The Democratic Watchman

BELLEFONTE, PA.

FRIDAY MORNING, FEB. 7, 1868.

AARON BURR'S SARCASM.—When Aaron Burr returned to New York city to practice law, after his voluntary exile in Europe, he found the late Rev. Jedediah Burchard, then a celebrated revivalist, holding a series of protracted meetings in his family church. He attended from habit; always went late and disturbed the attention of the audience on account of his infamous notoriety—as the man who shot, Alexander Hamilton and who had been tried for treason. Mr. Burchard resolved to rebuke him openly. Next Sabbath, when he came in and got about half-way up the aisle, the clergyman paused in his discourse, and pointing to Colonel Burr, said in the most scathing manner: "You hoary headed old sinner, I'll appear against you at the day of judgment!" The proud defiant old man standing as erect as ever with that perfect composure which never deserted him, and fixing his fine grey eyes on the occupant of the pulpit, replied: "Mr. Burchard I have observed through a long course of professional experience, that the very meanest class of criminals are those who turn States' evidence."

A POINT SETTLED.—Sometime since we printed an account of a daring robbery at the St. Nicholas Hotel, N Y The thief it will be remembered gained access to the rooms of the guests by clambering out of one of the windows of the fifth story, and making his way from apartment to apartment by means of the iron cornices projecting from the windows. The property stolen was very valuable, and application was made by one of the sufferers for reimbursement by the proprietors of the establishment. This was refused on the ground that the valuables should have been deposited in the hotel safe agreeable to notices posted on the doors of the rooms and elsewhere. Suit was then brought, and after five appeals, each decision affirming the liability of the proprietors, they finally gave up the contest, and paid over the losses with cost of litigation.

THE MODEL MAN.—Josh Billings says the Model Man never disturbs a hen when she is setting: never speaks cross tew a lost dog: always puts a five cent shinplaster in his pocket late Saturday morning for the church platter, rizes whenever a lady enters the street kars, remembers poor unkle plainly, and asks after awl the family. If he steps on a kat's tail he is sure to do it light, and immediately asks her pardon, hooks up his wife's dress and plays hoss with the children. Never meddles with the cream in the milk pans; goes easily ov errands, and comes back in season; attends everybody's funeral, kan alwuz tell when the moon changes; thinks just az yo do, or the other way, if yu want him tew, follows everybody's advice but his owne; practices most ov the virtews without knowning it; leads the life ov a shorn lamb; gits sick after awhile, and dies az soon az he can, to save making enny further trouble.
