Fire in Williamsport.—Early on the morning of the 18th inst., a destructive fire occurred in the city indicated, destroying the large planing mill of F. M. Hartshorne & Co., with 120,000 laths, and two dwellings, the property of Peter Herdic. Sixty-three machines of the latest improved style were destroyed in the mill, together with a large amount of stock. Fifty men are thrown out of employment. The fire originated in the fire room.

Hunters, Attention!—Judge Junk in, in his recent charge to the grand jury of Perry county, laid down the law that "say shooting at supposed game, before the sportsman has discovered his mark, is careless, and if the object thus carelessly fired at, turns out to be human, and death ensue from the shot end wounded, that is manslaughter." People who are in the habit of firing at supposed game or at places where they may wound or kill persons, might as well make a note of this.

A New Version of An Old Story.—Ben. Franklin gave the people of his day a recipe for obtaining health, wealth and wisdom. The present generation is not supposed to be in want of wisdom, and would prefer happiness combined with health and wealth. The modern way to obtain all these is told in the advertisement of Barrick, Roller & Co., headed "Health and Happiness" in this paper. We cordially recommend our readers to the careful consideration of their advice. dec26 2t

The exposure incident caused him to take to his sick bed again; but we are glad to know that he is convalescent. Pluck of that kind is worth mentioning these days."

Another of the Oldest.—Departed this life, at the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. Geo. W. Rheem, in this borough, on the morning of the 19th day of December, A. D. 1877, Henry Stone, in the 77th year of his age. Mr. Stone was born in the State of Vermont. He came to this county over forty-three years ago, and, therefore, was what may be termed one of the oldest surviving settlers. He was elected to the office of County Commissioner, in October, 1866, and served a term of three years with honor to himself and the public. His wife and one daughter—Mrs. Geo. W. Rheem—are the only members of his family that survive.

Sheep Dogs.—Mr. Clark Brown, one of our worthy County Commissioners, has taken considerable interest for several years past in improving a flock of sheep on his farm, a few miles south of this borough, in Lawrence township. He had a flock of as fine Cotswolds, fifteen in number, as ever yielded wool; but the dogs got among them last Thursday night and killed all but one. He has been a pretty bad tempered Commissioner ever since. And, by the way, we advise the various candidates for Clerk, Mercantile Appraiser, Janitor, etc., to approach him very slyly, for a week at least, and then never say sheep or dog, unless you would rather have his opinion of sheep dogs than you would his opinion about the appointment.

Christmas.—The New York Tribune advises people who meet stiff, this Christmas, to slight the grown-up people rather than the children: "If they have been used to a tree, go without your cigars or new bonnet, but let it rise for them on this Christmas morning with all its old splendor. Moreover, cut off your wealthy friends with a trifle rather than withhold a liberal gift for the needy; as far as possible, get work on Christmas presents done where it will be charity to the person whose services you pay for. Finally, 'Remember the poor,' not by sending turkey to one hungry family, or a ton of coal to another, and then dropping the whole class out of your mind for the rest of the holidays, but by actually taking thought how to help them substantially." The last suggestion has something in it; but, after all, a turkey to the hungry and a ton of coal to the freezing is "substantial" help and if judiciously given will go far to bless the giver and the donee.

Fatal Accident.—One of the most painful accidents that ever occurred in Tyrone, says the Tyrone Herald, happened between three and four o'clock on Tuesday afternoon of last week, resulting in the death of a bright little girl some 16 months old, of Mr. Frank Horesch, who resides in house adjoining the residence of Mr. D. D. Wood. At the time above named the little girl and her little brother about four years of age, were in a room alone. They had shoved a chair up to a sink, and from the chair the boy had climbed up on the sink, from which he could reach to a shelf above, where a small revolver was lying, the little girl only being able to follow him as far as the chair. The little boy, of course not knowing the danger of handling the weapon, which was loaded, took it from its place on the shelf and by some means, which is not known exactly, discharged one load from it, the ball passing the left side of the face of the little girl, leaving a scar or burn on her cheek, and entering her left breast immediately below the collar bone, passing through the left lung and lodging just inside the skin below the lower rib and near the back bone. About seven o'clock in the evening Drs. Smith and Gemmill extracted the ball from its lodging place in the little sufferer. The child lived until about four o'clock Wednesday morning, when it died.

Neglected Coughs and Colds. Few people are aware of the importance of checking a cough or cold in its first stage, that which in the beginning would yield to a mild remedy, if neglected, soon preys upon the lungs. Saw Mill Burned.—The large steam saw mill of W. A. Simpson & Co., at Lock Haven, known as "the upper mill," was destroyed by fire last Wednesday morning. The fire broke out over the engine room within three-quarters of an hour after the hands had gone to work. One-half the mill was owned by W. A. Simpson, one-fourth by Moore, Simpson & Co., and the remaining one-fourth by Furst & Hopson. Mr. Simpson had no insurance; Moore, Simpson & Co. had $2,000, and Furst & Hopson had $1,200 insurance. The property was valued at about $15,000, although several years ago it would have brought a much higher price. Fifty hands are thrown out of employment.

Perjurer Punished.—Pamelia J. Randolph, convicted at the recent term of the Huntingdon Court of perjury, was sentenced to pay a fine of $100, costs of prosecution and undergo an imprisonment in the county jail for the term of one year, less one day, and was further declared forever disqualified from being a witness in any matter in controversy. Pamelia had sworn before the Court that she had never been married to a certain John A. Randolph, who was tried for bigamy at the last August sessions, and acquitted on her testimony, whereas the Justice of the Peace who performed the ceremony, and other credible witnesses, swore she had been so married.

THE COUNTY SUPERINTENDENCY.

Mr. Editor:—I notice in the last issue of the Republican you commend an article taken from the School Journal, pertaining to the County Superintendency, to the careful consideration of the School Directors of our county. If the Directors are to "light their lamps and begin to search for the right man," allow me to quote a small item from the School Journal, of April, 1875, which will give them a clue to finding the right man among our teachers, to wit:

"The office of Superintendent of schools belongs to the teachers. It has to do with the teachers, and should always be filled by a teacher. If the Directors can find in a county a teacher who is a citizen of the county and devoted to his profession; who always attends Institutes; who reads works on teaching; who advocates Common Schools; who, like Richter of old, "loves God and loves little children;" who, in short, is an enthusiast in his work—he is the man to make Superintendent, even though he has never been to College."

In my opinion, Directors would do well to follow the timely advice of Dr. Wickersham, as given above, in their search for the man. They should bear in mind that a College diploma is not the only requisite necessary in the selection of a County Superintendent. A Teacher.

THE CLEARFIELD COUNTY ATLAS.

In a late interview with Mr. Newton, the Superintendent, we learn that the work in the various departments of our Clearfield County Historical Atlas progresses favorably. Many of our citizens have had sketches taken of their residences, farms, business houses, mill, factories, etc., as may be seen in the list which accompanies this article.

It is important that every improvement, whether public or private, should be properly represented. Our sister counties have shown to their best advantage by the many elegant lithographs which so fully indicate their material resources and the step forward they have taken on the road to commercial importance.

Our citizens should see to it that Clearfield county is not behind in having its improvements properly represented. The opportunity of securing a view of our homes, river scenes, churches, &c., will not occur again for many years. It is heartily desired by all that the work in the view department may be so comprehensive that the illustrated portion of the Atlas may fairly represent the improvements of the county; and to do this, our farmers, lumbermen and merchants must not stand aloof. This feature of the Atlas is both ornamental and useful, and is second to no other section of the work. Messrs Robinson and Mann are now calling upon the citizens in the various townships, and on their return we hope to hear a favorable report of our people's liberality and public enterprise.

Extra copies of the engravings are furnished those who have views taken, which enables the owners to have these pictures of their homes encased in frames, or send them to their friends residing in other parts of the country. The following are the names of some of our citizens who have already contracted to have views of their homes and buildings inserted in the Atlas:—

A Long Fight About Ended.—The effort to push Wm M. Lloyd & Co. in bankruptcy, says the Altoona Sun, has at last been successful. The fight commenced two years ago, and after assuming various phases in the U. S. District Court, it was decided in favor of petitioning creditors. The matter was removed to the U. S. Circuit Court on petition for review of proceedings of the District Court, and after argument week before last, by Messrs. George Shiras and J. M. Reed, attorneys for creditors, and M. W. Acheson, attorney for bankrupts, the Circuit Court dismissed the petition from the lower Court. Unless there is some other legal hook upon which Messrs. Lloyd & Co. can hang up the case, they must now proceed to show up their assets and liabilities under oath.

The symptom of worms in the intestinal canal and abdomen are, the parts bloated and swollen, and itching of the anus. This is indicative of small or thread worms, which are very painful and annoying to both children and adults. These worms have been expelled in very large quantities from children who were unable to sleep or enjoy life at times, because of the great annoyance caused by the worms. The Sweet Worm Powders never fail to help or permanently cure those who follow the directions. The Powders are guaranteed to be perfectly harmless, and recommended by many of our best physicians in their practice. The name of E. R. Thompson is blown in the glass vials.

Good Advice.—The last issue of the Selinsgrove Times publishes the following: See here and take our advice! If you see an advertisement in the papers offering any preparation to grow a beard or mustache in a short time on a smooth face, touch it not. It is a fraud! If you see an advertisement that tells you consumption or cancer can be cured, touch it not. It is sure to be a fraud! If you see an advertisement that pretends to remove freckles or pimples, touch it not. It will surely prove a fraud! If you see an advertisement that offers from $5 to $20 per day, or from $400 to $800 per month, or from $2500 to $5000 a year, touch it not. It is a fraud! Avoid all such extravagant offers; for what people can't afford to pay you at home, they can't afford to pay you elsewhere.

An Insurance Freak.—The Williamsport Bulletin, of last week, says: "Judge Mayer presided while a bill in equity, in the case of James Gamble against the Charter Oak Life Insurance Company, was read by H. H. Cummin, attorney. The bill recites that Judge Gamble was induced, in 1866, to take out a policy of insurance for $10,000 with their company, on the 'with-profits' plan. Under this plan the annual premium was to be $650, less thirty per cent. annually, and less sixty per cent. tri-annually. It was so stated by the agent, and also in the printed book of the company. Everything proceeded according to agreement until 1873, when the company demanded $650, the entire amount of the premium, which the Judge paid under protest, and payments after that larger than originally agreed upon were made under protest. In all, up to this time, the Judge has paid $7,407.28. Another payment was due on the 12th inst. The company claims $810.

"Judge Gamble, as orator, prays that the contract or policy shall be rescinded; that the company shall repay the sums paid, with interest; that the company shall be restrained by an injunction from claiming or collecting any sums of money under such contract, or from declaring it void. He recites that he believes the company bankrupt; that it has not kept its agreement and does not intend to do so.

"Judge Mayer took the papers, granted a preliminary injunction as prayed for, took a bond of $1000, and fixed Saturday, December 29th, as the day for hearing arguments on the bill."

A Tragedy in Williamsport.—We clip the following from the Williamsport Bulletin, of Thursday last: On Saturday evening last, between 5 and 6 o'clock, a drinking saloon on the northwest corner of Walnut and Gilmer streets witnessed a bloody scene—that of disemboweling a man with a knife in the hands of a woman. Henry Turley, better known as "Doc" Turley, a young man not over 24 years of age, was the victim. What brought about the murderous work is, as yet, known only to a certain few, judging from the various versions given of the affair. One story is to the effect that Thomas Bridgeland, proprietor of the saloon, undertook to eject two women named McLain and Ade, from his house, and that, not being able to accomplish this task, "Doc" Turley, who with several others was engaged in raffling for turkeys at the time, went to the assistance of Bridgeland, and the women were turned out into the street; that they did not remain there long before re-entering the saloon, when "Doc" Turley took hold of Mrs. Ade, to eject her again, when she immediately went to work at slashing him furiously with a knife, giving a cut of about an inch in length at the lower part of the abdomen, causing about a handful of intestines to protrude; also a cut in the back near the spinal column, and another cut on one of his hips. To give an idea of the desperate character of the encounter, it may be mentioned that there were from seven or eight rents from the knife in Turley's coat and vest.

Turley was assisted to his home, where he lies in a very critical condition. The woman (Ade) has been arrested and is now in prison.
