HERE'S TO SUCCESS IN YOUR FINALS

The vacation is over and the examinations are about to begin. The coming two weeks will find Highacres students burning the midnight oil in preparation for the final evaluation exams. There will be weeping and wailing and gnashing of teeth as cries of "Why didn't I study all semester?" fill the air. If you find yourself approaching these examinations with apprehension, it might be wise to consult The Highacres Collegian Christmas issue. There you will find an article titled "Examology" which deals with at least one effective method or preparing oneself for this, the final testing period of the semester.

Best of luck in the coming exams, and enjoy yourselves during the semester break. We want to see you all back for the February registration.

STUDENT UNION BUILDING

The petitions for the Student Union Building have been drawn up and are ready for your signature. Copies can be found at the desk in the main office. The ball is in play, so let's all pick it up and run for the score of making a reality of our hopes for a Highacres Student Union Building.
