UNITED STATES OF AMERICA, Western District of Pennsylvania, ss.

WHEREAS, an information has been filed in the District Court of the United States of America for the Western District of Pennsylvania, on the fifth day of September, in the year of our Lord one thousand eight hundred and sixty one, by Robert H. Carnahan, Esq., Attorney of the United States, on behalf of the United States, alleging in substance that a certain lot of pig metal, amounting to seven hundred and eighty-one (781) tons, more or less, is now on the wharf at the port of Pittsburgh, in the said District; that the same is owned, in whole or in part, by Pointer Brothers, citizens and residents of the State of Tennessee, and now in the possession and charge of John Moorhea I, of Pittsburgh, in said District; that in pursuance of the Act of Congress approved July 16, 1861, the President of the United States issued his proclamation, dated August 16, 1861, declaring inter alia that the inhabitants of the State of Tennessee are in a state of insurrection against the United States, and that all commercial intercourse between the same and the inhabitants thereof and the citizens of other States and other parts of the United States is unlawful, and that all goods and chattels, wares and merchandize coming from said State of Tennessee into other parts of the United States, by land or water, will be forfeited to the United States; and that said lot of pig metal, owned as aforesaid, was conveyed from the said State of Tennessee to said city of Pittsburgh, and that the same thereby became forfeited to the use of the said United States, and praying that the same be condemned as forfeited as aforesaid.

Now, therefore, in pursuance of the monition under the seal of the said Court, to me directed and delivered, I do hereby give public notice to all persons claiming the said pig metal or any interest therein, or lien thereon, or in any manner interested in the same, that they be and appear before the said District Court, at the city of Pittsburgh, on the first Tuesday in October next, at eleven o'clock in the forenoon of that day, (provided the same shall be a day of jurisdiction, otherwise on the next day of jurisdiction thereafter,) then and there to interpose their claims and to make their allegations in that behalf.

1ST EDITION.

BY TELEGRAPH.

Details of the Battle of Lexington.

HUDSON, Mo., Sept. 23.—The following accounts of the siege of Lexington is furnished to the St. Louis Republican, by Henry Bradburn, one of Col. Mulligan's soldiers, who left Lexington Saturday morning. The Fort was surrendered on Friday afternoon. The men fought for fifty-nine hours without water, and had only three barrels of vinegar to quench their thirst during all that time. There were no springs or wells of water in the Camp ground as has been stated. The supply was from the river, and was cut off after a desperate fight on Wednesday. The camp ground consisted of about ten acres, and was located a short distance from the river. There were breastworks entirely around it, with the exception of the portion next the river. It was here the hardest fighting took place. The rebels procured a large number of hemp bales, rolled them in advance and under their cover, gradually succeeded in a position in the rear. They then cut off the supply of water, and had the fort completely surrounded. They made but few charges upon the breastworks during the entire siege. Their object seemed to be to surround the fort, and cut off the supply of water. In having succeeded in this, they awaited until Colonel Mulligan was compelled to yield to a force more terrible than the twenty-seven thousand rebels that surrounded him. Previous to the surrender he offered to take a position on a level spot of ground, and give General Price the odds of four to one in a fair and open fight, but no attention was paid to it. After the surrender the rebels mounted the breastworks and seemed mad with joy. As soon as the surrender took place a party took down the flag and trailled in the dust. An immense amount of gold, supposed to be about a quarter of a million, fell into the possession of the rebels. It was taken from the banks and buried by Col. Mulligan on the camp ground some time ago; the rebels speedily unearthed it. Col. Mulligan wept like a child when he found himself compelled to surrender. The morning after the surrender the men were all released on parole, and ferried across the river. The officers were detained.

The loss of the rebels is not known, but it is thought not to be less than a thousand killed and wounded. Their first attack proved more disastrous to them than the long siege that followed. For a day or two previous to the last attack they were engaged in burying their dead.

CAIRO, Sept. 23.—The pickets of the Iowa Seventh regiment, at Elliott's Mills, Kentucky, eight miles above Columbus, were approached on Sunday evening by a body of rebel cavalry, numbering fifty or sixty, when our boys fired on them, bringing down three or four. The rebels returned the fire, but without doing any damage, and then fled, leaving behind four horses.

The Course of Gen. Fremont.

IRONTON, Mo., Sept. 24, via St. Louis, Sept. 24.—At a meeting of the commissioned officers of the Twenty-first Regiment, United States volunteers, called together for the purpose of giving an expression of their feeling in regard to the course of Gen. Fremont, Col. J. W. S. Alexander was called to the chair, and the following report of the committee to draft resolutions was unanimously adopted:

WHEREAS, We view with regret the efforts being made to bring about the removal of Gen. Fremont, and believing that his removal would endanger, if not destroy, the magnificent army organized by and now under his command, and thus not only greatly weaken the power of the government, but encourage the leaders of rebellion in their efforts to destroy the republic, therefore—

Resolved, That in John C. Fremont we recognize not only a great military chieftain but a true patriot, whose well-known courage, unrivaled generous and undeviatiable energy have marked out as the man to organize and successfully command the army of the West.

Resolved, That we unhesitatingly endorse the course being pursued by Gen. Fremont in the Military Department of the West, and that we will not, under any circumstances, countenance the efforts now being made to remove him, but will at all times do all in our power to prevent its consummation.
