DEATH OF GEORGE SMITH.

AFTER SEVERAL YEARS ILLNESS HE PASSES TO REST.

An Odd Fellow for Nearly Forty Years—News Notes of Life in Columbia with the Mercury Crawling Toward the Blood Heat Figure.

COLUMBIA, Pa., July 30.—George J. Smith, an old and well-known resident of Columbia, died at his home on South Third street, at 5:00 o'clock this morning. Deceased was in the sixty-second year of his age at the time of his death, and had been confined to his home for several years, the cause of his death being general debility. Mr. Smith was engaged in the business of confectioner and ice cream for a number of years, having his place of business adjoining the Franklin house. A wife and seven children are left to mourn their loss. The date of holding the funeral has not as yet been arranged. Mr. Smith was a member of Susquehanna Lodge of Odd Fellows for thirty-nine years, having joined the order in 1847.

Went Over the Dam.

Charles Hogentogler, a boy of fourteen years of age, was out on the dam a short time ago in a boat. In some manner he fell over the dam and landed in the reaction below. It was with great difficulty that the lad was enabled to swim to an island below the dam.

Invited to Parade.

An invitation has been received by the Vigilant fire company of town from the Vigilant fire company of Altoona inviting the home company to participate in a parade to be held in Altoona on September 20, at which time the Firemen's association will be in session at that place. The company will consider the invitation at their next meeting.

Town Notes.

Mr. Frank S. Given, of Philadelphia, is on a visit to Columbia, as the guest of William B. Given, esq.

The picnic excursion of the Mount Zion church yesterday at Lititz Springs, was very largely attended and much enjoyed, returning home at 8 o'clock last evening, and the people looked as if they spent a good day in the woods.

The Columbia Camping club have selected a site for their camp along the banks of the Codorus creek, and will spend one week at that place, beginning August 23d.

A young boy living in Marietta, was brought to Columbia yesterday for medical treatment. He had fallen from a tree and dislocated his right thumb in two places. The doctors in that town were unable to reduce the fracture. Dr. Craig, of town, performed the operation in a successful manner.

Yesterday was about the warmest day we have had this season. The thermometer registered during the afternoon 92 degrees. Last night was also very warm.

A game of ball will be played on Saturday afternoon between the August Flowers, of Lancaster, and the Columbia club.

Dr. Houston Mifflin has received from Canton, N. Y., the finest sail boat ever seen in Columbia. The new boat was given a trial yesterday, and surpasses any boat on the river for speed.

LAZY SUMMER DAYS.

The Discomforts of Hot Weather—What Are You Going to Do About It.

This railroad is lazy summer days; people would like to do them, but they can't. The people gather time the balance of the Susquehanna can afford it go to the seashore and the watermountains, but the hot summer days drag along with them and they are not comfortable than those that stay at Flora's. The flies by day and the bugs and mosquitoes by night are among them.

Those that cannot get away stay at home and fight the flies by day and the bugs and mosquitoes by night.

The sun beats down with torrid rays all day and sends the mercury up to 100 or less. A few fleecy clouds drift across the sky at an immense elevation, just to show you that they can climb higher than the mercury.

The streets are almost deserted; the stores and shops are altogether deserted, except that a few clerks and salesmen loil on the counters and fan themselves into a perspiration in their endeavor to keep cool.

Some people go fishing and burn their faces and hands into blisters before they get a bite. Others go to picnics at Rocky Springs and Tells Hain, and What Glen and Penryn, and come home in worse condition than they went away.

Heaven help the livery horses! To escape the heated town old and young alike drive to the country, and some of them drive fast, regardless of the summer sufferings of horseflesh.

Editors, reporters, nurse girls and some other classes, cannot of course, get away. The daily papers must be got out, and the bald-headed babies must have an airing. How exhausted the lovely infants look, lying in wicker baskets on wheels, as they are pushed along by the nurses, up one street and down another! How their little black and blue eyes blink and their little faces glow with perspiration, and how their little bodies itch with prickly heat!

Yes, these are hot summer days. The statues that surround the soldiers' monument and the goddess of liberty on top of it, sizzle in the sun, and seemingly say "lend me an umbrella and palm-leaf fan." Even the "Frozen Ideas—fine cake" seem to have thawed out, and the enterprising boys that sell them too have succumbed to the solar heat of summer.

The beer saloons are not very well patronized, nor are the gin mills thriving. The more one drinks the thirstier he becomes. Ice cream has its votaries, but from late statistics furnished it appears there is ice cream and ice cream, and as folks can't tell t'other from which, they abstain from both.

The intelligent readers of the INTELLIGENCER will do their best to keep cool; keep quiet; eat and drink sparingly; avoid all excesses; take light out-door exercises, and patiently wait till the dog-days end.

Hunting Up the Thieves.

Zach Chandler went into the interior department upon the heels of the ignominous retirement of Delano. Soon after he took the office he sent for the Indian commissioner and said to him: "I understand things have not been going exactly right in your office, but that you were powerless to make changes. Now, I want you to pick out twelve men in your office that you know are stealing and give them to me, and I will remove them at once. I'll just back you up in helping to make that office honest." The commissioner then said: "I can find men." In two or three days after he came with the list of twelve names. Chandler looked at the list and said: "There is no doubt about this?" "Not the slightest," said the commissioner. "Now," said Chandler, "I want you to put your name on that list, and then I will make out an order for the dismissal of all of you." This was done. Mr. Chandler's idea was that if the commissioner was so weak as to not dare to protest against thieving right under his nose that he was no better than the thieves.

Aggressive Christianity.

From the Independent.

If the earth had remained Paradise we cannot say that a quiet, easy, paradisiacal life might not have got the good out of it; but since Adam's fall laziness loses everything. There are so many obstacles in the way of success that nothing but aggressive, vigorous, pushing, hard work will win the world. Adam had not got his coat of skins on before he had to fight weeds. Success means sweat, whether in farming or in morals. So every command of the scriptures to a religious life is a martial, aggressive one. We are to fight the good fight of faith, and the violent take the kingdom of heaven by force. If there is one word which gives a true picture of the work of the Church of Christ, as it ought to be, it is the word aggressive. Jesus Christ started his church on its mission, with a command which was all aggressive, to disciple all nations; and the one success of the church has been in that line of fearless aggressiveness. For this religious work is just like agriculture or manufacture or trade or politics; the man who drives it succeeds.

Charity Run Away From Home.

Benevolent clergymen have often sadly complained practical people. The Rev. Chas. E. A. Dull, who just died at Calcutta, was generous in giving and helping the poor. One day the Eliots, with whom he lived, had just sat down to dinner when Mr. Dall rushed in, exclaiming "The worst case yet," snatched the dish of roast meat from the table and rushed away again, to give it to a poor family he had discovered.

The Bellefonte Presbyterians.

From the Watchman.

If we were the pastor of the Presbyterian church we would either make the congregation stand up or kneel down during prayer. Apparently they are too proud to do the first and too lazy to do the other. The good old way was to stand up, and none of that languid resting of heads upon the backs of the seats would have been permitted, except to persons in delicate health, in good but stern old Dr. Linn's time. God is worthy to be worshipped either by kneeling or standing, and there is no other posture suitable to prayer. If any of the congregation want to sleep, let them repose during the sermon, but, out of respect to high heaven, they should keep awake during prayer.

Another thing—there is great room for improvement in the Presbyterian choir. The singing there sometimes is grating enough to make a fellow go out and throw stones at himself.

Tow Hill Prosecutions.

The complaints charging assault and battery and surety of the peace against Harrison Dorsey, of Columbia, and felonious assault and battery and surety of the peace against Louisa and Lotta Dorsey, on oath of Andrew Meads, were heard before Alderman Deen this afternoon and all the defendants were committed to jail to answer at court. The complainant and all the defendants are Tow Hill negroes. The cases excited much attention and the alderman's office was black with mokes during the hearing.

Butter Kettle Found.

On Wednesday morning some person left a kettle containing four pounds of butter in one of the market stands of the Central market. The owner can get the same at the mayor's office, and is requested to call at once for it.

Rev. Prof. J. W. Rumple, of Brooklyn, N. Y., one of "Old Trinity's" former assistant pastors, will occupy the pulpit of that venerable church, Sunday morning, August 1st.

Sunday Trains for Landisville Campmeeting

Milestones on the Road to Health.

The recovery of digestion, and the resumption of activity by the liver, bowels and kidneys, are milestones which mark our progress on the road to health. They speedily become perceptible when Hostetter's Stomach Bitters is used by the invalid. Nothing so surely and expeditiously consumes the distance to the desired goal. As no bodily function can suffer interruption without impairing the general health of the system, so the system can never acquire perfect vigor, health's synonym, until that function be actively resumed. Take, for instance, digestion, a suspension of which is invariably rectified by the Bitters. If the organs upon which it devolves grow weak, biliousness, constipation, headache, poverty of the blood, and a hundred other symptoms supervene, which indicate unmistakably the baneful general influence of dyspepsia. The disappearance of all these symptoms through the use of the Bitters, show with what fortitude it removes their cause.
