TUESDAY MORNING, JULY 28, 1859.

A GRAND MUSICAL FESTIVAL IN LONDON.—In their worship of the memory had the music of Handel, the great German composer who lived so long in England, the English sometimes perform wonders. They have just finished a musical festival at the Sydenham Crystal Palace, in honor of the hundredth year since his death, which was not only the grandest ever known, but grander than any festival that could have been given in any other city of the world. The performers, vocal and instrumental, were about four thousand; the festival extended through a week, on alternate days; the total attendance was over eighty thousand; the receipts amounted to £20,000 or $100,000. After all expenses were paid, the Crystal Palace Company had a clear profit of about £10,000; or $50,000. The average price of admission was 8s. 2d., which is about equal to two of our dollars; so that the festival, although so well supported by the people, is not at all what we should call a low-priced entertainment.

CHANGES OF BUSINESS LOCALITIES IN NEW YORK.—Real estate holders in the lower part of New York city—in all the region lying below the Park—begin to have serious apprehensions about the depreciation of their property, in consequences of the up-townward movement of business. In Cedar, Liberty and Pine streets, which, ten years ago, were deemed the most desirable locations for trade, rents have come to so low a point as to be comparatively nominal. Importers and jobbers are rushing to Broadway from the Park up to Niblo's, and to the side streets between those points. The fashionable Broadway afternoon downward promenade stops now at Canal street, while the upward current eddies off at Union square into Fifth avenue. Central Park is fully in the public eye as the future play and display ground of the Gothamites: and in a couple of years or so, its ample grounds, walks, drives, ponds, ravines, dells and dales, will be free as air to the town's overworked masses of humanity.

W. L. YANCY, one of the shining lights and most distinguished leaders of Southern Democracy, gives as his reason for being a democrat, that the measures of the Democracy are calculated to produce disunion. There's a volume of truth in almost a single line.

Senator Albert G. Brown, of Mississippi, proclaimed in a recent speech "that the only hope of the Southern Democracy was to make a fight in the Charleston Convention—to go there determined to have their views incorporated in the creed of the party, or break up the concern in a row. He had no doubt, as they had heretofore controlled the party on all great questions, that the Northern freesoil element would yield in graceful submission again. If they did not, why, then, apply the torch to the great temple of Democracy, and blow the concern to flinders. Rather than see the party destroyed, the North, which didn't care for principle, would allow anything to be interpolated into the creed."

EXTRAORDINARY FACT.—The Independence (Mo.) Messenger publishes the comparative statement of the Assessor's Books of Jackson county, Mo., in which are situated Independence, Kansas City and Westport, from which it appears that the number of negroes (slaves) in that county, have decreased 500 in the past year, which is about 17 per cent. The Messenger accounts for the fact by supposing they have been sold South.

A clever sailor has lately joined the Sons of Temperance in the city of Philadelphia, after running a course of dissipation, by which his means were pretty well exhausted. At the time of signing the pledge, he was indebted to the rum-seller one shilling. A few days ago he went to pay off the score, but being determined not to enter the house in which he was robbed, he got a long pole, attached a piece of money to the end of it, and standing at the outside of the door, reached it to the astonished publican, and marched off with a jolly heart.

M. LAME, the celebrated naturalist of Gotha, has lately discovered that the hedge hog is not injured by the poison of the adder, even when bitten in the snout or lips, and that it likes to dwell where the vipers and snakes are found, which it destroys in large numbers. Should not hedge hogs be acclimatised in the West Indies, where venomous reptiles abound? In the Antilles a prize was recently offered for a serpenticide.

2. Their great power of tone.
3. Their quality of air.
4. Their prompt and easy touch.
5. Their beautiful style of finish.
