The Literary Editor,

Whether it is caused by ignorance or weakness, or both, we know not; but we have always put a very low estimate upon our abilities as a writer. However, it seems we are bound to "go up," whether we desire it or not. The wise and astute Demosthenes who presides over that ably (?) conducted sheet, the Raftman's Journal, is bound to bring us into notoriety. Last week he furnished his readers with no less than three articles, including his leader, too, all the result of the Clearfield Republican. He labors upon one whole column, in which he neither asserts, or denies a fact. Like the wind, we hear the sound, but we know not from whence it came or whither it goes—as it is all wind, and no argument in the end.

Whenever his articles contain something more than "urg-h," "tho't," "wouldn't," "don't" we will attempt a reply to some of them.

It is our opinion the editor of the Journal had better display his great and immaculate literary proportions in stating some facts to his readers which would be more interesting to them than the attempt to give us notoriety, as we do not intend to accept it from any source of doubtful ability.

We would like to have the editor of the Journal state to his readers the cause of the present panic in our country; the suspension of all the banks; the discharge in the cities of thousands of mechanics and laboring men, upon the advent of winter. Did the election of a Democratic President ever convulse the country in this manner? Give us some thing of this kind from your able pen;—will you do it, Simon Bolivar?

SUSPENSION.—As a general suspension of the Banks has taken place again, we would warn the public against taking money purporting to be issued by any of the following named Banks.

Bank of Commerce, Erie.
Bank of Crawford County.
Bank of New Castle.
Bank of Phoenixville.
Kittanning Bank.
Monongahela Valley Bank.
North Western Bank, Warren.
Pittston Bank.
Shamokin Bank.
Tioga County Bank.

The above list of Banks were all chartered under the administration of Gov. Pollock, and may be generally styled as the "Pollock Banks."

☞ To-day we learn is the time set apart by the officers and Directors of the "Clearfield County Bank," to open their doors, for the purpose of commencing business.

While the Banks elsewhere are closing their doors, the Clearfielders are throwing theirs wide open. Such hospitality is not often met with.

We have no doubt that this Bank will be one of the safest institutions in the country. The officers and Directors appear before the public with all the necessary qualifications, and plenty of money.

☞ During Saturday and Sunday we experienced very cold and stormy weather in this locality, as much so we think as ever we experienced at this season of the year. The Thermometer stood at 10 degrees below zero on Sunday morning.

That "Strange Affair."

SALT LICK, Pa., Nov. 27, 1860.

To the Editors of the Republican.

I noticed a publication in the last week "Raftman's Journal" headed "A Strange Affair," I do not know who gave the information to the Journal, but in justice to the stranger, who left his horse, harness and buggy in the care of Daniel Moore, Esq., I must say the publication is a "Strange affair." The facts in the affair are simply these. On or about the 3rd of Oct. last, the stranger came to the house of Daniel Moore, Esq., and asked for lodging for the night. In the morning his horse was out of the stable, the stable door open, and the horse very much bruised and skinned upon his one side, which I presume was occasioned by the horse laying down in his stall, and rolling over against the door, became fast and in his struggles to get up received the abuse, and pressed the door open. The stranger, in the morning, was unable to proceed on his journey on account of the injuries his horse had received and offered, they say, some very advantageous trades. The horse is very valuable worth, I would say $200. The buggy and harness are worth at least $125. The man I conversed with; and found him a very inteligent man, and a perfect gentleman. Nothing, in my opinion, about him to denote a horse thief; but on the contrary, his deportment and conversation showed him to be a man of respectability. He introduced himself to me by the name of Taylor, said he was from the South, Kentucky. His manners were Southern. He appeared to me to be a man about 35 or 40 years of age. He stopped with Moore that day and night, and the next morning Moore conveyed him to the Sinnamahoning.—The man has not been heard of since.—His horse, buggy and harness remains at Moore's. Yours, respectfully, A.

First Fruits.

The following statement of the consequences of the election of Lincoln, which we take from the Journal of Commerce, is a significant commentary upon the assurances so lavishly given by the Republicans before the election, that their success would restore quiet to the country and quicken all industrial operations so as to furnish ample employment to the laboring classes.

STOPPAGE OF BUSINESS.—Owing to the partial suspension of orders from the South, the small receipts of cash from that quarter, and the prevailing distrust and uncertainty as to the future, manufacturing operations have been suspended or greatly reduced by many large houses, thereby throwing numerous persons out of employment. One clothing establishment which we might name, has discharged 1,000 hands; a hat establishment has discharged nearly 1,000; a saddlery firm has reduced its force about 500; and curtailment is very general. At Newark especially, the crisis is severely felt, on account of their extensive connections with the Southern trade. Should there be no improvement, much suffering must ensue among the laboring classes. It appears singular at first sight, that thus far, houses in the western business are the largest sufferers; but it is inevitable that all classes of traders suffer from the prevailing panic, unless we except the manufacturers of fire arms. It would probably be no exaggeration to estimate the number of persons thrown out of employment since election day, at 20,000; a large proportion of whom are young women.

☞ We learn that Gov. Packer has granted a pardon to John Leonard, who was convicted, and sentenced to the Eastern Penitentiary for seven years, about three years ago, in Bellefonte, for passing counterfeit money.

Instruction in the Schools.

Children should not only be preserved from the cramping forms of school houses and the terrible discipline of the school-master, during those tender years in which nature is developing the little bones, and giving fibrous consistency to the muscles, but when they are put under instruction, the system of tuition should be inductive and natural. Precocity of education is never pleasant to contemplate. The nurseryman knows that the ambitious pear tree, which brings forth fruit its branches can scarcely hold, will have perished almost before its slow and sturdy neighbor has begun to yield. But the slow growth is a sure one, and years of productive life will compensate for early delays. So the child of unnaturally brilliant intelligence may astonish by the fitful spasms that mark his pathway to an early grave—but it is better to await the surer developments which come when nature has fitted the mind and body to struggle and achieve together. The great fault of our education is that it begins too high and progresses too fast. Children are driven into fourth readers and arithmetic, who should be kept down to the simplicity of the alphabet, or familiarizing themselves with the nursery stories of Mother Goose and the House that Jack Built. As a general proposition, it is safe to say that no child should be forced to study much faster or farther than its inclination prompts.—Nature generally arranges in all departments of animated life, the amount each organism is able to accomplish. A youth may seem to be a dunce, because he manifests an indisposition to mental effort, when the fact is that he is only accumulating the vital juices, the bone and the muscle, that will qualify him at some future time to become a thinker, without being a walking skeleton. It is a peculiarity of our day, that we are anxious to get through the world too fast. A century ago, it was about time for a man to go out and grapple with society, when he had touched his thirtieth year;—now, one who has reached that period, has passed through the whole round of sensations, trials and triumphs, and in six cases out of ten, is forcibly reminded by the decay of his natural powers, that "it is appointed unto all men once to die." The round shouldered, sunken-eyed, thin-visaged, hollow-chested crowds of young men and women who pass us on the streets in what almost seems a funeral procession are the victims of the prevalent modes of early education,—the cramming and drilling processes to which youthful minds are subjected. Inquiry will determine the fact, that the largest proportion of nervous, jaundiced, dyspeptic people met with, are intelligent and well-informed.—They are the people who think such glorious thoughts and produce such glorious evidences of genius,—and die. It is the bullet-headed, beef eating numbskulls and ignoramuses, who have to sign their names with crosses, and are dumb in respect to the plainest matters of current information, who have broad chests and full cheeks; who live heartily and die old. Of course, this is not an argument for ignorance; but it is a demonstration of the fact that the absence of harassing mental effort is beneficial to the body, and that the inexorable demands of nature can never with safety be sacrificed to imprudent haste or insane ambition. Morally, the parent who sends a child under eight years of age to school, or the teacher who undertakes to force into the mind of one of such tender years, abstract information, is guilty of manslaughter—for the decay of young manhood or womanhood in such cases may be directly traced to the misuse of childhood. If there were fewer smart babies there would be more great men.

A bird's eye view of our schools in session will satisfy the visitor that great cruelty is borne by the children, who, instead of being at school, should be in the nursery. Little wee bits at children, goggle-headed, pale faced, tired babes, the vertebra too young to support the head, are packed of to school, by erring mothers, merely to get rid of them at home. There the poor creatures are closely seated in rows, in foul air, doubled up, and suffering pains which they cannot describe.—The rooms, some of them not larger than a flower-bed in a city garden, are packed full, coughing and sweltering in young humanity, babbling the alphabet mechanically, and passing the long hours of the day in these charnel houses of the living. There are rooms filled with infants, which the Directors would be ashamed to show to the public. The remedy is entirely in the hands of the parents, and we are sure a mere hint to them will be sufficient to abate what we consider inhuman.—Berks Press.

[illegible] that Douglas has been left, not only in the popular, but in the electoral vote. He is next to Lincoln in the popular vote, and has carried Missouri, and probably California and Oregon, and three straight Douglas men in New Jersey. A very good beginning for a new campaign."

It would be difficult to determine whether cool effrontery, or malignant irony, predominates in the above precious morceau, which we copy from Forney's Press of the 20th inst. The assertion that Douglas is next to Lincoln in the popular vote is characteristically reckless, while the ironical summing up of the States carried by the "Little Giant" must be anything but agreeable to the feelings of that gentlemen and his friends, after their efforts in the contest. Who can fail to see in the language of Forney how little he cares for Douglas or his success?

REMEMBER, Strumous or Scrofulous affections are the curse, the blight of mankind. They are vile and filthy, as well as fatal. They arise from impurity and contaminations of the blood, and are to be seen all around us everywhere. Thousands daily are consigned to the grave from the direful effects of this disease. But why trifle any longer, when the remedy is at hand? Dr. LINDSEY'S BLOOD SEARCHER, the only effectual preparation now before the people, that does its work mildly and safely. It does not close the issue superficially, while

"Foul corruption mining all within,
Infects unseen."

But purges the entire system of all impure Matter, invigorates the body, and leaves the Afflicted in the enjoyment of good health. To convince the skeptical of its healthy effects, try but one bottle, and be convinced. Sold by all Druggists in this place, and dealers throughout the country.

A NOVELTY in the ART WORLD!!—PHOTOGRAPHY UPON PORCELAIN.

Secured by letters patent in the United States, England, France and Belgium.

The American Photographic Porcelain Company, No. 781 Broadway, New York, having secured their novel and ingenious invention by American and European patents, are fully prepared to execute all orders for presenting all the attractive and advantageous features of ordinary photographs, the brilliancy and finish of a water-color drawing, and a hitherto unattained quality of durability, by being rendered as imperishable as the natural properties of the articles upon which they are transferred.

As the patented process of the Company enables the reproduction of photographs, not only on plain surfaces, but upon such as are round or of any degree of irregularity, portraits can be reproduced with faultless accuracy and delicacy of delineation, upon Porcelain wares of any description and dimension used as articles of luxury or of household utility, such as Urns, Vases, Breakfast Cups, Toilet Articles, &c.; thereby securing faithful portraits and furnishing a unique and exquisite style of ornamentation of articles in domestic use.

In order to furnish facilities for the gratification of the popular taste, and to meet the wants of those patrons of the fine arts desirous of having portraits on Porcelain, the Company have imported from Europe a collection of superior porcelain goods, manufactured to their own order, which they will sell at cost prices.

As the American Company are owners of the patent right, and consequently the only persons authorized to use the process, they have determined, in order to afford people in every section of the Union an opportunity to possess portraits on China, to make the following proposition to residents in the country, who are unable to visit personally the Atelier and Galleries in New York:

Persons sending a photograph, ambrotype, or daguerreotype to the office of the Company in New York, accompanied by $5, will receive in return by express, free of charge, a richly ornamented Breakfast Cup and Saucer, with the portrait transferred thereon.

By transmitting a daguerreotype and $10, they will receive in like manner a handsome French Vase or Toilet Article, with the portrait reproduced by the patented process.

By sending a pair of daguerreotypes and $15, they will receive in return a pair of rich Sevres Vases, with the portraits executed equal to miniature paintings; and, in like manner, portraits can be reproduced on porcelain wares or Vases of every quality of finish, ranging in price from $20 to $100 the pair.

N. B.—Be particular in writing the address, town, county, and State distinctly.

All letters to be addressed to "Manager, American Photographic Porcelain Co., 781 Broadway, New York." nov7-3m
