ing dispatch has just been received at Headquarters:

LOUISVILLE, Feb. 15.

To Major General McClellan:

Mitchell's division, by a forced march, reached the river at Bowling Green to-day, and are making a bridge to cross.

The enemy burnt the bridge at one o'clock in the morning, and were evacuating the place when he arrived.

(Signed) D. C. BUELL,
Brig. Gen. Commanding.

Ft. Donelson Taken

PARTICULARS OF THE FIGHT.

TERRIFIC FIGHTING.

Great Gallantry of the Union Troops.

The Stars and Stripes Waving Over its Ramparts.

LOSS HEAVY ON BOTH SIDES.

CAIRO, Feb. 16.—A special despatch to the St. Louis Democrat says that Commander Foote reached here at twelve o'clock last night, on board the gunboat Conestoga. He stormed Fort Donelson on Friday afternoon, with the gunboats St. Louis, Louisville, Pittsburg, Carondelet, Tyler and Conestoga. After fighting a little over an hour he withdrew.

Fifty-four were killed and wounded on our gunboats. Pilots Riley and Hinton being among the wounded.

Commander Foote, while standing on the pilot house of the St. Louis, his flag ship, was slightly wounded.

The St. Louis was hit by sixty-one shots. Two of the gunboats were disabled. The Tyler and Conestoga remained out of the range of the enemy's guns.

The line of battle was as follows:

The St. Louis on the right, next the Louisville, then the Pittsburg and the Carondelet on the left.

The enemy's firing was very accurate. They had three batteries, one near the water's edge, one fifty feet above this, and a third fifty feet above the second. The upper one mounted four eighteen pounders. This was held in reserve until our boats got within four hundred yards of the Fort.

Our fire was directed principally at the water battery. One of the enemy's guns burst and a number were dismounted.

The enemy could be seen carrying the dead out of the trenches.

All the gunboats were left up the Cumberland, except the Conestoga. She left there yesterday morning.

A rifled gun on the Carondelet burst, killing six men.

The rudder of the Pittsburg was shot away.

The mortar boats left here yesterday morning for Fort Donelson.

The above is gleaned from statements made by gentlemen who were aboard the St. Louis during the engagement.

Later.

A gentleman who left Fort Donelson yesterday, at 3 o'clock, P. M., and reached here at noon to-day, says that the fight had been going on all day yesterday. The right wing of the enemy's fortification were taken, and the stars and stripes were waving over them. The forces were breast to breast, and the fight was to be renewed.

Still Later.

CAIRO, Feb. 16.—The Steamer Minchaha arrived here from Fort Donelson, having left the fort at 5 o'clock last evening bringing a military mail and despatches, and one hundred and fifty of the wounded to the hospital at Paducah. The fight commenced on Thursday and was continued on Friday and Saturday. The fight during the latter day was desperate

The Illinois Eighteenth regiment suffered severely, and the Iowa Seventh regiment sustained considerable loss.

Swartz's battery, which was taken by the enemy, were re-captured by our men.

Two colonels were wounded, and two killed. The loss is heavy on both sides.

The upper fort was taken at four o'clock, and the Union flag now floats over it.

Our troops behaved with great gallantry.

The gunboats St. Louis, Louisville, and Pittsburg were disabled.

The Minehaha met the mortar boats at Paducah, going up.

Second Despatch.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 16.—Despatches received at head-quarters say that all the gunboats are pretty effectually disabled except one. Commander Foote was wounded twice but not fatally. The upper redoubt taken by our troops, commands Fort Donelson, and General Grant telegraphs that he would be able to capture the fort to-day. (Sunday.)

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 16, 6 P. M.—The city is wild with excitement, and rejoicing at the news just made public that the American flag waves over Fort Donelson.

The loss is heavy on both sides.

One of Gen. Grant's batteries was taken by the rebels, but was re-captured by our troops.

The gunboats are said to be badly damaged.

FROM MISSOURI.

Retreat of the Rebels from Springfield

Capture of Gen. Price's Rear Guard.

The Road Strewn with Wagons, Baggage, &c.

Gen. Curtis has more Prisoners than he knows what to do with.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 16.

Gen. Halleck has received despatches from Gen. Curtis, stating that General Price's rear guard was overtaken by the pursuit from Springfield, and after a brief resistance the rebels fled, leaving the road strewn with wagons, baggage, &c. Gen. Curtis reports having taken more prisoners than he knew what to do with.

CAPTURE OF SAVANNAH.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17, 2 P. M.—Official dispatches have been received from General Sherman, announcing the capture of Savannah.

LATER.

15,000 TAKEN PRISONERS.

Capture of Generals Buckner, Pillow, and Johnston.

The Official Announcement.

A Thief Can't be a Bold Man.

GEN. FLOYD "STOLE" HIMSELF AWAY.

He is Denounced as a Black-Hearted Traitor and Coward.

30,000 REBELS IN THE FORT.

5,000 Rebels Escaped, and the Balance Killed.

OUR LOSS TERRIBLY SEVERE.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 17.—Despatches received from Gen. Grant to Gen. Halleck announce the surrender of Fort Donelson with fifteen thousand prisoners, including Generals Johnston, Buckner and Pillow.

ANOTHER DESPATCH.

CINCINNATI, Feb. 17.—Fort Donelson was captured yesterday. Generals Buckner and Pillow, with fifteen thousand rebels, are among the prisoners.

AN OFFICIAL DESPATCH.

WASHINGTON, Feb. 17.—Gen. McClellan has received a despatch fully confirming the news of the capture of Fort Donelson.

OFFICIAL ACCOUNTS OF THE FIGHT.

ST. LOUIS, Feb. 17.—Further official advices from Fort D ... say that Gen. Floyd made his escape during the night, and the rebels in the fort denounced him as a black-hearted traitor and coward.

The enemy were known to have had 30,000 troops, 15,000 of whom are our prisoners; 5,000 escaped, and the balance are reported to be killed or otherwise disabled.

Our loss is not stated, but the slaughter in our ranks is mentioned as being terribly severe.

FROM KENTUCKY AND TENNESSEE

CINCINNATI, Feb. 17.—The Commercial of this morning gives the following important news:

The evacuation of Bowling Green confirmed.

Part of the town burned.

Active movements of Federal troops.

Large reinforcements sent forward.

Gen. Buell takes command in person.

The Rebels left nothing at Bowling Green but a few old wagons.

Crittenden is trying to organize another army at Carthage, on the south bank of the Cumberland. This is the only rebel force on the line from Bowling Green to Nashville.

General Buell, we understand, goes with McCook's division to take command in person on the Cumberland, where our force will, by to-morrow night, number about 80,000. While he presses the enemy on Cumberland, with his tremendous force, their flank and rear are pressed by the heavy divisions under Mitchell and Nelson.

Since the writing of the above, we learn that ten regiments, now in the Ohio camps, are ordered at once to Cumberland.

General Stone's Alleged Treason.

[Correspondence of the New York Tribune.]

WASHINGTON, Feb. 11.—The action regarding Gen. Stone excites no surprise among those who have been familiar with his conduct the last six months. Gen. Stone's wife is notorious for her Secession tendencies, while his own course has made him an object of quite general suspicion. The discovery of his treasonable communication with the enemy is said on good authority to have happened in this wise:

A soldier in one of the New York Regiments, who had procured his discharge, and came to the Capital for the purpose of getting his pay, mentioned to a gentleman in one of the public offices that there were suspicious circumstances connected with Gen. Stone's movements, and related the following incident:

When he (the soldier) was on picket duty near Edwards's Ferry, some time subsequent to the Ball's Bluff affair, Gen. Stone rode down near the Ferry, accompanied only by a servant. After some little time he went to an unoccupied house near, and bringing out a spyglass looked across the river. He then remounted and rode away, but shortly returned to the same house, and again brought the glass into requisition, and seeming to discover the object of his search, waved his hat as though communicating a signal. Directly about a dozen horsemen came out of the woods on the opposite side of the river.

Gen. Stone, going to our pickets, remarked that these men want something, and suggested that some of them should cross and see what it might be. Five men volunteered to go on this service, and on reaching the Virginia shore, the Rebels proposed that they should remain as hostages while an equal number of their party crossed for the purpose of having an interview with Gen. Stone, which proposal was accepted, and the Rebels accordingly crossed and met Gen. Stone.

They withdrew from the river bank near the house above named, and remained in conference for some time. A soldier at the Ferry observed a sealed packet passing between the rebels and Gen. Stone. One of the rebels remarked to one of the men who remained as hostages, that they "Had come down by appointment." The one who headed the rebel party was Captain Porter.

It may be asked why it is that these facts did not come sooner to the knowledge of the proper authorities. One reason is the difficulty, if not danger, involved in the making of charges by a private against an officer of high rank

Still further, communication has been as far as possible prevented by Gen. Stone between the men of his command and the capital. He, is said to have manifested a nervous anxiety in regard to this, as though fearing that some one who might come here from his command might know something of his doings. Rumors of his disloyalty have for a long time been current, but have seemed to lack any more substantial foundation than the well known rebellious proclivities of some of his relatives by marriage, and the fact that he manifested anxiety to protect known Secessionists in their right to property in human flesh.

MARRIED,

On Thursday evening, the 13th inst., by Rev. A. Guyer, P. MARION LYTLE, Esq., of Spruce Creek, to Miss ESTHER, only daughter of Maj. James Steel, of this place.

So we go. Our clever, whole-souled young friend MARION has taken unto himself a "rib." He has forsaken the lonely path of bachelorhood for the more congenial relations of married life. We congratulate our young friends upon the choice they have made, and sincerely wish that they may find "wedded love" all their fancy pictured. May prosperity ever attend them; may the dark cloud of sorrow never enter their habitation; but, on the contrary, may an eternal halo of glory shed its genial rays upon them, through a long, prosperous and well-spent life. Our entire household join in expressing thanks for the delicious cake.

On the 11th instant, at Center Hall, Center county, by Rev. W. P. Porr, Mr. J. T. WHITAKER of Porter township, and Miss M. D. NEFF, of Center Hall.

With the above notice we received a genuine one dollar Bank Note—an evidence that the happy couple are strongly attached to Union sentiments and properly appreciate the prayers of the printer. May they live a life of prosperity, health and happiness, and at a good old age leave this world for a better, without owing the printer anything.
