GLEANINGS.

Cincinnati has a night High School.

General O. O. Howard is at home in Maine.

A Montana miner found $60,000 in one day.

Milwaukee is to have a million of dollars worth of water works.

A forty thousand dollar hotel is being erected at Vincianes, Ind.

This is the first season that apples have been raised in Minnesota.

The Louisville Academy of Music is occupied by a circus now.

Chicago has a new spectacular ballet over which it is going wild.

Gloves must be removed before one can be presented to the Pope.

A Louisville paper styles some acrobatic feats "astonishingly splendid."

Diamonds are in greater demand in New York this year than ever before.

They hunt buffalo by railroad in Kansas. What won't the Pacific Railroad do?

Quite a number of tugs and schooners have gone into winter quarters at Marquette.

A street railroad connecting Newport with Covington and Cincinnati has just been opened.

Sparring exhibitions, as well as prize fights, have been prohibited in Cleveland, Ohio, by the Councils.

Oxford is to have a statue of Adam Smith. All of that kind don't have statues, we think.

The late executive mansion of Jeff. Davis at Richmond is to be used for a freedmen's school.

The Canadian Banking question is to come up for consideration at the next session of Parliament.

Water sells in Metamora, Illinois, for fifty cents a barrel. It would be a good idea to wet 'em more.

The Scotchmen of Albany have been having a grand festival in honor of St. Andrew, their patron saint.

There were five fires in Detroit on Saturday night after mid-night. None of them were of importance.

Two of the finest barks on the lakes were wrecked with their cargoes during the recent gale on Lake Huron.

A boxing master in Albany had his arm broken on Friday while being with an unskilled but strong pupil.

A New York jeweler has a dinner service inlaid with gold for sale, the price of which is thirty-six thousand dollars.

The Boston Commercial Bulletin thinks it strange that the seen painter at the theatre is never visible to the audience.

But 28 votes for Darling, (Rep.) were cast in the Five Points last week, whereas the Democratic candidates received 2,948 votes.

The Cincinnati Commercial says that very few Cincinnatians know what ward they live in. We hope Pittsburghers are not so stupid.

Lancaster, Penna., has a monumental fair. We do not mean a fat beauty, but a regular bazaar, from which there has been some money made.

Gilbert Monsieur Marquis de Lafayette Spront is the unfortunate man who is now petitioning the Tennessee Legislature to cut off his first three names for him.

Baltimore county, Maryland, is just now suffering with the Rinderpest. One farmer has lost twenty-one head of cattle by it, and others have lost more or less.

The heirs of Anneke Jans are still carrying on their suit against Trinity Church. Even if they should win, which seems impossible, it will take so long that there will not be a dollar spiece all the way around after the lawyers are paid.

The little towns in Michigan are running over with scandal, latterly, and bigamy, murder, robbery, and some more of the worst crimes, are occuring there in quantities large enough to furnish English novelists with subjects for a year.

It is strange that so many scientific, brave and determined explorers should spend so many weary years in searching through the Arctic regions, and that still the discovery of a great Arctic continent should be made by a captain of a whaling vessel, who was not there for that purpose.

The Round Table Association is about to commence the publication of a new paper called The Week, which is to consist exclusively of extracts from other journals of this and other countries, a sort of Galignanis Messenger for this continent, and a very pleasant sort of paper to the general reader.

Mr. Gounod refuses to allow his opera of Romeo and Juliet to be arranged for the piano, or to be cut in pieces of suitable length for the salon. Mr. Gounod, in doing this, does a very silly thing, and we pity him for it. He might as well refuse to allow the winds to blow, or Fifth street to be disgustingly filthy in time of thaw.

Two men are to sneeze for the championship, in the Opera House in Chicago. We would suggest that a few should also try for the championship of the possessors of colds in the head. We know some very able cold-in-the-head-lists, and the man who could overcome them in a fair trial in their own particular line would "deserve a great deal of credit."

A bloody row occurred in Detroit on Friday evening, occasioned by the green-eyed monster. Two lovers to one girl is often too much, and so it proved in this instance, for a number of persons were wounded, and the fair object herself had her skull split with a misdirected boulder. The gentlemen and their friends were sent to jail. The lady, who is known as "Curly Molly," is supposed to be dying in a hospital.

Here is an idea for our advertising insurance friends, old but not much known. An English paper states that the following lines were inscribed about the year 1777 over the door of one of the earliest established insurance offices:

"Come all you jolly Britons who love your kin,
Insure large sums on your precarious lives;
So that your widows may be rich when you
Yourselves are rotten.
And they may live in happiness when you
Are quite forgotten."

For some years we have been accustomed to regard Paris as a paradise of good order, kept by angelic gens d'arme, but the following, clipped from a foreign paper, shows that somethings are possible to rowdies even in Paris, and we think also shows that the paralyzes of fear which has overspread Frenchmen, has been partially sired by the recent events which have proved to fallibility given of the great Napoleon:

A Paris newspaper says one night last month all the iron chairs and benches for the use of the public on the line of the Champs-Elysees, and on the boulevards from the Madeleine to the Place de la Bastille in Paris, were knocked about, broken, and rendered unfit for service. A great number of persons must have been engaged for some hours in this work of vandalism; and it is a matter of just surprise that none of the policemen on duty over that long line of public road should have discovered the perpetrators.

The New York Evening Post amuses itself and its readers by accusing Mr Walker of not knowing what is a million. "Mr Walker, in his letter, talks often thousand millions as 'a billion;' whereas it is a million of millions," says the Post, which does not seem to have the slightest idea of making anybody but Mr. Walker ridiculous, whereas most of the people in this country, we think, take the European standard, and certainly the standard all over Europe, excepting, perhaps, in the little islands north of France, is one thousand millions to a billion. Here, it can not be of any great moment, as none of us are likely to become billionaires, but in France, it is five times as easy to do so, and we do not believe that there is a billionaire in France, would not sell out for a thousand millions.
