WILL THE PEOPLE DECIDE?

For several years past popular sentiment in Pennsylvania has gravitated, and with increasing strength, towards Freedom in Railroad Building. Last summer such unanimity was developed among the people that both political parties, and both candidates for Governor, were constrained fully to endorse the policy. A large majority of the individuals who obtained seats in the Legislature, at the following election, were either formally pledged or definitely understood to concur heartily in the prevailing opinion.

Upon the convocation of the Legislature it was manifest a change had come over the thoughts and purposes of the members. This was more fully disclosed as soon as the Free Railroad Bill was introduced into the Senate. It was referred, as a matter of course, to the Committee on Railroads, which had been constituted to meet this contingency. The Chairman of that Committee is the ablest man in the body; a clergyman of repute in his sect; blameless and respected in his private relations; and aspires to a seat in the United States Senate, in virtue of his official compliances with the behests of powerful corporate interests, but which he will be sure to miss. By the Committee alterations were made in the bill which revolutionized its character, making it provide effectually for suppressing freedom in constructing railroads, instead of sanctioning such freedom. In this perverted form the bill, against the most urgent remonstrances, was put through the Senate. In the House the look is no better.

The bill to repeal the act repealing the charter of the Pittsburgh and Connellsville Railroad Company, afforded another exhibition of the same spirit and intention.

When action touching these bills had assumed consistency and shape, so as not to be misinterpreted, a bill was brought forward to increase the capital stock and bonded indebtedness of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company, without consulting the wishes or rights of the stockholders, to any extent the Directors may hereafter see fit. Now there is no valid objection to increasing the stock of this Company to any definite sum desirable for perfecting track and augmenting facilities, but there are the strongest reasons why a company should not be armed with unlimited power, as well as why Directors should not be made supreme, in any particular, over the constituency. In these particulars the bill was not only anómalous, but of dangerous tendency. Liberality should be the rule towards all railroad enterprises, old or new; but this altogether surpasses toleration or endurance.

In discussing, a few days ago, "The Relations of Pennsylvania to the Great West," the objectionable features of the bill were not in our mind. We viewed the bill simply as a means of giving to the Commonwealth power to compete successfully with Northern rivals for the prize lying west of the Mississippi. To that view we add neither qualifications nor abatements; and we now have the pleasure of announcing, that, after the first highly objectionable bill had fallen under the veto of the Governor, a new bill, adding fifteen millions to the capital stock of the Company, under the sanction of the stockholders, was introduced and immediately put upon its passage; that it passed the House with very little opposition and the Senate unanimously, received the Executive approval and is now a law. Thus the views we expressed in that article have been almost unanimously sustained by the Legislature and the Governor.

A week or so since we pointed out the only remedy for what is objectionable in the policy of the Commonwealth touching railroads; which consists in discarding old party arrangements and obligations for a season, and a drawing together of the people independently for the rectification of this evil. A Free Railroad Party can purify the legislation of the Commonwealth on this class of questions, and no other instrumentality can.

The Commercial copied what we said in full, handsomely endorsing it. Beyond this no citizen of Pittsburgh has assured us of his countenance in that movement. The people are the masters. Gaseous leaders in the journals may break the monotony of these dull and wet days, but will win no practical conquests.

Will the people decide? If so, the City Hall is a suitable place to inaugurate the movement.

RETALIATION.

When members of Congress resist the appropriation of one million of dollars to keep men, women and children in the Southern States from starving to death, for the reason that the Constitution does not authorize such expenditure of public moneys, we admit the force of the objection, and only wish that on all other subjects those gentlemen were equally scrupulous in keeping within the exact limit of their prerogatives. When other members excuse their refusal to sanction the appropriation, on the plea that it is necessary to spare the tax-payers by economizing expenditures, we only wish they had been equally considerate when determining the matter of raising their own salaries, and in deciding upon hundreds of other lavish or unnecessary grants. But when members place their refusal on the ground of retaliation for the cruelties inflicted by the Confederate Government or the rebellious inhabitants upon Union soldiers who fell into their hands as prisoners of war, they seem to us actuated by a ferocity and implacability, beyond the depth of human passions, and descending to the regions of the infernal and demoniac.

When the Confederate government, during the progress of the strife, was slaughtering, by systematic starvation, Union men, prisoners of war in their hands, we advocated retaliation, both as a measure of justice and mercy. Retaliation, then, would have brought the Confederate authorities to their senses, and saved the lives of thousands and tens of thousands of good men. After the war was over, we urged that the Southern leaders, who reduced starvation to a system, organizing it as a regular instrument of military operations, should be brought to condign punishment, and for this specific offence. Not one of them has been arraigned. Most of them have been pardoned. Nor can the fault be laid exclusively at the door of the President. Congress, as a body, has manifested impatience neither with the remissions nor clemency of the Executive touching this class of cases. It armed the President with discretionary power. He has used it, and the power has not been revoked.

If a man is attacked by violent men, who intend harm either to his person or property, he may defend himself, by any or all means at his command, so that he does not transcend actual necessity. Courts and juries are prone to allow much in favor of a man so assailed. They do not hold him to the rigid rule of balancing probabilities nicely, so as to use no more force in self-defence than upon a calm survey afterwards might appear sufficient. Allowance is made for the inevitable haste and perturbation of the instant. What if the next day, or month, or year, the man attacked should meet his assailants in a crowded thoroughfare, and shoot them down on sight? Does any body imagine the slaughter would be excused on the score of justifiable retaliation? Surely not. The original offenders were where they could be arrested, and delivered to the custody of the laws.

But the proposition to let the Southern people starve, because Union prisoners of war were deliberately famished, is worse than this. No assurance is given, or can be afforded, that the individuals now suffering at the South are properly answerable for the enormities justly complained of. It is not clear that all of them were even resident in the Southern States during the war. Many since have gone hither from the North or from Europe. Not a few of them may have been, and doubtless were, loyal all through the great struggle. At all events, the rebellion is suppressed. The masses of the Southern people are no longer public enemies, but fellow-citizens. It is neither humane nor patriotic to foster old enmities, or to implant fresh causes of alienation. They are true statesmen, who, not forgetting the past, so control their resentments as to rebuild again the foundations of the Union with the cement of mutual helpfulness.

THE notorious ISHAM G. HARRIS writes, from Mexico, where he is living in exile, and doing penance for his active part in the rebellion, a doleful letter to the Memphis Avalanche, in which he depicts that country as anything but a pleasant place wherein to dwell. He has left in search of a new home. He will roam the world over and find no dwelling place so comfortable as the one he has forfeited by treason and infidelity to the Government.

AT $30,000 the Tammany Society of New York has purchased the old site, on Fourteenth street, of the Medical College of the University. The lot is 116x121, and if in a Pittsburgh business centre would command nearly double that price. The Society will erect their new political headquarters without delay at a cost exceeding $300,000.

EX-GOVERNOR DENNISON, of Ohio, has again published a card, stating that his business engagements and private affairs will not permit his being a candidate for gubernatorial honors at the coming election.

MR. PIKE, of Pike's Opera House, Cincinnati, refuses to allow the use of his name as a candidate for the Mayoralty of that city.

THE Democracy of Ohio are in favor of holding a grand National Convention of the party, at Louisville on the Fourth of next July.

BEHIND THE LIGHTHOUSE.
Old fogyism is not quite dead. People are still to be found who think that health is promoted by depletion! Was there ever such falsologic! Nature is the grand antagonist of disease, and the depletors propose to prostrate Nature, in order, one might suppose, to give the enemy a double chance at the life of the patient! The true practise is so to invigorate the vital powers as to render them an overmatch for the elements of disease. This can be done with HOSTETTER'S STOMACH BITTERS. Of all vegetable tonics they are the most powerful and the most genial. At this season when even the strongest organizations are liable to be affected by the alternations of stringent cold and malarious moisture, this inestimable protective medicine is especially needed. Persons predisposed to biliousness, dyspepsia, constipation, intermittent fever, or any of the complaints which cold weather superinduces or aggravates, should take it regularly throughout the Winter and Spring months. It is absolutely pure and harmless.

THE INDIANS AND THE WHITE PINE.
Although long known to the aborigines of America, Dr. George W. Swett, of Boston, has brought into shape for convenient use, a most valuable preparation called POLAND'S WHITE PINE COMPOUND, which for a number of years has given great satisfaction in the cure of all those ailments dependent on an inflamed or irritated condition of the mucous membranes of the animal organism. For gravel, diabetes, dropsy, chronic bronchitis, nasal catarrh, constipation, when depending on a debilitated state of the intestines, it is one of the most valuable discoveries recently added to pharmaceutical medicine. It is likewise a most valuable compound for diseases of the kidneys and bladder generally, as any one can satisfy himself upon a simple trial. Every one knows the healing virtues of the white pine for sores and ulcers, but Dr. Swett has gone to work and prepared from the sweet inside bark of that valuable tree a compound that will meet every indication where the pine would be valuable.
It is confidently recommended for the following ailments:
Diabetes in young or middle aged people;
Dropsy of the Urine;
The same difficulty in children during the night;
Gravel, Kidney Trouble in old people;
Ulcerated Kidneys, Ulcerated bladder;
Discharge of mucus, or pus, or blood from the bladder;
Bright's Disease of the Kidneys;
Pain in the Kidneys, Small of the Back;
Pain in the Bladder, Urine and Scalding!
Ask for POLAND'S WHITE PINE COMPOUND. For sale by the great dozen or single bottle, at Dr. Keyser's great medicine store, 166 Wood st. mh18:d&w

PITTSBURGH
LIGHTNING ROD WORKS.
HUNSON'S COPPER TUBULAR
LIGHTNING-RODS.
With Spiral Flanges.
This Rod has the power to carry off as much electricity as any rod made from iron rods; in other words (equal to a solid bar of iron thirty inches in circumference) rods, it does not matter if it cannot get out of order. They have received the highest premiums at State and District Fairs and Institutes; they have never been known to attract; they have been recommended by several hundred Professors in the best Academies and Colleges in the United States, as the best Rod ever invented. In the United States Patent Office, Washington, Prof. Henry, Smithsonian Institute; Prof. Agassiz, Cambridge; Prof. Peirce, Cambridge; Prof. Wood, Cambridge; Prof. Haverly of Pennsylvania, and L. C. Persing, President Pittsburgh Female College.
Among the hundreds of buildings upon which this Rod was erected within the past year in this vicinity we may mention the Locomotive Works; Bessemer Steel Mill, Allegheny; Spurting Mill; First Presbyterian Church of Allegheny; Second and 3rd ward School House, Pittsburgh; City Poor House, Pittsburgh; St. Bridget's Church, Pittsburgh, &c., &c. In the surrounding country many of these Rods have been erected on residences or public buildings. It may be examined on the Lutheran Church at Johnstown; on the Methodist Church at New Castle; on Dr. Heard's residence, Hicksville; on residences of Esquire Lawrence, Beaverfield; M. Fulton, McKeesport; Wm Ewing, Frankfort Springs; R. P. & J. W. Lacey, Allentown; Col. Wm. Miller, Fort Perry; J. Baker, Neville Island; J. Lockhart, Avalon; Peter L. W. Lowe, Sharpsburg; J. F. Miller, Fredom, Friend Huston, Bakerstown, &c., &c. This Rod is adopted by all who want lightning Rods wherever it is introduced, and in all experience of six years we have never known an instance of damage to a building protected by it, while many instances occur every year of damage to buildings upon which iron rods have been erected; so noticeable has this fact become in communities where attention is called to the subject, that we are almost daily called on to take down the iron rods and erect Hite Hunson Copper Rod.
Price, 30 cents per foot and $3 for points on each rod. Our workmen will go to any part of the country without extra charge.
