THE DEMOCRAT.

MONTROSE, MAY 6, 1852.

Telegraphic.

Two men from the interior, apparently marketers, halted at the corner of our alley last evening and listened attentively a few moments to the clinking of our press.

"What on earth is that rattling machine?" inquired one of the other.

"D'no," answered the questioned party, standing ready, at the same time, to beat a retreat if the noisy 'varmint' should make a sudden appearance. 'D'no what the thunder it is, but it keeps on a tremendous racket—it must be a telegraf, like.'

"Goodness wheat, by, gravy, 'tis the telegraf, sure enough, Sam," replied Ike; "I heerd tha wur gettin it fixed up yur in St. Louis. 'Spose'n we take a squint at the flashin' thing while its a goin'?"

They cautiously approached the window of the press room and peeped in.

They first eyed the machine, then the negro at the wheel, then the pressman, and finally, stooped down to look beneath for the lightning.

"That's it shure enough," says Ike, "and that feller is takin' down on them sheets what faur says in New York. Well, if these times don't beat hocin' taters, then I'm a sinner.—What on airth's goin' to cum of these poor printer fellers when tha gits this telégraf goin general—I'll swar, if tha don't drive them all to plantin corn."

"But whar is the lightnin' Ike?" inquired Sam, "I don't see nuthin' but black streeks bout that thing."

"I reckon it's wrapped up in that wheel thar, where the feller's puttin' on sheets—you see how it keeps them other things in a bouncing jerk, just as it might be expected that thunder and lightnin would do."

"Wha in the yearth are tha doin' with that nigger then?"—what's he holdin on to one of the wheels for?" inquired Sam.

"Now you stump me," says Ike, "for cuss me, ef I can see what he is doin' thar, 'cept holdin' the thing to keep it from takin' a general rip."

"I neer know'd," says Sam, 'that a nigger could hold the fluid that-away afore; and now I've found it out, I'll just give my nigger Jake perfect Israel when I git home, for letin' the lightnin kill them steers of mine last July.—The nigger said he couldn't help it, but I know'e he could if he'd a mind to. Just see that cloyble boy thar how he holds on to the fluid."

"Stop!" shouted the pressman to the negro at the wheel.

"Lean, Sam," cried Ike, 'she's going to rip earthin, and I'd rather her two shakes of agir tain one of lightnin' any time."

Satisfied that they had seen the telegraph in action Ike and Sam leaned.—St. Louis Reveille.

Pigeon Plucking.

One of our eastern exchanges gives a bit of gambling experience, which was the private talk of Wall st. a long time since, and which ought to be improved."

The story runs thus: A very raw looking yankee lounged into a drinking saloon in that city, in the evening, and made his wondering way slowly to the bar. He enquired of the bar keeper if he kept "licker!" "Yes," says the bar keeper, eyeing the green one with a mirthful expression, "What will you have?" "Well, I'll take what I usually drink when I' to hum, raw New England rum with molasses in it." The bar-keeper, shaking with ill concealed laughter, procured him the dose, and Jonathan coolly drank it. Placing the tumbler on the bar, he drew out of his pocket a large pocket book and took some change therefrom, exposing forever, carelessly a thick layer of bank bills in the middle. This exposure instantly struck the eye of the proprietor of the saloon who happened to be standing near, and he very kindly warned Jonathan against exposing so large a sum of money in such a careless manner. "You must look out for pickpockets—better be careful my friend," &c.,&c. "It don't belong to me," said Jonathan, "Father gave it to me to buy some swine. Two hundred there," pointing to the sum of money in bills. "Well, you'd better be careful," the proprietor again said."

Jonathan paid for his glass, and might have lounged out of the saloon, but the watchful and friendly proprietor having now broken the ice of acquaintanceship, asked our Yankee, whether he would not like to see the premises,—the upstairs department of the fine saloon.—Jonathan, overcome with the politeness of his host, and his own treacherous curiosity, was led up stairs, and after a little while shown into a fine room, where a set of gamblers were practising their infernal art. He was introduced to them with due politeness, doubtless with a knowing wink on the part of the proprietor. "Take a seat and take a hand in the game," were invitations given Jonathan in due time. The money changed hands so readily, and by mere chance and in such abundance, that Jonathan was lost in all manner of reveries. He may have had dim reminiscences of good advice in times past, or he may have feared a reverse of fortune. Said the purdent Jonathan to the invitation after a while, "Wal, I don't know as biseess I aint used to—never see'd anything like this." The gamblers however continued on without paying any more particular attention to their Yankee observer, who however was all eyes and ears for the game. He saw that the money changed hands by mere luck, and one man's chance appeared about as good as another's. If there could be any advantage it must be in luck. Was not his chance as any one's else? Where was there even a Yankee, who did not believe in hisluck? He consented to play, moderately of course, at first.

He was allowed, of course, to win at first and at a very tempting rate, but his luck finally changed and, Jonathan lost his two hundred dollars and something on private account. As he depleted more, he played his very last dollar and here his luck changed, and changed completely in spite even of the gamblers, and he left. He went Jonathan in the winning scale, gaining back his two hundred dollars, and eight hundred more with them, to the utter amazement and confusion of the gamblers themselves. At this point, Jonathan prudently concluded to stop, rose, put on his coat, and said "he guessed 'twas 'bout time to quit. The gamblers however were now aroused, and desperate. It was they who had lost their all. They rose in a body, with but one fellow-feeling, and one settled purpose. "You shall not go—after winning this much, you ought, to you must, give us a chance to win something back." Such a temptation of the game was altogether unexpected to them. If Jonathan could only be seated again, they would surely pluck their pigeon, who was now going off with his own plunage, and theirs too. It could'nt be thought of for a moment. Jonathan must play again, and seeing he was about going in earnest, they proceeded to lay their hands on him in a very serious persuasion.

This crisis revealed, however, the inherent energy and character of the man. He had evidently been green and simple up to this point. He now exhibited such a truth and spirit, as were altogether unexpected and irresistible. Putting his hands up to his face, he pulled off some false whiskers, and drawing from beneath his coat a couple of loaded pistols with great coolness said it would be death to any one of them to prevent his exit. They were over presuaded and he left them petrified with mortification and astonishment, and a little wiser.

Wit and Wisdom.

THE PRESS.—The mother and guardian of all progress.

COMMERCE.—The locomotive of liberal principles.

☞ In the flashing of a moment the future becomes present.

☞ Life abounds in cases of brilliant results to generous policy.

☞ A hard bargain is ever a bad bargain for the apparent gainer.

☞ The body, which is physical, is obliged to obey the dictates of the spirit.

☞ Profligacy is not in spending time, but in spending it off the line of your career.

☞ Unjust riches curse the owner in getting, in keeping, and in transmitting. They curse his children in their father's memory.

☞ May no nation on earth have reason once to repeat words only because it was I who said them.

☞ To guard effectually your own interests, you must in the first place attend to the interests of others.

☞ A man may be so mean as to prevent him from venturing upon perfectly safe enterprises.

☞ Whatever you undertake, go into it all over, unless it be diving into the sea of trouble.

☞ A lady being asked her opinion about marriage, replied, "I always act my face against them.

☞ The editor of the Somerset, Pa., "Visitor," has lost his breastpin. What business has an editor with a breastpin?

☞ The United States has ground enough to be cut up into 95 States, each as large as Great Britain proper.

☞ It has been beautifully said, that "the veil which covers the face of futurity is woven by the hand of mercy."

☞ A Whig editor out west, asserts, "without fear of contradiction," that the principles of his party are as progressive as the eternal rock of Giberaltar.

☞ Mrs. Swisshelm declares that "the coil of an anaconda would make a better girdle for a young woman's waist the arm of a drunken husband."

COMFORTABLE.—"It is comfortable," says Philip Henry, "to reflect upon an affliction borne patiently, an enemy forgiven heartily, and a Sabbath sanctified uprightly."

"Experience," says Coleridge, "is like the stern-lights of a ship, revealing dangers only after we have passed through them, and shining on bars and breakers after we have become imperrilled among them."

☞ A certain old lady was once arguing strongly for woman's right to preach, when some one attempted to put her down with a text from St. Paul. "Ah!" said she, "there is where Paul and I differ!"

TO BOIL EGGS HARD.—Never boil eggs for salads, sauces, or any other purposes, more than ten minutes, and when done place them in a basin of cold water for five minutes to cool; take off their shells and use them when required.

☞ He that has never known adversity, is but half acquainted with others or himself,—Constant success shows us but one side of the world. For as it surrounds us with friends who will tell us only our merits, so it silences those enemies from whom alone we can learn our defects.

ONE OF THE BOYS.—A little shaver, hardly knee high to a grasshopper, who may be seen running about our streets, was accosted the other day by a gentleman, with,

"My lad, what's your name?"

"Bub," replied the urchin.

"Where do you live?"

Ter hum.

"What's your father's name?"

"Pap."

CHEEREULNESS.—A woman may be a great assistant to her husband, in business, by wearing a cheerful smile continually upon her countenance. A man's perplexities and gloominess is increased a hundred fold when his better half moves about with a continual scowl upon her brow. A pleasant, cheerful wife is as a rainbow set in the sky when her husband's mind is tossed with storms and tempests; but a dissatisfied and fretful wife in the hour of trouble is like one of those fiends who delight to torture lost spirits.

HORRIBLE!

A Man with his Throat Cut!

BUT he did it himself, the Barber had nothing to do with it. No man ever heard of such a thing being done by the Barber, while the Newspapers are full of instances of men doing it themselves. A razor is a dangerous thing and none but an experienced workman should be allowed to handle it. Every man should think of this; and not trust to himself for no one can tell what may happen to him. Now if you never touch a razor you will never cut your throat with it, so just call on CHARLES TILMAN, Barber & Hair Dresser, in Searle's building, next door to Postoffice, who will shave you as smooth as a new born babe. Liver Complaint,

JAUNDICE, DYSPEPSIA, CHRONIC OR NERVOUS DEBILITY, DISEASES OF THE KIDNEYS,

AND all diseases arising from a disordered liver or stomach, such as constipation, inward piles, fullness or blood to the head, acidity of the stomach, nausea, heart-burn, disgust for food, fullnes, or weight in the stomach, sour eructations, sinking or fluttering at the pit of the stomach, swimming of the head, hurried or difficult breathing, fluttering at the heart, choking or suffocating sensations when in a lying posture, dimness of vision, dots or webs before the sight, fever and dull pain in the head, deficiency of perspiration, yellowness of the skin and eyes, pain in the side, back, chest, limbs &c., sudden flushes of heat, burning in the flesh, constant imaginings of evil, and great depression of spirits, can be effectually cured by

Dr. Hoofland's celebrated German Bitters,

PREPARED BY

D. R. C. M. JACKSON, AT THE GERMAN MEDICINE STORE, 120 ARCH ST., PHILADELPHIA.

Their power over the above diseases is not excelled, if equalled, by any other preparation in the United States, as the cures attest, in many cases after skilful physicians had failed.

A word to Mothers.—I wish to ameliorate your condition, to lessen your cares, perplexities, and anxieties, which I do by providing for your tender offspring, a remedy for their ills that is adapted to their infirmities, without the fear of consequences from remedies charged with opiates, and destructive and detrimental to so many thousands of our race. Who amongst you but feels for the suffering infant, where cries are the only indication of its suffering, writhing with pains from cholic, emaciated from diarrhea or dysentary, suffering great nervous irritation, or to death from teething—often brought to death's door from cholera infantum, and every ill arising from but nourishment or nursing, I have seen all of these cured in a day almost, by a remedy that I have been for years in perfecting, in an extensive practice of nearly twenty years and now offer it to you under the true name of "Dr. Throop's INFANT RESTORATIVE AND MOTHER'S RELIEF."

When this remedy has been used, it has met with unbounded favor, and as you value your the comfort or life, that you will try it truly in its behalf, it is the "Mother's Relief."

Worms are also productive of great torture to children of riper years, the symptoms of which every parent is aware, and where suspected, it is their duty to exterminate them as speedily as possible, which can be done only with a few doses of Dr Throop's WORM POISON, which is beyond comparison, with any Vermifuge of the day. It will destroy them; and the very small dose, makes it acceptable to the children that dislike medicines of any kind. It is a happy compound of harmless vegetable medicines, that in their combination, produce wonderful effects upon those filthy inhabitants of the human system.

If you are suffering from derangement of the stomach, Liver, or Bowels, you have fever, headache, sour stomach, or heart-burn, flatulency, costiveness, and many other unpleasant symptoms, for their entire relief you have only to take a few doses of "Dr. Throop's BILLIOUS PILLS," and you have a cure. They act upon disease by removing the cause, restoring the secretions, of all the organs of the body and health is the consequence.

To those afflicted with sore, weak, or inflamed eyes, I furnish you also a remedy that has stood the test of years of experience, and restored the most cases when every other remedy known had failed, Dr. Throop's EYE WATER. These comprise the list of Dr. Throop's Domestic Medicines, that should be in the hands of every house keeper, as good remedies are always ready, and which only requires a trial to insure them a place.

Another Scientific Wonder!

Great Cure for Dyspepsia!

DR. J. S. HOUGHTON'S PEPSIN, THE TRUE DIGESTIVE FLUID, OR Gastric Juice,

Prepared from RENNET or the fourth Stomach of the Ox, after directions of Baron Liebig, the great Physiological Chemist, by J. S. HOUGHTON, M. D., Philadelphia, Pa.

This is a truly wonderful remedy for INDIGESTION, DYSPEPSIA, JAUNDICE, LIVER COMPLAINT, CONSTIPATION and DEBILITY, curing after Nature's own method, by Nature's own agent, the Gastric Juice.

☞ Half a teaspoonful of Pepsin, infused in water, will digest or dissolve, five pounds of Roasted Beef in about two hours, out of the stomach.

Pepsin is the chief element or great Digestive principle of the Gastric Juice—the Solvent of the Food, the Purifying, Preserving, and Stimulating Agent of the Stomach and Intestines. It is extracted from the Digestive Stomach of the Ox, thus forming an ARTIFICIAL DIGESTIVE FLUID, precisely like the natural Gastric Juice in its Chemical powers, and furnishing a complete and perfect substitute for it. By the aid of this preparation the pains and evils of Indigestion and Dyspepsia are removed, just as they would be by a healthy stomach. It is doing wonders for dyspeptics, curing cases of Debility, Emaciation, Nervous Decline, and Dyspeptic Consumption, supposed to be on the verge of the grave. The scientific evidence upon which it is based, is in the highest degree curious and remarkable.

Scientific Evidence.

Baron Liebeg in his celebrated work on Animal Chemistry, says: "An Artificial Digestive Fluid, analagous to the Gastric Juice, may be readily prepared from the mucous membrane of the stomach of the Calf, in which various articles of food, as meat and eggs, will be softened, changed, and digested, just in the same manner as they would be in the human stomach."

☞ Call on the agent and get a Descriptive circular, gratis, giving a large amount of scientific evidence, similar to the above, together with reports of remarkable cures, from all parts of the United States.

DR. HOUGHTON'S PEPSIN is now sold by nearly all the dealers in fine drugs and popular medicines, throughout the United States. It is prepared in Powder and in Fluid form, and in Prescriptive vials for the use of physicians.

PRIVATE CIRCULARS for the use of Physicians, may be obtained of Dr. Houghton or his agents, describing the whole process of preparation, and giving the authorities upon which the claims of this new remedy are based. As it is not a secret remedy, no objection can be raised against its use by Physicians in respectable standing and regular practice. Price, ONE DOLLAR per bottle.

☞ OBSERVE THIS!!—Every bottle of the genuine PEPSIN has the written signature of J. S. HOUGHTON, M. D., sole proprietor, Philadelphia, Pa. Copyright and Trade Mark secured.

☞ Sold by all Druggists and Dealers in Medicines.

THE ROAD TO WEALTH.

WHAT is there that guarantees to us a competency more surely, n our decline of life, than health, and vigor of youth, nothing. Then the question is, how shall that be obtained and secured. If we have a Cough, Cold, Bronchitis, Asthma, Catarrh, Pleurisy, Influenza, or Hoarseness, or any other affliction of the Lungs or Chest, you will find in Dr. Throop's COMPOUND SYRUP of BLOOD ROOT, a sure and safe remedy, or if your children are afflicted with Croup or Hooping Cough, no better remedy can be found. Thousands have been relieved with the numerous certificates of its curative powers, now in my possession, placed beyond doubt, the greatest remedy of the age, for any affection of the Lungs. The powers of Blood Root as a remedy has long been known, but its harsh action alone has kept it somewhat out of general favor, but, I flatter myself that the above combination is perfect, and that its use, will secure friends wherever it is offered to an enlightened public.

A word to Mothers.—I wish to ameliorate your condition, to lessen your cares, perplexities, and anxieties, which I do by providing for your tender offspring, a remedy for their ills that is adapted to their infirmities, without the fear of consequences from remedies charged with opiates, and destructive and detrimental to so many thousands of our race. Who amongst you but feels for the suffering infant, where cries are the only indication of its suffering, writhing with pains from cholic, emaciated from diarrhea or dysentary, suffering great nervous irritation, or to death from teething—often brought to death's door from cholera infantum, and every ill arising from but nourishment or nursing, I have seen all of these cured in a day almost, by a remedy that I have been for years in perfecting, in an extensive practice of nearly twenty years and now offer it to you under the true name of "Dr. Throop's INFANT RESTORATIVE AND MOTHER'S RELIEF."

MORE EVIDENCE.

The Philadelphia Saturday Gazette, the best family newspaper published in the United States, says of Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters—

"It is seldom that we recommend what are termed Patent Medicines, to the confidence and patronage of our readers, and therefore when we recommend Dr. Hoofland's German Bitters we wish to be distinctly understood that we are not speaking of the nostrums of the day, that are noised about for a brief period and then forgotten after they have run their guilty race of mischief, but of a medicine long established, universally proved, and which has met the hearty approval of the family itself."

Look well to the marks of the genuine. They have the written signature of C. M. JACKSON upon the wrapper, and his name blown in the bottle, without which they are spurious.

For sale wholesale and retail at the German Medicine Store, No. 120 Arch street, one door below sixth, Philadelphia, and by respectable dealers generally through the country.

Ayer's Cherry Pectoral,

For the cure of Coughs, Colds, Hoarseness, Bronchitis, Whooping-Cough, Croup, Asthma, and Consumption.

Among the numerous discoveries Science has made in this generation to facilitate the business of life—increase its enjoyment, and even prolong the term of human existence, none can be named of more real value to mankind, than this contribution of Chemistry to the Healing Art. A vast trial of its virtues throughout this broad country, has proven beyond a doubt, that no medicine or combination of medicines yet known, can so surely control and cure the numerous varieties of pulmonary disease which have hitherto swept from our midst thousands and thousands every year. Indeed, there is now abundant reason to believe a Remedy has at length been found which can be relied on to cure the most dangerous affect ons of the lungs. Our space here will not permit us to publish any proportion of the cures effected by its use, but we would present the following opinions of eminent men, and refer further inquiry to the circulars which the Agents below named, will always be pleased to furnish free, wherein are full particulars, and indisputable proof of these facts.

From the President of Amherst College, the celebrated Professor Hitchcock.

"James C. Ayers—Sir: I have used your Cherry Pectoral in my own case of deep-seated Bronchitis, and am satisfied from its chemical compositions, that it is an admirable compound for the relief of laryngial and bronchial difficulties. If my opinion of its superior character can be of any service, you are at liberty to use it as you think proper. EDWARD HITCHCOCK, L. L. D.

From the widely celebrated Professor Silliman, M. D., L. L. D., Professor of Chemistry, Mineralogy, &c., Yale College, Member of the Lit. Hist. Med. Phil. and Scientific Societies of America and Europe

"I deem the Cherry Pectoral an admirable compoundation from some of the best articles in the Materia Medica, and a very effective remedy for the class of diseases it is intended to cure."

New Haven, Ct., Nov. 1, 1849.

Maj. Pattison, President of the S. C. Senate, states that he has used the Cherry Pectoral with wonderful success, to cure an inflammation of the lungs.

From one of the first Physicians in Maine.

SACO, Me., April 26, 1849.

Dr. J. C. Ayer, Lowell—Dear sir: I am now constantly using your Cherry Pectoral in my practice, and prefer it to any other medicine for pulmonary complaints. From observation of many severe cases, I am convinced it will cure coughs, colds, and diseases of the lungs, that have put to defiance all other remedies.

I invariably recommend its use in cases of consumption, and consider it much the best remedy known for that disease. Respectfully yours,

I. S. CUSHMAN, M. D.
