DR. SWAYNE'S
Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry!

This medicine is no longer among those doubtful nostrums; it has passed away from the thousands daily, rolled upon the tide of experiment, and now stands higher in reputation, and is becoming more extensively used than any other preparation of medicine ever tendered for the relief of suffering man.

It has been introduced very generally through the United States and Europe, and there are few towns of importance but what contain some remarkable evidence of its good effects. For proof of the foregoing statements, and of the value and efficacy of this medicine, the proprietor will insert a few of the many thousand testimonials which have been presented to him by men of the first respectability—men who have higher views of moral responsibility and justice, than to lend their name, because it will do another a favor, and themselves no injustice. Such testimony proves conclusively, that its surprising experience has established its intrinsic merits, and its unquestionable authority of public opinion. The instantaneous relief it affords, and the soothing influence diffused through the whole frame by its use, renders it a most agreeable remedy for the afflicted.

REMEMBER!

When men, acting from conscientious motives, voluntarily bear testimony to the truth of a thing, or particular fact, such testimony, being contrary to their worldly interests and purposes, coerces conviction of its truth, and commends itself in a special manner to universal credence."—O'Hogan's Moral Maxims.

SPIT ARGUMENTS CLEAR OF PULMONARY CONSUMPTION.—There never was a remedy that has been as successful in desperate cases of Consumption, as Dr. Swayne's Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry. It strengthens the system, and appears to heal the ulcers on the lungs, creating new and rich blood; power possessed by no other medicine.

CANTON Co., April 25th, 1848.

Dr. Swayne—Dear Sir: I verily believe your Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry has been the means of saving my life. I caught a severe cold, which gradually settled into a cough, accompanied with a severe cough; that all grew worse, I tried all the remedies which I had recourse to, until I used your valuable medicine, which stopped the cough, increasing until my case exhibited all the symptoms of Pulmonary Consumption. Every thing I tried seemed to have no effect, and my complaint increased so rapidly that my friends as well as myself, gave up all hope of my recovery. At this time I was recommended to try your invaluable medicine; I did so, with the most happy results. The first bottle had the effect to loosen the cough, causing me to expectorate freely; and by the time I had used six bottles, I was entirely well, and am now as healthy a man as I ever was in my life, and never so heavy a man as I now am. I feel that I would be happy to give any information respecting my case, that other sufferers may derive the benefit they stand entitled to, if any, for the truth of the above statement, I refer you to Peter Rush, Gripes, West Chester, Pa., of whom I purchased the medicine.

Respectfully yours, JAMES MORGAN.

DR. SWAYNE—Dear Sir: I feel a debt of gratitude due to Dr. Swayne—Dear Sir: I feel a debt of gratitude due to Dr. Swayne—Dear Sir: I feel a debt of gratitude due to you—and I do, for the afflicted generally, to offer my humble testimony in favor of your Compound Syrup of Wild Cherry. Some three years since, I was cured of Wild Cherry. Some three years since, I was violently attacked with cold and inflammation of the Lungs, which was accompanied with a distressing pain in the breast and head, a very considerable cough, with a copious discharge from the lungs, especially discharge of offensive mucus from the lungs, especially upon change of weather, however slight. As usual I fell to thinking about my condition, but was pretty soon convinced that I was rapidly going into consumption. I grew daily weaker, and at length was unable to walk about, or speak above a whisper, such was the exceeding weakness of my lungs. During this time I had tried various prescriptions and prescriptions, but found no relief—growing all the time worse. Just but found no relief—growing all the time worse. Just but found no relief—growing all the time worse. Just
