Agency for these glasses in Bradford county. No Pedlers employed.

They will be assisted by excellent and experienced teachers in all the departments.

The courses of instruction are Preparatory and Graduating English, Normal, Commercial, Scientific Classical and Ornamental.

The Preparatory is designed to thoroughly qualify the smaller pupils for the studies of the English Graduating Course, which comprises all academic studies, languages excepted.

Students in the Commercial Departments have all the advantages of the best commercial schools in addition to thorough drill in necessary academic branches.

The Scientific Course in addition to the studies of the Graduating English, French and German, comprises special instruction in the Sciences illustrated by an excellent collection of Apparatus recently provided.

The first two years of the Classical Course are intended to prepare students well for College; the third year to fit for advanced classes in College or to combine classics with a special course in the Sciences.

The Ornamental, Modern Languages, Music, Drawing and Painting, will be taught by competent instructors.
