Signs of a Coming Panic and the Cause of it.

In persuing the daily press of the country we find the astonishing news of about two-hundred business failures per week occuring throughout the United States. In examining market reports we see that grain is down to a lower figure than it was for many years. Besides the country is flooded with people who are out of employment with no bright prospects before them, while money is so scarce that it is with extreme difficulty for the average business man to make his most necessary payments. What does it all mean and where is it all to end? are questions which are asked by the more observing class of people.

Ex-Senator Wallace in his great speech in West Virginia recently gives the causes of this alarming business stagnation in a very truthful way, when he says:

"We charge upon the Republican party that their policy of large grants of public lands to railroad corporations, and their high taxation of the people to maintain an enormous surplus of money in the Federal Treasury are the leading causes of our present business distress, and especially are they the causes of the glut of production, the glut of labor and the misery and distress of the miner, the artisan and the agriculturist. We charge, too, that under Republican rule and as a result of Republican policy our commerce has been swept from the seas, that our flag is scarcely seen upon the ocean, that the carrying of our own productions out of our own ports, by which our merchants and seamen could have earned $100,000,000 annually, has gone to British and German shippers, that our ports of Baltimore and Philadelphia can scarce give decent support to their pilot force, and that "thousands of tons of American vessels lie idle at the wharves of our great seaports, while the sea is white with the sails and the sky is dark with the smoke of the great merchant fleets of other nations, which swarm to our shores and transact the great carrying trade that our own vessels do not seem able to take a busy part in." Their policy affecting taxation, their statutes granting public lands and their stolidity as to our shipping and commercial interests have shrunken our trade, whilst our inventive genius and the vast tide of immigration have yielded capacity for production in a largely increased ratio. The result is business depression and over production, glut and misery.

The policy that produces and maintains in the Federal Treasury a surplus of over $400,000,000 is an unnecessary burden and destroys our industries. To it more than all else is attributable the business paralysis of the present hour This money comes from the earnings of the people and if it were back in the channels of trade and the policy that produced it reversed, every artery of commercial, financial, mining and manufacturing life would throb with renewed energy. It would stimulate enterprise and give employment to labor. A redundant revenue, an overflowing treasury, new vaults required to hold the surplus moneys, continued taxation, thousands of workingmen idle, strikes and lockouts, depression in business, how storage the contrast, how fatuitous the policy that produces it.

Lord Bacon compares money to manure. If gathered in heaps it does no good but becomes offensive. Being spread though ever so thinly over the surface of the earth it enriches the whole country."

THE Ohio canvass is warming up and judging from some remarks dropped by Blaine organs the Republicans are not near as certain of victory as they were in other campaigns. The fact is, Blaine will not receive the German vote in that state since he pledged himself a prohibitionist and there are hardly as many votes "for sale" in Ohio as in Maine.

JAMES G. BLAINE'S "aggressive" campaign is all taken up by defenses of his crooked official doings and by explanations of the nasty Mulligan letters. When he is done with that work the campaign will be over and he'll be out in the cold.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

From our Regular Correspondent.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Sept. 22, 1884.

The political situation grows more and more interesting, from a Washington standpoint, as the campaign advances, and the office holding class of politicians here grow more nervous and excitable. The new installment of Mulligan letters, or rather "Dear Fisher" letters, have been the leading topic of discussion, and the prevailing opinion is that they close the case for Mr. Blaine. Some of those whose interests tie them to Republican success, and others of the class who stood by Dorsey and Brady, who believe in buying an election and wink at all sorts of official rascality, pretend to see nothing at them. But these do not constitute the majority of the people here, any more than in other parts of the country. Although we have in politics a great many men who live by it and do not care how they succeed so their side can keep in, still the great majority of people are honest and appreciate the importance of electing honest men to office. From every quarter intelligence reaches here of the increasing number of Republicans who are convinced that James G. Blaine is a scoundrel who took advantage of his high position to blackmail railroad enterprises and other schemes, whereby he has without a dollar of capital or without even being honestly engaged in any business, accumulated more than a million dollars. These men are quietly deciding to cast their votes against such a candidate, and they are so numerous that he will be overwhelmingly defeated. A tremendous effort is to be made by Elkins and his crowd to buy Ohio as Indiana was bought in 1880, and as Maine was bought a few days ago, but even should this desperate game succeed, it will not come anywhere near saving Blaine.

So far as is known here it is still an open question who will succeed poor Folger as Secretary of the Treasury. A good deal of speculation has been indulged in by the politicians and newspaper correspondents, but the President has not yet spoken. It is to be hoped that Mr. Arthur will not make it the vehicle for conferring further rewards upon his old New York city ward chums, like Bliss, Sharp and O'Brien. Mr. Coon, the Assistant Secretary, now acting, is such an excellent officer that most people would be very well satisfied to have him continued at the head of the department. Strolling through the various offices of the building yesterday, I noticed the usual number of visitors—the stream of tourists, bridal couples, etc., that may be seen there every week day in the year. Nearly every bridal couple that comes to Washington—Washington is the National bridal Mecca—visits the Treasury vaults. The young and invariably interesting couple want to closely inspect Uncle Sam's plentiful shekels. When they enter the vault the man in charge of it, after a few preliminary words of explanation, hands down a package of notes from a shelf and tells the bride to take it in her hands. He then explains that this package contains $20,000,000 in U. S. Treasury notes. The young lady is delighted to be able to go away and say that she has held so much money in her two hands. She is just too utterly pleased. The groom also wants to handle the package. They are further told that the notes are all of the denomination of $10,000. They constitute what is known as the "bridal package." Young married tourists have heard of this package, often ask to handle it just as soon as they enter the vaults. This is all very pretty. But it is a fraud on the young people. The Treasury here does not hold that amount of money. The bulk of the money is in the Sub-Treasury at New York. That "bridal package" is a gay deceiver. It does contain, however, notes of the denomination of $10,000, which would, in the aggregate represent $20,000,000 if they were only signed. But they are worth no more in reality than the paper on which they are printed, being minus the neccessary signatures.

Although it is three months since Congress adjourned, and three more before it meets again, the city is infested with thieves, small and large, vagabonds, courteous and audacious, swindlers, official and otherwise, to say nothing of ten murderers, black and white, who have made way with their victims since February last. Neither Sodom or Chicago could ever boast of such vileness as exists in the Capital of the United States to-day, yet the schools are crammed infinitely beyond their capacity, and the white element at least affects the very highest stages of civilization. Crime is indeed so rampant that the Chief of Police in his recent report announces the utter incapacity of our police court to attend to the business, although St. Louis with a population three times larger, and Chicago with its cosmopolitan populace four times larger, require but one. The police force here is inefficient both in numbers and discipline, facts so well known by the thieving gentry that their raids upon the Capital occur at periods as regularly as the phases of the lunar system.

PHONO.

A democratic mass meeting was held at Lock Haven on Tuesday night, which was addressed by Gen. W. H. H. Davis, candidate for congressman-at-large, Harry A. Hall, of the democratic state committee and Chairman Hensel. Ex. Gov. Curtin arrived late in the evening and made a short speech.

Violent Shock of Earthquake in Western States.

CINCINNATI, Sept. 19.

A few minutes before 3 o'clock this afternoon the telegraph operator at the Bee Line depot in Cincinnati received dispatches from the operators all along that road, from Cincinnati to Lafayette, Ind., inquiring if the earthquake shock had been felt in Cincinnati and stating that it had been preceptible at the offices from which the inquiries were sent. About 3 o'clock, Cincinnati time, the operator perceived a slight tremor in the building. The same thing was noticed in various offices in the city, but was not attributed to the earthquake until telegraphic dispatches from the West had come in. It was quite different in some of the suburbs in Cincinnati. In Clifton the agitation was violent enough to ring bells on tables and in some instances on doors.

The time of the earthquake, as reported by those who noticed it, varies from half-past 2 to a few minutes after 3, and the duration of the shock is variously reported at from ten to twenty seconds.

Advices from Indiana report that the shock was felt at Seymour a few minutes before 3, and that it was also felt with great severity in Lawrenceburg, Ind., about the same time.

THROUGH OHIO.

At Toledo the noise resembled that of a distant blast. Reports from various points in that vicinity show that the shock was quite general throughout Northwestern Ohio and Southwestern Michigan. The duration of the shock was from ten to thirty seconds and the course apparently from southwest to northeast. It was most violent at Defiance, Ohio, where the swaying of buildings created much consternation. The people hastily abandoned their houses and the Methodist Conference, in session at one of the churches, immediately adjourned, and some of the people rushed to the street.

IN INDIANA.

Reports have been received from the following towns in Indiana: At Portland the shock was slight. At Red Key there was a slight shock. Several business men ran into the street to see if their buildings were falling and to ascertain the cause. Great excitement prevailed for a few moments. At Albany large brick buildings were shaken. Many other places report about the same results, namely, buildings shaken, glass breaking, furniture moving, dishes and tinware falling from tables and shelves and people running into the streets from fright.

IN ONTARIO.

WINDSOR, Ont., September 19.—Quite a heavy shock of earthquake was experienced here at 2.45 p. m. to-day.

LONDON, Ont., September 19.—A quite perceptable shock of earthquake was felt in this city about 3.25 this afternoon.

DRESDEN, Ont., September 19.—At 3.20 p. m. to-day a distant shock of earthquake or distant explosion was felt here. It seemed to follow the river and vary in force, in some instances causing quite a rattling of dishes and tossing of furniture.

IN MICHIGAN.

DETROIT, September 19.—An earthquake shock was felt here at 2.45 o'clock this afternoon. No damage was done, but the shock frightened many persons. In some localities, particularly in high buildings, it was more noticeable than in others. All along Griswold street the shock was felt very distinctly and men rushed into the street, looking about anxiously as if expecting the buildings to fall upon them. The shock lasted from ten to twenty seconds and there was a swaying motion that rattled windows and shook chandeliers.

Unveiling the Bronze Statue of Gen John F. Reynolds in Philadelphia.

This festive occasion took place last Thursday in front of City Hall, Philadelphia. The statue was erected by a memorial association at an expense of $25,000, mostly furnished by Joseph E. Temple, and stands on a granite pedestal fifteen feet high, paid for by State appropriation. Including the pedestal the top of the statue is twenty-seven feet above the pavement. It was unveiled in the presence of several thousand people, with soldiers in uniform, veterans with their flags and bands in gay attire grouped about the statue.

As the striking visage of Ex-Governor Curtin, the president of the association, came into view when he arose to call the meeting to order, a great cheer went up that showed there was some in the crowd who recognized him and indentified him with the stirring times called up by the occasion. "As a great Christian people, under a great government, maintained by strife, here to render homage to a great soldier who died that liberty might live," he called the assemblage to order. In a prayer the Rev. J. Harvey Beale, who was in Reynold's corps, "thanked God for Plymouth Rock, Yorktown and Gettysburg, and for the deeds and results that made them stepping-stones in the nation's progressive life."

With a few words Ex-Governor Curtin formally turned the statue over to Mayor Smith, who made a little speech in response. Then followed the oration of the day, by Colonel Roberts.

IN TIME OF PEACE PREPARE FOR PEACE.—Changes of climate, diet and water, ofttimes atmospheric changes alone, will subject some member of the family to cholera morbus, dysentery, &c., when the wail of misery in the "wee sma' hours of the night" announce the fact, and you are sent from your comfortable bed across lots of down back alleys for a doctor, 'twould be a good time to reflect that had you only secured a bottle of Curtis' Carmelite Cordial in time, you could with a few drops have headed off the attack, saved a doctor's bill, and secured a peaceful night's rest. Dissatisfied purchasers can have their money refunded.
