LUTHERAN CHURCH HAS MANY CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR MEMBERS

Extensive Preparations Being Made For the Annual C. E. Picnic at Hershey Park in August or September; to Entertain Convalescent Soldiers

Lutheran Endeavorers are well represented in the Christian Endeavor work. The denomination has many leaders and many activities. The Rev. P. A. Heilman, D. D., is a denominational trustee of the United Society of Christian Endeavorers.

The system of faith and of church polity was established by Martin Luther, the great Protestant reformer. Lutherans came to this country from Holland in 1623 with the first Dutch colony that settled Manhattan, but the Dutch would allow only the Reformed church.

The organizer of the Lutheran Church of America was the Rev. Henry M. Muhlenburg. In 1748 he formed the first Lutheran synod of this country, that of Pennsylvania. The second synod, that of New York, was formed in 1786.

There are 13,928 Lutheran churches in this country, with 2,467,516 members. They are divided into twenty-one different bodies, some of them based upon creedal differences and some upon differences of language. The General Synod Lutherans is the oldest body, having been organized in 1820. It has 1,846 churches, and 370,715 members. The United Synod in the South was formed during the Civil War. It has 492 churches, with 56,656 members. The General Council of the Lutherans was formed in 1866, following the reception by the General Synod of a synod which the minority did not consider to be sound in doctrine. It has 2,389 churches and 540,642 members. The Synodical Conference of the Lutherans is a still stricter body of Lutherans formed in 1872. It is the largest of the Lutheran bodies, having 3,621 churches, with 777,701 members. The first three of these four bodies of Lutherans formed a union last year. Other Lutheran bodies are the Joint Synod of Ohio and other States, the Lutheran Synod of Buffalo, Eielsen's Synod, Hauge's Synod, the Synod of Iowa and other States, and other synods grouping together the Norwegians, the Danes, the Finns, and the Icelanders. A few months ago several of the denominational periodicals were merged into one paper, "The Lutheran," with headquarters in Philadelphia.

SCOTT ORIGINATED OPAL MYTH

Sir Walter Scott was the creator of the opal myth. In "Annie of Griersteinn," one of his later novels, written in the early part of the nineteenth century, he introduced an opal which was supposed to be endowed with magic powers and which brought disaster and tragedy to all who came within its influence. The story of the master romancer of his time was widely read and the superstition that all opals are unlucky was born. It traveled around the world and became firmly fixed in the popular imagination. — Detroit News.
