There was a very large dancing party at the Grange hall on Friday evening last. Visitors were present from Centre Hall, Millheim and Potters Mills. It approached a regular ball, and proved a very delightful occasion. Dancing was kept up 'til quite a late hour.

Tried to Poison His Family.

A suicide pact in Terre Haute, Ind., contrived by the father and by which he intended to wipe out a family consisting of father, mother and three children, was said by Gertrude McVey, aged twenty, to explain the death of William E. McVey, Mrs. McVey and their five-months-old child.

The bodies of the three were found in a two-room shack by neighbors who were attracted by the frantic screams of Gertrude, the daughter of the dead couple.

The girl said her father had poured the poison from a bottle and deliberately gave the child and her mother the poison and then swallowed what was left in the vial.

Boy Frozen and Crazed.

With both feet and hands frozen, half starved and semi-insane from his hardships, James Fry, a seventeen-year-old boy, was found in a freight car in Cincinnati, O.

He had been locked in the car last Tuesday at Peru, Ind., by practical jokers. When the patrolman who found him tried to feed him a roll Fry endeavored to swallow it whole, and it was only with the combined effort of four men that he could be held long enough to allow nourishment to be given him. He was taken to the City hospital, and the physicians there hold out little hope for his recovery.

Harry Strauss grabbed the child and pulled off the flaming clothes; but it is thought by doctors that her burns will prove fatal. Both Strauss and Mrs. Kern were badly burned.

Man Murdered and Robbed.

The state police in Hazleton, Pa., were summoned to Ashmore, an isolated railroad camp on the new cut-off of the Lehigh Valley railroad, where a man was found murdered.

The dead man is George Kravot, of Blairstown, N. J., a Russian, who was formerly employed at Ashmore. He left that place some time ago and went to Tamaqua, from which town he was returning when killed.

His pockets had been rifled, and over his face was the overcoat of another man, believed to have been his companion.

The new rate of $2.00 will go into effect promptly on April first. The large number whose subscriptions run over into the early weeks of the year, as well as those who were unable to send in new subscriptions before January first, will have this opportunity to get the Companion for another fifty-two weeks at the old price. If you had no other periodical reading for your family, the Youth's Companion would be sufficent—sufficient for keen enjoyment by every one, young and old; sufficient to keep you posted on the important news and events of the day; sufficient to give you a mind richly stored with useful knowledge. The new departments have become indispensable features of the paper. The page devoted to the interests of boys in school and college always has an article of expert advice on athletics by some one who speaks with authority, whether it is football, baseball, skating, swimming, or other vigorous pastime. The page for girls suggests useful occupations at home and profitable occupations in the community, without forgetting that girls like to be ornamental as well as useful. And there is the family page, which in the course of a year fills the place of a domestic encyclopedia.

Subscribe now—today—while the Companion may yet be had for $1.75. The Youth's Companion. 144 Berkeley Street, Boston, Massachusetts.

THE FEBRUARY CENTURY.—Five papers in the February Century bring unusual force and knowledge to the discussion of topics of current interest. Of world-wide importance is Mr. Whelpley's astonishing revelation of the growth and promise of "Germany's Foreign Trade," which he describes as "a marvel of the age," and which, of course, is at bottom the cause of the dangerous friction with England. Mr. Wickersham, the attorney-general of the United States, makes a frank avowal of his satisfaction with "The Enforcement of the Anti-Trust Law," and describes both its merits and the means to supplement rather than to modify the terms of the Sherman statute; Dr. Wiley, the government expert on pure foods, describes the prospects and drawbacks of getting "Back to the Farm," with much pointed instance and circumstance based on personal experience: Prof. Ross, of the University of Wisconsin, begins a serial discussion of the socia and material growth of "The Middle West," which will have great influence in this year's Presidential contest; and Clayton Sedgwick Cooper continues his significant and anecdotal discussion of "The American Undergraduate," with special references in this second paper to the need of more stimulating teaching and the return to a broader view of culture.

In "Stella Maris" W. J. Locke offers the second installment of his new serial novel to Century readers, with a new type of heroine in Stella ("Star of the Sea") and a plot which in its early indications holds out the promise of variety of character and incident and the fascination of romance.
