THURSDAY, MARCH 7, 1867.

An Outrageous Robbery.

We learn from the Pottsville Miners' Journal, that one night last week, the residence of an old couple, Thomas Edwards and wife, three miles from that place, was visited by a band of thieves and robbed. The Journal gives the old folks' account of it as follows:

They say they had just gone to bed (about eight o'clock,) when they heard a tap at the front door. The door was opened, and the man asked if they had anything to drink. Then the whole crowd, (ten Irishmen) rushed in. Some went up stairs, and some went into the bed room where Mrs. Edwards was in bed. One of the men held two revolvers at her head, and told her that she had "to go and see God to-night;" that she had to have six of those loads down her throat. Then they covered her over with a sheet. While this was going on, three of the brutes tried to put Mr. Edwards on a fire to roast him. Brave acts truly, towards a man seventy-seven years of age, and a woman sixty-four years old. Four of the men searched Mrs. Edwards and found nearly one hundred dollars in her bosom. They then searched the house, and finally decamped with one hundred dollars in money, a silver watch, all the clothing they could find, making in all a loss of two hundred and fifty dollars. Among the articles stolen was a pair of boots which belonged to and were worn by a son of Mr. Edwards at the time he fell in battle during the rebellion. One of the robbers sat down and pulling off his old boots put on those of Mr. Edwards' son. On the leg of the robbers' old boots left behind were the letters "P. B." They also took a clock, which being heavy, they carried only a short distance. It was found the next morning near the house.

Serious Accident.

The York True Democrat says: On Thursday evening last, about five o'clock, Jacob Loucks, Esq., who resides on the Bull road, a short distance from this borough, met with a serious accident which has placed his life in imminent peril. He had come to town on business and had left his horses, which were attached to a light vehicle, standing in front of Christian Bender's store, on the corner of West Main and Penn streets. The horses became alarmed at some noise which was made by a boy in the vicinity, and started to move off, when Mr. Loucks ran to catch them, but missed his hold of the rein and fell. One of the horses kicked him in the forhead, inflicting a wound about an inch square, and fracturing the skull bone to such an extent that some of the particles of it were driven into the brain. He was subsequently taken to his home, and Dr. Jacob Hay, Jr., Dr. Henry L. Smyser and Dr. James W. Kerr, were called in and promptly attended to his injuries. There were ten fragments of bone taken from the wound, and a portion of the brain oozed out in the operation, which of course was one of a very delicate and painful character. After this he sank into a dreamy and apparently unconscious state, and at our last advices was said to be in a very critical condition. There was a little daughter of Mr. Loucks in the vehicle at the time the horses commenced running, but she was thrown out before they reached home, and though considerably soiled with mud, we are happy to say, escaped with only slight injury. Mr. Loucks is well known in this borough as a gentleman, and an active and efficient business man, and both he and his family have the sympathy of a large circle of friends and acquaintances. His recovery is considered exceedingly doubtful.

Terrible Accident.

On Saturday morning last, a dreadful accident occurred on the East Pennsylvania railroad, near Temple Station. Two young ladies, Miss Kauffman, of Ontalaunce township, and Miss Groff, of Upper Bern township, started for the railroad intending to go to Reading. Upon reaching the station and finding they had missed the train, they concluded to walk to the city as the distance is not very great, and proceeded down the railroad. When they arrived at the Eastern Railroad crossing, beyond the Alsace Church, they heard a train coming, had proceeded but a short distance, when Miss Kauffman's right foot was caught in the cow-trap at the crossing. Miss Groff, seeing her critical situation, endeavored to release her, and whilst they were both struggling, the train which had now proceeded too far to be stopped, passed over them. Miss Kauffman was shockingly mangled, both her legs being horribly mutilated, and Miss Groff was struck on the head and breast, and much hurt internally. The train was stopped as soon as possible, and all the available assistance to alleviate their sufferings was rendered. Miss Kauffman died about noon. Miss Groff is still living, but hopes are scarcely entertained of her recovery.

A York County Tooth.

They have found a big tooth in York county, and the True Democrat thus describes it: "Our neighbors of the Gazette office had placed in their hands last week a chrystalized substance of some kind, resembling the molar tooth of an animal, and which was dug out of the ground, by a farmer in York county, at no very great depth from the surface of the earth. The tooth, if such it be, weighs some pounds, and spreads itself over a considerable surface, showing it to have belonged to an animal materially larger than any known to the past deluvian world. The substance has now turned into stone, yet it presents all the distinct outlines of a molar tooth, roots and enamel, but everything perfectly chrystalized. When the weather improves and the ground is in better working order, it is the intention of the farmer to dig deeper and make further research, with the prospect, of course, of finding the balance of the bones of this huge monster which Noah could not squeeze into his ark along with the rest of the members of his interesting family.

The Galiup Murder.

The West Virginia Journal says: Some weeks ago a watch was sold by two young men of this county, which was afterwards identified as that of George M. Gallup, who was foully murdered near Parkersburg last spring. They were arrested on suspicion and taken to Parkersburg, and, after an examination, were honorably acquitted. The watch, we understand, had been obtained by them from a young jeweler carrying on in this town last summer, since in Cincinnati; and his arrest, together with that of a young citizen of our county, followed. The latter was conveyed to Parkersburg last week by Deputy Sheriff Mahan, and has obtained bail; while the former were brought from Cincinnati and Parkersburg. A third party, from the vicinity of the scene of the murder, is also under arrest for the crime. The trial will shortly commence, when the evidence against these parties will transpire. Till then we refrain from comments.

Horse Thief Caught.

We learn that a man was arrested at Easton, on Wednesday last, for stealing a pair of horses and heavy farm wagon, which he had in his possession. The property was taken from the vicinity of Camden, New Jersey. The man with the wagon and horses, which were a pair of fine bays, stopped at Nathan Riale's hotel, at Ottsville, in Tinicum, on Tuesday, the day before he was arrested, where he stated he was on his way to Michigan, and offered to trade his team for one less cumbersome, giving as a reason that he wanted to raise some money to aid him in his journey. He had in the wagon a quantity of hay and some horse feed. A description of the man and the stolen property had been telegraphed to Easton, and when he arrived there on Wednesday he was immediately taken into custody.

A Dead Child Found.

The Harrisburg Telegraph says: Information recently came to the ears of Mayor Edwards that a child, born at the States Union Hotel, some time ago, had been buried in the yard adjoining said house. Accordingly, this morning, a search led to the discovery of the remains. They had been placed in a box and buried on the premises. They were very greatly decomposed. Catharine Kelly, alleged to have been the mother of the child, was arrested, and acknowledged that the infant was hers—that it was born in October last, and was dead at the time. It was born on a Sunday morning, and was not buried until Monday afternoon. The principal charge against Catharine Kelley seems to be that of concealing the birth of an illegitimate child. She was a boarder at the States Union Hotel at the time.

Escape from the City Prison.—About half-past eight o'clock on Monday night fourteen chain-gang prisoners escaped from the Columbus city prison. They broke a hole in the wall under the southwest window in the second story, tied their blankets together, and with the assistance of this impromptu ladder lowered themselves to the ground. Three others of the chain-gang refused to join in the skedaddle, and one of those who succeeded in getting out, returned in half an hour to his old quarters voluntarily. None of the others were retaken.

Penitentiary Arrivals.—The Columbus Journal says: The following prisoners were received at the Ohio Penitentiary yesterday: From Holmes county, Amos Luke, burglary and larceny, one year; from Van Wert county, James Hedges, manslaughter, one year; from Mahoning county, Henry Linneman, assault with an intent to commit a rape, six years; from Carroll county, Jarritt Davis, manslaughter, one year.

Oil Accident.—Edward Treat, from near Conneaut, Ohio, was terribly burned Thursday morning, on the Stor Farm, while kindling a fire with crude oil. The can exploded, and his clothes were on fire in an instant. He had the presence of mind to plunge himself in the creek, near by, thus extinguishing the flames and saving his life. Though he was badly burned, it is believed he will recover.

Centenary Meeting.—The Centenary Meeting of Allegheny College, at Meadville, was held on Thursday evening last. The exercises were highly interesting, and the contributions of the evening amounted to $6,364.

Counterfeit Coin.—Counterfeit five-cent coins are in active circulation. The die or matrix is perfect, but the metal is very base, in some instances being but little better than lead.

Land Slides.—Several slides occurred on the track of the Oil Creek Railroad, a short distance below Titusville, on Saturday morning, in consequence of which the trains were delayed about eight hours.

The Trial of Montgomery.

The Wheeling Intelligencer in speaking of Montgomery's acquittal says: The trial of William Montgomery, Jr., at Washington, Pa., as an accomplice in the murder of Robert Dinsmore, has ended in his acquittal. From the efforts made in his behalf, which were all that money and influence could bring to bear, this result has not been unexpected. He stands acquitted in the eye of the technicalities of law, but there is one or two very curious circumstances, the effect of which it will be hard to erase from the mind of the public.

The testimony of persons about the Jail as to the remarks of Lennox to Fogler, warning him to keep his mouth shut on the details of the shocking tragedy in which, by his own confession, and as established in court, he stood a guilty participant and showed that the evidence of this doomed man, who has nothing to expect at the hands of his fellow men, and nothing to hope for at the bar of the Eternal Judge, by an evasion of the truth, was to be feared. His refusal to say a word either for against Montgomery, showed either that he had a false hope, which still clung to earth and mortal life, or that to the stupendous crime which now stains his soul he feared to add the sin of perjury. If Montgomery was not his accomplice, what was easier for him in the presence of the Almighty God, and those hundreds of witnesses, and under the solemn injunction of that righteous Judge, that he should utter the truth, as he expected to answer to God, than for him to have said, the accused was not my accomplice, he is not guilty.

Granary Burned.—On Friday night the granary and stable belonging to Mr. A. Moore, residing in Baden, were burned to the ground, together with two or three sets of harness and a considerable amount of grain and hay. Fortunately the horses were got out of the stable in safety. The building was entirely destroyed. The origin of the fire is unknown, but it is supposed to have been incendiary. Mr. Moore's loss will probably amount to $1,500, partially covered by insurance.

Threatened.—Mary Ballard is afraid of William Davis, who lives on Tunnel street. She alleges that on Tuesday night he came armed with bricks to her residence on Roberts street, in the Seventh ward, and threatened to break into her room. Yesterday she went before Alderman Taylor and preferred a charge of surety of peace against William. A warrant was issued.

Explained.—An exchange that contained a sensation item about "a young man who was found suspended from a tree, hung by his suspenders," forgot to explain that the said suspenders were attached to the young man's inexpressibles, and that the catching of them on a broken limb merely saved him from a severe fall.
