The Star and Sentinel.

Gettysburg, Friday, April 9, 1869.

TOWN SUBSCRIBERS.—The recent change of residences has disarranged the Carrier's list, and on Friday some were missed. Persons in town failing to get their papers will please promptly inform the Carrier or send word to the office.

PAPERS MISSING.—We have been a good deal annoyed during the last few weeks with complaints from various quarters of failures to receive the "STAR AND SENTINEL." Our entire edition is mailed from printed lists, and there is no possibility of any names being omitted. The papers leave the Gettysburg Post office regularly by mails leaving on Friday and Saturday. The failures complained of must be attributed to the negelect or carelessness of Post office officials through whose hands the papers pass.

☞ Don't fail to go to hear Willits, Wednesday evening. 1t

GAS.—We understand the Town Council have ordered a Gas Lamp to be put up at the corner of East Middle and Stratton streets.

SOLD.—George B. Stover has sold his farm in Cumberland township, 43 acres with improvements, to Wm. H. Wierman, for $4,000.

☞ The Agents of a Reading Mining Company have been prospecting for Iron ore in Oxford township, on the line of the Carlisle pike.

APPEALS.—Mr. MCSHERRY, District Assessor, announces through the Compiler that the Revenue Tax Appeals for this county will be held at the office of J. C. NEELY, Esq., in this place, on the 13th instant.

THE FIRST.—The stringency in the money market made the business incident to the 1st of April move sluggishly this year. There were many disappointments and failures to meet engagements; but a spirit of forbearance and concession has generally prevailed, and the difficulties have been pretty well bridged over.

ACCIDENT.—On Tuesday morning last, Mr. JACOB AUGHINBAUGH, of this place, met with a serious injury, while working on the new Livery Stable in course of erection by Mr. Perry Tate. While fitting the rafters, a hatchet in Mr. Aughinbaugh's hands glanced from a hard knot and cut a deep gash in his right knee, at the joint. The wound is an ugly one and will disable him for some time.

BUSINESS.—The Spring trade is about opening, and our business men are receiving new supplies of goods. Now is the time to look carefully at Advertisements. Business men who advertise liberally are generally found to possess tact and energy, and are prepared to offer inducements to secure custom. If you wish to make Spring purchases, or deal in any line of business, look up the advertisements of live business men.

DEATH OF A CENTENARIAN.—We learn that Mr. Jacob Wolff, residing in the vicinity of Abbottstown, Adams county, died on the 19th ult., at the extreme age of one hundred years. He had 12 children—7 living and 5 dead; grand children, 65 living, 15 dead; great grand children, 285 living, 26 dead; great great grand children, 3 living—making 240 living and 46 dead, or a total of 286.—Hanover Spectator.

ANOTHER LECTURE BY DR. WILLITS.—Rev. Dr. WILLITS, of Philadelphia will deliver another Lecture in Agricultural Hall, on Wednesday evening next, his theme being the "Model Wife." Those who heard his "Sunshine in the Heart," will, of course, be on hand next Wednesday evening. To all others who want to pass a pleasant evening with a genial talker, we unhesitantly recommend the coming Lecture. It is said to be fully equal to "Sunshine in the Heart," and if but half as good it will pay to go and hear him. Wednesday being Prayer-meeting evening, the Lecture will not be delivered until 8 o'clock.

STOLEN.—A valuable Black Mare was stolen from the stable of James A. Grimes, of Cumberland township, on Thursday night last, together with a new quilted calfskin Saddle, plain Bridle and Martingales. The mare is 7 years old, clean limbed, cut in the front feet from racking, small star in the face, light mane, switch tail, one white foot behind, and old collar marks. She was the running mare formerly owned by F. Rahter, of Harrisburg. Mr. J. Grimes offers a reward of $50—$25 for the arrest and conviction of the thief, and $25 for recovery of the mare or any information that will lead to her recovery.

ARRESTED.—On Friday evening last, officer Rouzer received information from Baltimore that a German had committed a robbery in that city, and had left with several trunks, as was supposed in this direction. Mr. Rouzer learned that a person answering to the description was in Hanover, and with assistants took a hack-car—went down to Hanover, and after some trouble arrested the man and brought him Gettysburg. On Saturday morning he was taken before Esquire Myers, who discharged him, no person being willing to make information as to the alleged robbery, and because of uncertainty as to the man's indentity. He returned to near Hanover, and was again arrested on Saturday night, about eight miles from that place, by detectives from Baltimore, who had been apprised by telegram of his arrest here. The Baltimore American gives his name as A. W. Ehrhartt, and says he is charged with stealing between $900 and $1000 from Wm. Schellhaus, proprietor of a public house, at 129 Franklin street, in that city.

IMPROVEMENTS.—Now that Spring has fairly opened, the spirit of improvement in our borough has developed itself with renewed activity, and on all sides we note preparations in this line. In addition to the buildings heretofore noticed as in the course of erection, we note the following;

Perry J. Tate is preparing for the erection of extensive livery stables in the rear of his dwelling, on Chambersburg street.

Messrs. Cashman have a large house about completed in North Stratton street, near Cress's warehouse, and in connection therewith a Carpenter Shop.

John M. Minnigh, having gone out of the Confection business, is about erecting a two-story dwelling on the lower end of Chambersburg street.

Peter Kuhn designs building a two-story brick dwelling on North Stratton street.

Prof. Baugher has commenced the erection of a large dwelling on North Carlisle street, nearly opposite "Stevens Hall."—Other buildings will go up in the same neighborhood.

On York street, Jesse M. Walter will put up a two-story brick dwelling, adjoining his present residence.

Wm. E. Biddle is about putting up a commodious store house, on his lot, a few doors below the Lutheran church.

Near the corner of East street, W. B. Meals has modernized his residence and added a store room, the whole looking very much better than it did before.

Immediately opposite, Charles Stallsmith is about to build a large two-story frame dwelling, in tasteful style.

A square lower down, Wm. Reilley is putting the finishing touches upon a double cottage, three stories plastered, parlors frescoed, &c.

A short distance below this, Wm. Grumbine has put up a snug frame residence.

In the same street, R. G. McCreary, Esq., John Cress and W. F. Baker will erect commodious back-buildings.

In West Middle street, Jacob Hankey has a two-story frame nearly ready for the painters; John Bart a one-story frame nearly finished.

MASON AND DIXON'S LINE.—No geographical line, real or imaginary, during the last half century, has been the subject of more general reference than "Mason and Dixon's Line," and none less generally understood. Constituting the southern boundary of Pennsylvania, and the dividing line between this State, and Delaware and Maryland, and thereby the dividing line of the Free and Slave States of the Atlantic slope, until where it struck the Ohio river, "MASON and Dixon's Line" passed into popular use in the fierce discussions which so long agitated the country by reason of the "irrepressible conflict" between Freedom and Slavery. Now that the contest has been ended in the entire abolition of Slavery throughout the Republic, this geographical line ceases to have any national importance. Still, in view of the past, a few facts in connection with its origin may not be uninteresting to the reader.

In 1854, Hon. John H. B. Latrobe, of Baltimore, delivered an able and interesting lecture before the Pennsylvania Historical Society, in which he dwells at length upon the subject.

It seems that the grants of land to Lord Baltimore, Wm. Penn, and the Dutch settlers of Delaware, were somewhat indefinite and difficulty arose as to the boundaries of the several grants. The grant to Penn made part of his southern boundary to consist of "a circle drawn at twelve miles distant from Newcastle northward and westward, unto the beginning of the 40th degree of Northern latitude."

On the 4th of July, 1760, the heirs of Penn and Lord Baltimore executed a deed of boundary settlement, under which, together with the decisions of the English Court of Chancery, Commissioners were appointed to run the boundary line between Maryland on the one hand, and Delaware and Pennsylvania on the other. The surveyors, under the deed, were Thomas Garnett, Jonathan Hall, John Luken, Archibald McClean, John F. A. Prigge, Archibald Emory, John Watson and William Shankland; whose original field-notes are still preserved in the Maryland archives at Annapolis.

At the end of three years, these Surveyors had accomplished but little more than the adjustment of the southern line of Delaware, half way across the peninsula, the peninsular line North to the intersection of the "tangent point" of the Northern circular confine of Delaware, and the tracing of the "twelve mile circle."

It was from the "tangent point" on this circle, that the meridian was to be continued North to a point, fifteen miles South of Philadelphia, whence should be traced the parallel of latitude westward, that was to divide the provinces, and to the difficulty of tracing this line is attributable the presence of Mason and Dixon in America.

On the 4th of August 1763, Thomas and Richard Penn, and Lord Baltimore, being together in London, agreed with Chas. Mason and Jeremiah Dixon, "two mathematicians or surveyors," "to mark, run out, settle, fix and determine all such parts of the circle, marks, lines and boundaries, as were mentioned in the several articles or commissions, and were not yet completed." Mason and Dixon landed in Philadelphia on the 15th of November following, and began their work at once. They adopted the peninsular lines, and the radius and tangent point of the circle, of their predecessors. They next ascertained the north eastern corner of Maryland, and proceed to run the dividing parallel of latitude. They pursued this parallel, a distance of 230 miles, 18 chains and 21 links, from the place of beginning at the N. E. corner of Maryland, to the bottom of a valley on Dunkard's creek, where an Indian war path crossed their route; and here on the 9th of November 1767,—101 years ago,—their Indian escort told them, it was the will of the Six Nations that the surveys should cease; leaving 36 miles, 8 chains and 59 links, as the exact distance remaining to be run west to the South West angle of Pennsylvania, not far from the Broad Tree Tunnel on the B. & O. Railroad.

By agreement of the parties and the decree of Lord Harkwicke, of the English Court of Chancery, the surveyors, Mason & Dixon, planted at the end of every fifth mile, a stone, graven with the arms of the Penns on one side, and those of the Baltimore family on the other, marking the intermediate miles with smaller stones, having a P on the North side, and an M on the South. This was done as far as Sideling Hill; beyond that, the line is marked by a "vista," cut through the forest, eight yards wide, with piles of stones on the mountain crests, as far as the summit of the Allegany; beyond which the line is marked with posts, with stones and earth heaped around them. Such is the history of Mason's & Dixon's line.

In course of time, the northeast boundary stone of Maryland, was undermined by a brook, and falling down was removed and built into the chimney of a neighboring farm house. When it was missed, a joint commission was authorized by the States of Maryland, Pennsylvania and Delaware, and Lieut. Col. James D. Graham, of the U. S. Topographical Engineers, proceeded to replace it. A "triangular prismatic post of granite," marked with the letters, M, D and P, respectively facing the States to which these letters refer, now marks the beginning of Mason and Dixon's line.

Dixon died at Durham, England, 1777; Mason died in Pennsylvania in 1787.

☞ We guarantee a highly interesting Lecture next Wednesday Evening. 1t

IN COURT.—H. M. NORTH, Esq., of Columbia, counsel for Messrs. Maltby, Northrup, Case, and other bond-holders of the Gettysburg Railroad Company, has commenced proceedings in the Supreme Court of Pennsylvania for a fore-closure of the Mortgage and sale of the road. We presume the proceedings will result in a sale of the road, which has been under sequestration for some years. There will be a contest, however, on the decree of distribution, as the status of Messrs. Maltby, Northrup and Case, will probably be contested by other bond-holders—the issue involving the question whether the bonds held by these gentlemen, originally hypothecated to Johns Hopkins and others, are held absolute or as collateral only.—It is a question in which all the bondholders are deeply interested, and we have been surprised to learn that, with one or two exceptions, counsel have not been employed to look after their interests. Not only are the bond-holders vitally interested in this question of distribution, but also in the sale of the road. The road, with its franchises, ought to bring at least $200,000. Yet, unless some arrangement or combination be effected to bid, there is danger of it going at a nominal sum, involving a heavy sacrifice to the bona fide bond-holders. Would it not be well for the resident bond-holders to have a meeting for consultation, at least? If all were to unite in the employment of counsel to look after their interests, the cost to each would be comparatively trifling.

☞ The "Model Wife" will certainly interest all young gents in search of such an institution. 1t

VELOCIPEDE SCHOOL.—The famous Velocipede has reached Gettysburg at last. Mr. D. C. DUSENBURY, of Mechanicsburg, Pa., will open a Velocipede School in Agricultural Hall, on Monday the 19th inst., when all desiring to indulge in this fascinating exercise will have the opportunity to learn and practice the art. 2t

MERCHANT TAILORING.—JOSEPH JACOBS has commenced the Merchant Tailoring business on Chambersburg street, in the room formerly occupied by R. C. COBEAN. Goods of all styles on hand and made to order. Give him a call. 1t

RELIGIOUS STATISTICS.—In a recent number of the Evangelical Review, the editor, Professor STORER, of this place, furnishes some interesting statistics in regard to the Lutheran church. The population of the world is estimated at thirteen hundred millions, of which 335,000,000 are nominally Christians. These again are divided into 170,000 Roman Catholics, 80,000,000 Protestants, and 76,000,000 Greek Catholics. Of the 80,0000,000 Protestants more than one-half (47,115,500) are Lutherans, which are apportioned thus in round numbers:

|---|---|
| Germany | 25,000,000 |
| Prussia | 8,000,000 |
| Sweden | 3,000,000 |
| Poland and Russia | 3,000,000 |
| Austria and Moravia | 2,000,000 |
| Norway | 1,000,000 |
| United States | 1,000,000 |
| Other Countries | 3,415,000 |
| | 47,115,500 |

These statistics show that the Lutheran Church in the world is larger than all the other Protestant Churches combined; that even in the United States it is numerically the third denomination, numbering more communicants than any other Protestant Church except the Methodist and Baptist. In 1820, when the General Synod was formed, there were but 103 Lutheran ministers; in 1869, more than 2,000 ministers, 3,500 congregations, and 400,000 communicants.

The Christian World, for April, gives the following summary of the statistics of the Methodist Episcopal Church for 1868, showing the magnitude and growth of that powerful denomination in the United States during the previous year:

| | 1868. | Increase. |
|---|---|---|
| Annual Conferences | 71 | 3 |
| Bishops | 9 | — |
| Traveling Preachers | 8,431 | 477 |
| Local Preachers | 9,891 | 450 |
| Total Preachers and Bishops | 18,381 | 910 |
| Members | 1,255,115 | 109,634 |
| Total Ministers and members | 1,273,496 | 109,914 |
| Adult baptisms | 67,065 | 7,982 |

| Value of parsonages | $6,276,579 | $915,284 |
| Total value of churches and parsonages | $47,970,501 | $6,723,707 |

Truly yours, A. A. WILLITS." 1t

THE COST OF ADVERTISING.—The Lancaster Express has the following truthful remarks on the cost of advertising:—The New York Tribune recently received two advertisements from the Post Office Department to be published six weeks, the price to be charged not to exceed $30 and $40 respectively. To these propositions the Tribune thus replies:

"Inasmuch as the publication of the two advertisements in the Tribune would cost, at our lowest rates, $82 50 and $105 respectively, we cannot, of course, insert them for $30 and $40 respectively. The prices named would not cover the cost of the white paper required to print the notices in the Tribune, and we know of no reason why the Government should ask us to do work for a less price than a business man pays. If the law limits the amount that can be paid, we advise Congress to modify the same so as to enable the Departments to insert their advertisements in newspapers where they will be read by those interested. We are always pleased to insert whatever unobjectionable advertisements are offered, but no one man's money is as good as another's, and we must charge all alike. No newspaper with any circulation can afford to insert advertisements at the rates assigned."

This is the plain common-sense view of the matter. It seems difficult for many people to understand that an advertisement in one paper may be worth twice as much as the same notice in another journal of only half the circulation. All journals of established circulation and character, which conduct their business upon correct principles, have a fixed scale of prices, and adhere to it. The very fact that a newspaper is willing to publish an advertisement at half-price, whether for the government or an individual, is prima facie evidence that they have only half value to give in return for the money received. A little reflection ought to satisfy any one, that an advertisement in a paper having a circulation of 2,000 copies is worth just twice as much as the same matter in one circulating only 1,000 copies; and yet it is an every day occurrence for advertisers to insist upon having their advertisements inserted at the half-price rates, without regard to the advantages in circulation. There are few transactions in business more unreasonable than this.

GETTYSBURG POST-OFFICE.—On Monday last, the President sent into the Senate the nomination of JACOB KITZMILLER for Postmaster at Gettysburg. Mr. K. is well known, having filled the office of Prothonotary for three years with marked acceptance, acquiring the reputation of a courteous and efficient officer. He lost an arm in the War for the suppression of the Rebellion, is a thorough Republican, and is amply qualified for the position.—We have no doubt he will make an acceptable Postmaster.

DEAD.—The Knoxville (Illinois) Republican, of the 31st ult., contains an obituary of the death of Mr. LEANDER EIKER, who died from injuries received in the breaking in of the roof of a coal bank on his farm, by which he was buried in the debris for six hours, with scarcely sufficient space to breathe. He was about 30 years of age and a member of Knoxville Lodge No. 86 A. Y. M. Mr. Eiker's parents formerly resided in Adams county.

JUSTICES OF THE PEACE.—Persons who were elected to the office of Justice of the peace, at the recent Spring elections, will do well to bear in mind that they are required by law to give written notice to the Prothonary, within thirty days, of their acceptance.

NEW FIRM.—Mr. NICHOLAS WEAVER, who has so long and sucessfully carried on the Livery business on Washington street, has taken his son LEVI F. WEAVER into partnership, and the business will hereafter be carried on under the name of N. WEAVER & SON, with increased facilities. This change necessitates the closing up of the old books, and Mr. WEAVER desires all indebted to him to call and settle without delay. The books will be found at the office of the Firm, on Washington street, north of Chambersburg street. 1t

NOW IS THE TIME.—Our neighbor, F. CUNNINGHAM, has received another supply of Ready-made Clothing, bought specially for the Spring trade, and which he has marked down to prices to suit the times. He has everything in the line of Men's and Boy's wear, Coats, Pants, Vests, Socks, Suspenders, &c., with a large assortment of Fancy Goods; and those of our friends wanting anything in this line will do well to examine his stock before buying elsewhere, if they want to save money. April 9-2t

☞ OLD OLD—NORRIS will, after the 1st day of January sell all kinds of Winter Clothing at greatly reduced prices—Over Coats as low as $4.00, Cavalry Over Coats at $6.35, Infantry Over Coats $5.25, and all other Winter goods at greatly reduced prices, to make room for Spring goods. tf

GREAT SURPRISE.—We were astonished the other day in passing Arnold's old corner. NORRIS has changed his base to this corner, and is surprising every body that visits him by his large and cheap Stock of Clothing, Hats, Caps, Boots, Shoes, &c. &c. Give him a call. tf.

FOR SALE—A new first class Fallin and Shifting Top BUGGY. Enquire at Dr. O'NEAL'S office on Baltimore street near High. tf

☞ 50 cents admission to hear the "Model Wife." 1t

Buehler, on Carlisle street, opposite the Passenger Depot.
