DURATION OF VITALITY IN GRAIN.

"A Young Farmer" inquires if seed of the different kinds of grain a year or more old, will grow as well as fresh seed. Our answer would be, always sow seed as fresh as it can be had, for although some seed will germinate after it has been kept years, yet these are exceptions. We do not know of any distinct experiments on old and new grain, except it be a single trial which we made in pots. Fresh seed wheat was sown in pots in autumn, one inch deep, and kept properly moist. In another pot, subjected to the same temperature and the same degree of moisture, was sown wheat kept over one year. In other pots, seeds five years old, was sown under similar circumstances. The first or fresh seed came up in eleven days, the wether being rather cool; the second seed, one year old, came up in thirteen days. The five-year seed in the other pots came up irregularly, the first in eighteen days, and afterwards for nearly a month. The grains of all were counted when placed in the earth, and the result was that all the fresh seed grew; all or nearly all the one year; but not one-half the five-year seed ever grew at all. From these limited experiments, we may infer that fresh seed is always the best; if only a year old it may do well, although the plants will hardly have the vigor of the first; but seed several years old should be employed only for preserving or securing some desirable variety. We hope some of our readers will repeat the experiment on oats, barley, etc., by accurately counting, measuring depth, recording dates, etc.—Country Gentleman.

ORIGIN OF THE CHESTER COUNTY HOG.—There are many persons who pretend to doubt the existence of a distinct breed bearing the name, but all difficulties in that direction are removed by an article which appeared in the Farm Journal twenty years ago, and which, from the fact that the statement was made at a time when their were fewer interested parties to dispute its authority, may be regarded as corected:

"It appears from what we can learn, that the credit of introducing the Chester county breed of swine is due to Captain James Jeffries, who occupied a farm on the forks of the Brandywine, a few mile from West Chester, after retiring from the sea. His ship used to trade between Liverpool and Wilmington, Del., procured a couple of hogs from Bedfordshire, with the view of introducing them into the country. This was about thirty-five years ago. They were then called the Bedford breed, and have been recognized by Englishmen who were familiar with them about that time in Bedfordshire. At present, the breed of hogs there is not so distinct, having been crossed more or less with others. From this origin they have been generally distributed in Chester and surrounding counties and are now known as the Chester county breed. They are pure white?"

DAIRY NOTES BY HARRIS LEWIS.—Harris Lewis, Frankfort, N. Y., says: First, There is no churn that will make better butter than the old dasher-churn, but there are several which will make good butter in less time and with less labor. The churn known as the revolving-barrel, or the revolving-box churn, I regard as good churns. Second, In using any of the workers, care must be taken not to work the butter too much. Third, Cream will rise through a shallow mess of milk in less time than it will through a deep mess, and where there is no cold water, or not a sufficient quantity to cool the milk and control the temperature, shallow dishes not over two and one-half or three inches deep will furnish the most cream and butter. But where an abundant supply of cold running water can be had, by which the temperature of the milk can be controlled, and kept sweet a long time, there is quite a saving of labor and money by setting the milk in deep or large dishes. A large pan, capable of holding one mess of milk, is beyond question the most economical of any arrangement we now have for setting milk. Four of these pans are sufficient for any dairy.

PLASTER FOR POTATOES.—According to Mr. Compton, author of the prize essay on the cultivation of the potato, very remarkable results are obtained from plaster by dusting the vines with it as soon as they are through the soil; again immediately after the last plowing and hoeing; and at intervals through the whole growing season. The first application may be light, the second heavier, and after that more bountiful, say 200 bushels to the acre. It renders the plants less palatable to insects, and appears to be fatal to many of the fungi family. The vines retain a bright, lively green color, and the tubers continue swelling until growth is stopped by the frost; besides, potatoes thus grown are so sound and free from disease as to be easily kept for the Spring market, without loss by rot. Mr. Compton says he has seen a field, all planted with the same variety, at the same time, on one-half of which that had received no plaster, the yield was but 60 bushels per acre, and many rotten; while the other half, to which plaster has been applied, yielded 360 bushels per acre, and not an unsound one among them.

KNEW HIS PROPER PLACE.—A lady sent her Irish servant for a new mantilla which was at her dressmaker's. "John," she said, "if it rains, take a cab. I would rather pay the cab hire than have my mantilla wet." When the man handed her the mantilla it was ruined, the paper which covered it being saturated with water. "Why, John," she said, "I told you to take a cab if it rained." "So I did, mum; but sure you wouldn't have your footman ridin' inside? I got on the box with the driver."

WHEN.—Your strawberry beds are done bearing, mow the vines off with a scythe, not too closely, and allow the vines to lay as a mulch or protection against the fierce suns of July and August. Of course the vines should be spread evenly. We have found it in our own practice to be very successful in protecting the tools and in giving them a chance to start vigorous new vines to meet the winter trials.

PHILADELPHIA OPTICAL INSTITUTE,

For the manufacturing of the

CONCAVE CONVEX, CRYSTAL LENSES, LONDON SMOKED AND TINTED GLASS FOR WEAK OR INFLAMED EYES.

The Concave Convex Crystal Spectacles, made by the above institute are now a long time before the public, and the rapid and increased demand for them combined with the universal acknowledgment of their clearness in vision and ease to the eye, shows plainly that they are superior to any other glasses in the market.

The majority of Spectacles, (mostly imported) and no matter how fine the frames, contain but a poor and worthless article of glasses, (generally cast or pressed;) they are made to be sold only, without any calculation respecting benefit to the eye, and therefore the great complaint of poor and weak sight. Thousands are using glasses now which tire and fatigue the eye, where the objects get dim after short usage, or require an intensely strong light and therefore destroying the sight, which, were they properly suited, would be preserved a life time.

The advantages claimed for the Concave Convex Crystal Glasses are the following:

The Lenses are ground of the best material, pure and hard, and made only for optical purposes, they are therefore not liable to get scratched or dim.

They confer a brilliancy and distinctness of vision not found in any other glass.

They can be used equally well by day or candle light without tiring or fatigue the eye.

They are ground mathematically true in the concave convex mirror, according to the philosophy of nature, and shape of cornea of the eye, therefore assisting nature only instead of forcing it.

That the lenses are centered correct into the frames.

They can be used longer than any other glasses without changing to a higher power.

The frames are made strong and durable by experienced workmen and warranted to give satisfaction.
