A Cheap Cellar Bottom.

In sections of the country where there is an abundance of cobblestones, collect a few loads of those about four or five inches in diameter, grade the bottom of the cellar, lay the cobbles in rows, and ram them down one-third their thickness into the ground, so that they will not be sunk below the line of the rows by any heavy superincumbent pressure, such as the weight of a hogshead of molasses or tierce of vinegar. The bottom of the cellar should be graded so that the outside will be at least two inches lower than the middle. A mistake sometimes occurs by grading the cellar bottom in such a manner that the centre will be two or three inches lower than the outside. When this is the case, should water enter from the outside, it will flow directly towards the middle. A straight-edged board should be placed frequently on each row of stones as they are being rammed, so that the upper sides may be in line with each other. After the stones are laid and well rammed down, place a few boards on the pavement to walk on; then make a grouting of clean sand and water lime, or Rosendale cement, and pour it on the stones until all the interstices are filled. As soon as the grouting has set, spread a layer of good cement mortar one inch thick over the top of the pavement, and trowel the surface off smoothly. In order to spread the mortar true and even on the surface, lay an inch board one foot from the wall, on the surface of the pavement, stand on the board, and fill the space with mortar even with the top of the board, after which, move the board one foot, fill the space with mortar, and trowel it off smoothly. Such a floor will cost less than a board floor, and will endure as long as the superstructure is kept in repair.—Industrial Monthly.

How to Thwart the Potato Bug.

A correspondent of the Gardener's Monthly.

I have watched their habits closely in three different States; and as they will soon be upon you, a few remarks may not be out of place; for if you are as ready to receive them as we now are, they need not be greatly dreaded after all. They love some kinds better than others, as for instance they prefer the Early York to the Early Rose, and will leave the Peach Blow to the last.

Plant early, and you can give your potatoes a good start before bugs get over their spring stupor.

Plant early kinds, for there are three distinct crops of bugs, and generally they come in countless number to take the latest kinds. Hand pick, if not very bad. See if there are many of the lady bug or lady bird, as it is sometimes called. If they are plenty, they will take care of your potatoes for you. They are a little red bug with dark spots, and eat their eggs veraciously. If necessary to use other means, take one pound of Paris green to thirty pounds of common plaster and mix thoroughly, and apply when the dew is on, and you will slaughter them by hundreds of thousands. The plaster is good for your potatoes and you don't get green enough to hurt anything. Apply as often as the vines need it, and you need have no fears as to the result. I have saved acres of potatoes this summer by recommending this plan in our village paper. When the bugs come, plant as little ground as possible, enrich it highly and use ashes and salt to counteract any tendency to rot, and then you may laugh at the "destruction which wasteth at noonday."

How to Wash Summer Suits.—Summer suits are nearly all made of white or buff linen, pique, cambric, or muslin, and the art of preserving the new appearance after washing is a matter of the greatest importance. Common washer-women spoil everything with soda, and nothing is more frequent than to see the delicate tints of lawns and parcales turned into dark blotches and muddy streakes by the ignorance and vandalism of a laundress. It is worth while for ladies to pay attention to this, and insist upon having their summer dresses washed according to the directions which they should be prepared to give their laundress themselves. In the first place, the water should be tepid, the soap should not be allowed to touch the fabric; it should be washed and rinsed quick, turned upon the wrong side, and hung in the shade to dry, and when starched (in thin boiled, but not boiling starch) should be folded in sheets or towels and ironed upon the wrong side as soon as possible. But linen should be washed in water in which hay or a quart bag of bran has been boiled. This last will be found to answer for starch as well, and is excellent for print dress of all kinds, but a handful of salt is very useful also to set the colors of light cambrics and dotted lawns; and a little ox gall will not only set but brighten yellow and purple tints, and has a good effect upon green.

Apples.—With us the use of the apple, as an article of food, is far underrated. Besides containing a large amount of sugar, mucilage and other nutritive matters, apples contain vegetable and aromatic qualities, etc., which act powerfully in the capacity of refrigerants, tonics and antiseptics, and when freely used at the season of mellow ripeness they prevent debility, indigestion, and avert, without doubt, many of the "ills that flesh is heir to." The operators of Cornwall, England, consider ripe apples nearly as nourishing as bread, and far more so than potatoes. In the year 1601 —which was a year of great scarcity —apples, instead of being converted into cider, were sold to the poor, and laborers assert that they could "stand their work" on baked apples without meat, whereas potato diet required either meat or some other substantial nutriment. The Germans and French use apples exclusively; so do the inhabitants of all European nations. The laborers depend upon them as an article of food, and frequently make a dinner of sliced apples and bread. There is no food cooked in as many different ways in our country as apples, nor is there any fruit whose value as an article of nutriment is as great and so little appreciated.

SUSQUEHANNA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE.

TOWANDA, BRADFORD COUNTY, PA.

This institution will commence its Seventeenth Year

MONDAY, AUGUST 28, 1871.

The courses of study are English, Normal, Commercial, Academic, Scientific and Classical, in all of which the instruction is systematic and thorough.

The Principals will be assisted by the various departments by a large and very excellent corps of instructors—three graduates, experienced teachers having been recently engaged—and no effort will be spared to make the Institute, in comfort, discipline and general efficiency, second to no other similar institution.

The Musical Department will be under the charge of Professor H. Fr. Johannesen.

This institution is now in thorough repair.

In addition to the extensive improvements during the past year, new apparatus, maps and charts, and most approved patent desks and seats for all the study and recitation rooms have just been purchased.

The Principal of the Normal Department will organize August 28, a Teachers' Class, and by SPECIAL ATTENTION aid to complete the most thorough course possible during the time.

Tuition from $4 to $10. Board and room in the Institute $4. If desirable, students may obtain rooms in town and board themselves. Early application for board and rooms at the Institute should be made, as the rooms are being rapidly engaged.

PHILADELPHIA OPTICAL INSTITUTE,

For the manufacturing of the

CONCAVE CONVEX, CRYSTAL LENSES, LONDON SMOKED AND TINTED GLASS FOR WEAK OR INFLAMED EYES.

The Concave Convex Crystal Spectacles, made by the above institute are now a long time before the public, and the rapid and increased demand for them combined with the universal acknowledgment of their clearness in vision and ease to the eye, shows plainly that they are superior to any other glasses in the market.

The majority of Spectacles, (mostly imported) and no matter how fine the frames, contain but a poor, and worthless article of glasses, (generally cast or pressed) as they are made to be sold only, without any calculation respecting benefit to the eye, and therefore the great complaint of poor and weak sight. Thousands are using glasses now which dim and fatigue the eye, where the objects get dim after short usage, or require an intensely strong light and therefore destroying the sight, which, were they properly suited, would be preserved a life time.

The advantages claimed for the Concave Convex Crystal Glasses are the following:

The Lenses are ground of the best material, pure and hard, and made only for optical purposes, they are therefore not liable to get scratched or dim.

They confer a brilliancy and distinctness of vision not found in any other glass.

They can be used equally well by day or candle light without tiring or fatiguing the eyes.

They are ground mathematically true in the concave convex mirror, according to the philosophy of nature, and shape of corneæ of the eye, therefore assisting nature only instead of forcing it.

That the lenses are centered correct into the frames.

They can be used longer than any other glasses without changing to a higher power.

The frames are made strong and durable by experienced workmen and warranted to give satisfaction.
