THE BOSTON POST, The Press & Post, AND THE Boston Statesman & Weekly Post, For 1856.

THE terms of our Journals for the ensuing year are: For the Daily Post, $8; for the Press and Post semi-weekly, (Mondays and Thursdays) $4; and for the Statesman and Weekly Post, (Fridays) $2.

These journals are edited by Chas G. Greene and Richard Frothingham, jr.; employ a large corps of assistant editors, reporters and correspondents; and neither labor nor expense is spared to make their columns valuable. They have been published nearly thirty years; have a range of subscription exceeded in extent and aggregate by no paper in New England; and, so largely is their circulation increasing, that a new press has been ordered to enable the demand to be promptly supplied.

The reading matter consists of a great variety of useful and entertaining matter. Its editorials; domestic and foreign correspondence; reports of lectures; marine department; daily monetary article and weekly financial review; literary notices; poetic contributions and humorous matter make variety designed to meet every taste.

The advertising columns embrace an almost entire synopsis of the business of New England; and from that department of the paper alone can be obtained a correct impression of the character of trade, its facilities and its operations; while the financial editorials give an accurate view of passing events in the commercial world.

The Press and Post is made from the Daily's contents, and published every Monday and Thursday morning. It is clearly and handsomely printed on fine paper, in clear type, and the subscription is four dollars a year.

The Boston Statesman & Weekly Post forms a racy and complete record of the times, and contains the news of every description; in fact, a brief and comprehensive history of passing events; foreign news in detail, domestic information, agricultural items, commercial and monetary articles, statements of trade, of the weather, of crops, &c.; accounts of meetings, political records, news of every description, poetry, pleasant reading matter, humorous items, epigrams; in fact, a complete family Newspaper—a vehicle for every species of useful and entertaining information—among which will be found in each issue, a pleasing story. The Statesman is printed on the largest sized paper and on new and beautiful type. It has a very large circulation and its rapidly increasing list is the best evidence of its popularity. It is supplied at the rate of two dollars a year for single subscriptions. Clubs, taking ten or more copies in one package, will be supplied at one dollar and a half a year.

The Commercial Department of these journals involves a large expenditure; contains varied and accurate reports as to all branches of trade; and is second to that of no paper published in New England.

These journals are carefully conducted and edited in a faith in democratic principles, but in a spirit of conciliation to all parties. As advertising mediums they are unsurpassed; penetrating, as they do, into such a variety of households scattered over the whole Union, and read as they are by all classes of the community, they furnish an opportunity for the diffusion of information which can scarcely be obtained elsewhere.
