Making and Keeping Manure.

However much may have been said on this subject, it does not seem to have had the desired effect, when we see so many of those who are considered as our best farmers neglecting to take any steps toward promoting this end; who, instead of devising means for increasing its amount, even suffer a large part of that already obtained to be wasted. Now, I believe that most of those who permit this are entirely ignorant of the great injury they are doing themselves, and there may be a few who, though they have had their attention called to it, yet fail to adopt any means for remedying so great an evil.

I will endeavor to point out a few of the most prominent sources of waste, and the means by which they may be obviated.

To begin with the most important of all manures, which is that obtained from our stables and cow-houses, and which is usually thrown out into the barnyards to remain there without any protection from the weather, until after it has been soaked by rain after rain, it is carried out into the fields to restore the waste occasioned by the removal of preceding crops.

Now, if this water, after soaking through the manure, and extracting from it a large amount of its usefulness, was carefully saved by being caught in tanks, the loss would not be as much felt; but even this is not done, and barns are generally built on the side of a hill when possible, the water which falls into their yards runs off almost immediately; and when not so situated, drains are usually cut from them to permit it to escape, and thus a quantity of the most fertile part of the manure is lost.

Now, this loss could easily be prevented, and with slight expense, by the erection of a shed under which the manure could be stowed, or what would be better still, if a covered pit could be prepared in which it might be deposited, and any expense incurred in this way would soon be repaid.

Ammonia is also constantly escaping from the manure in the form of gas, and as it is a substance which contains a large amount of nitrogen, which is especially beneficial to crops, it would be well if it were also saved. Now, this can be accomplished by the application of several substances to the manure, among the cheapest and best of which is the sulphate of lime or plaster of Paris, and it does it in this way: the sulphuric acid in the sulphate of lime has a greater affinity for the ammonia that it has for the lime, and it therefore leaves the lime and attaches itself to the ammonia, forming the sulphate of ammonia, which is a fixed salt.

Hence the frequent application to the manure, particularly that just carried from the stable, of a little of the plaster, would greatly tend to prevent the escape of this gas.

There is yet another point to which I would call attention, and that is the ways by which we can increase our stock of manure; and though they are many I will only speak of two of the most prominent: The first is by means of the compost heap, and the second by the pig pen. If you will only give your pigs the material, the quantity of manure they will make will be immense. Old straw and hay can be given to them with advantage, but still better than these are dead leaves; you may fill the pen half full of them, and they will soon be converted into the best manure.—Germantown Telegraph.

Stying and Feeding Pigs.

"To eat and drink and sleep; what then?
To eat and drink and sleep again."

At a Farmers' Club meeting in Ireland, a speaker said: "Pigs require dry floors, fresh air and cleanliness. Foul air encourages disease; cold air consumes food in making heat, that ought to make fat. It would not be practicable to put in a growing stone to take fat, nor would it be judicious to put in a coarse dwarf to make a good bacon hog. You must have a full-grown, well-conditioned animal, possessing at least some of the principal points to which we have already alluded, and with this and proper attention, it is not easy to conceive the rapidity with which a pig will fatten. There should not be more than six kept in one sty. The farmer has five principal ingredients for this purpose, viz., grain, potatoes, Swedes, mangels and cabbage. The roots well boiled and well bruised, the grain also well boiled—take equal parts of Indian and oatmeal, and any of the grains mentioned you may have, as crushed beans, peas, vetches, rye or barley, with a little pollard and salt, made in thick gruel, added to the roots, and left to ferment and sour, and always given in a lukewarm state at regular hours three times a day.—The less excitement or annoyance the better, and a desire for sloth and sleep encouraged by attending to his comforts, and the words made applicable that are sometimes used with some easy-going and quiet disposition.

Old Orchards.—An old decayed orchard is not a pleasant sight, and is a sure evidence of bad farming. Better have no apples at all than the knotted, wormy fruit which is gathered from the half dead branches of trees nearly stripped of foliage by caterpillars, or riddled by borers, and therefore useless cumberers of ground which ought to be devoted to profitable culture.—Apply the axe without mercy to all such unsightly objects; but trees which are still sufficiently alive to admit of renovation, may be allowed to stand with a fair prospect of yielding a supply of fruit, if proper restoratives be applied. Prune off all decayed branches, wash the trunks and larger limbs with a solution of sal soda or whale oil soap, which will exterminate the larvæ of insects; loosen the dead moss and bark, and otherwise exert a healthful influence on the tree. During the autumn, while the tree is without foliage, caterpillars' nests may be easily discovered and stripped off with the hand—thus doing a much surer way of destroying them than to wait for their development in the spring.—Working Farmer.

Cream in Cold Weather.—For some reason not yet known, cream skimmed from milk in cold weather does not come to butter, when churned, so quickly as that from the same cow in warm weather. Perhaps the particles, which form the little sacks of butter in the cream, are thicker and tougher. There are two methods of obviating this trouble in a great degree. One is, to set the pan of milk on the stove, or in some warm place, as soon as strained, and let it remain until quite warm—some say, until a bubble or two rises, or until a skim of cream begins to form on the surface. Another mode is to add a teaspoonful of salt to a quart of cream when it is skimmed. Cream thus prepared will generally come to butter in a few minutes when churned. It is thought the salt acts upon the coating of the butter globules and makes them tender, so that they break rapidly when beaten by churning.—N. Y. Times.

FARMERS MUTUAL FIRE INSURANCE COMPANY
OF MIDDLE PENNSYLVANIA,
Office in Danville, Montour County, Penn'a.
Capital $337,000 00

The Farmers Mutual Fire Insurance Company of Middle Pennsylvania was incorporated by the Pennsylvania Legislature, in the year 1859, for the Mutual insurance of Country property only, and immediately thereafter commenced its operations on that principle, which has been strictly adhered to since.

All losses have been promptly paid out of the Premiums collected on application for insurance without making any assessments.

The insurance of Country property only, the low rates charged for Insurance, and the prompt payment of losses are deemed a sufficient recommendation of the Farmers Mutual Fire Insurance Company of Middle Pennsylvania, to all owners of safe class country property.

Mrs. Vinton desires me to express to you her entire satisfaction with your Sewing Machine. My purse being a witness that the Sewing Machine, among its other excellencies, is a household economy.—Rev. Dr. Francis Vinton.

The Wheeler & Wilson has no rival. Scientific American.

WOMAN'S GREATEST BOON.—We would advise a man to forego a thresher and thresh with a flail, rather than to see a wife wear her health, vigor and life away in the everlasting "stitch, stitch, stitch," when a Sewing Machine can be obtained. The Wheeler & Wilson is an invaluable aid in every household. We have had several different kinds on trial, and after six years' service, the Wheeler & Wilson has taken the precedence as the best where all kinds of sewing is to be done in a family.—American Agriculturist.

METHODIST BOOK CONCERN, 200 Mulberry St., N. Y. Being in constant receipt of inquiries from our brethren respecting sewing Machines, with requests to recommend and purchase, we have in conjunction with some lady friends, carefully and thoroughly examined the various machines of practical value for family sewing, and find those made by the Wheeler & Wilson Manufacturing Company, 625 Broadway, New York, to fully combine the essentials of a good instrument, and such as we can confidently recommend. Having seen so favorable results from their use, in our own and the households of our friends, we are desirous that their benefits should be shared by all our brethren, and hence have interested ourselves in their behalf.

GOOD NEWS. REBELLION ENDED!

THE PRICE OF CLOTHING

GONE DOWN WITH GOLD

The best stock of good, well made Clothing ever brought to this market is now open for inspection at the

STORE OF R. W. EDDY,

Bought since the fall of Gold and the Rebellion, which will enable him to give his customers the benefit of very low figures, and the decline in prices. My goods as usual are stylish, and a la mode. No second rate shoddy goods, every article guaranteed as represented or no sale. My goods are all

THE LATEST FASHIONS,

And equal to the best city custom made, and fit to a T As usual the best quality all wool

Business Suits,
Black Frock Coats,
Black Doe Pants and Vests,
Linen Coats, Dusters, and Pants,
The Latest Style Fine Silk Hats, Soft,
Straw, Panama and Cloth Hats, White and Negligee Shirts, Collars Neck Ties, Gloves, Suspenders, Under Shirts and Drawers, Best quality English Half Hose, Over Alls, Over Shirts, Linen Hand Kerchiefs, Ladies Fine Morocco Travelling Bags. In fact everything usually found in a First Class Gentleman's Furnishing Store. My motto is good Goods at a fair price are cheaper than poor goods at any price. All goods sold at one price, no bantering nor teasing to make an offer, but every one gets the same goods at the same price, which is the bottom of the market. All old goods marked down to the gold base, and will be sold regardless of sacrifice. If you want good goods at a fair price, go to EDDY'S, where you will find him ready to show his goods and sell them too at the lowest figure to correspond with Gold. Bear in mind the place to buy good, well made, reliable Clothing is at R. W. EDDY'S, next door to Powell & Co.
