The time of year is here, the great migration of 10-year-olds to the 'over-the-hill-gang" have flocked to the pigskin. This week's look is at the violent world of pro football. The AFC surprises and not so surprises. The only surprise, if it was to begin with, is that Miami is giving Baltimore a Dolphins have a finely the AFC East will not be straight win saturday. A normal, the central division unable to score a TD., had to lacks interest and the western division has Oakland and Kansas City fighting it out for the "n th" time.

The NFC shows a bit more excitement and interest. The east sees George Allen's "baldheaded" corps leading the pack. Dallas is (blessed?) with two capable quarterbacks and one bush league coach. Who ever heard of shuffling quarterbacks on every play?

The eastern division also maintains a team which is proving or disproving what most high school, college and now pro coaches love. The Philadelphia Eagles lose their first five games and their coach, Ed Kahyat says the mustachios and long hair must go. As you all know, the Eagles have not lost since then. The NFC central division also has some bright spots in the revitalized Chicago Bears. With the likes of Minnesota and Detroit and Green Bay this division has been given a rightful name, the black and blue division. The Bears have simply been "putting-it-all-together." The west, which usually possessed an exciting 49 ers - Rams fight down to the wire has lost some of its brilliance mainly because of Archie Manning of the Saint's and a "devoted" (Norm squad. All in all, the pro football drag without our local swamie, Broadway Joe. The NFC is more suitable, but football is still "just" football, to be enjoyed by those who earn their living by it, and those who witness these men earn their living.
