

DORM

ous of all conflicts, for a span of one's life which is spent in ignorance is a total waste, and when reflected upon, one remembers nothing of its existence.

Lastly, after living in a dorm during the week and visiting home on the week-ends, the student is faced with a frightening realization--he has no real home, everything is simply temporal. When he's home for the week-ends, life is not as it used to be in the days before college. No telephones are ringing for him, no mail is waiting at the post office in his name, for the majority of his friends have gone their separate ways. And the dorm could hardly be considered home, for in two or four years he will graduate and start a new, if just as temporary, life for himself.

In conclusion, then, a student must first recognize all of the conflicts and differences which face him before he can totally adapt to his new college surroundings. He must also realize that once he leaves home, he can never go back again.

CIVIL SERVICE

The following is a letter received by the COLLEGIAN from Senator Hugh Scott:

Each summer the Federal Government affords thousands of college students the opportunity to work as an intern in a Federal Agency. This allows the student to gain a clearer insight into the day to day functions of our government. Unfortunately however, too many students miss the opportunity because they are unaware of the requirements of the programs.

Consequently, I have been in touch with the placement office at your school and have provided the necessary details regarding the qualifications, filing deadlines, and addresses of the agencies to be contacted. I would like to emphasize that each student should apply early to receive maximum consideration. The filing deadline for the Civil Service summer employment examination is January 17, and many other agencies have application deadlines in early Spring.

I hope these students who are interested in pursuing a job in government following their graduation will take this opportunity to utilize their summers to further that goal.

With kind regard,

Hugh Scott
U.S. Senator

WE GOOFED

In the article on Las Vegas Nite in the last issue of the COLLEGIAN, it was mistakenly stated that one of the "burglars" who invaded the peace and quiet of the "Casino Highacres" was Mr. Methot. However, the third member of the villainous trio was really Dr. Orbin, who was disguised so well that the members of the staff did not recognize him. Forgive us, Dr. Orbin, for missing you.

THE HIGHACRES COLLEGIAN STAFF WISHES TO TAKE THIS OPPORTUNITY TO WISH THE STUDENTS AND FACULTY OF THE HIGHACRES CAMPUS THE MERRIEST OF CHRISTMASSES AND THE HAPPIEST AND MOST PROSPEROUS OF NEW YEARS.

Dear Santa,

I want a 4.0 for Christmas.

A Bewildered Student

CONGRATULATIONS
Joypipers!
