Agricultural.

AGRICULTURAL EDUCATION.—From the last report of the Cornell University for 1873–4, it appears that it is in a flourishing condition. It has 461 students, and the faculty consists of nearly fifty persons. When Congress apportioned certain public lands for the founding of an agricultural college in each State, the State of New York, instead of starting a new college, exclusively under the control of agriculturists, adopted this instead and gave it the control of 141,128 acres of land. Yet according to its register, it is without a Professor of Agriculture, and the number of students directing especial attention to agriculture is seven.

It is evident that no advancement will be made in agricultural education so long as it is attempted to graft it on the old collegiate systems. Pennsylvania has pursued a different course, but unfortunately she has nothing to boast of in the way of success, her agricultural college having by no means realized the anticipations of its founders. It is to be regretted that we have no Emanuel von Fellenberg to set an example to our country as to the best mode of combining education and the theory and practice of agriculture. It is more than seventy years since Fellenburg established his school at Hafwayl, and in all the time which has elapsed since then it has never had its equal. Perhaps after the Patrons of Husbandry have vanquished the evils which brought them into existence, they may turn their attention to the proper education of their youth. It is to be hoped that they will do so, and that they may find persons fit to conduct such establishments properly. So long as the salary is the sole object for engaging in the work of education little good can be expected. It will require the zeal, energy, benevolence, and disinterestedness of a Fellenberg to command success.

HUNGARIAN GRASS.—Several of my correspondents are again sending in their queries as to the value of Hungarian grass when made into hay for cows. I can say no more nor no less than I have heretofore said as to its value. Crop for crops I think it more valuable than the oat crop, which it replaces. Its main disadvantage is that should be cut at a time when we are very liable to have showery or wet weather. Last season much was injured in this way, but not more so than second crop hay. A crop of two tons per acre does not seem to be any more exhausting than an average crop of oats. Many allow it to become too ripe before cutting when it become harsh and is not so well relished by stock.

Put the ground in good order; sow from 24 to 32 quarts of seed per acre, according to the strength of the ground. After last season's experience, I would advise all to harrow at least once after sowing, and roll well afterward. Cut when the earliest heads are in blossom, or when the two lowest joints begin to change color. Cure well, and feed out with hay and fodder in alternate feeds.—Journal of the Farm.

PROPORTION OF CREAM TO MILK.—A. T. Reynolds, who has seen it stated that fifteen pounds of cream had been obtained from one hundred of milk, asks whether the statement can be correct. With some kinds of milk such a proportion, no doubt, has been obtained; but such results are far above the average. In a late experiment with rather more than an average quality of milk, 1318 pounds of milk gave 140 pounds of cream; in another 121 pounds of cream was taken from 1300 of milk; in a third, 117 pounds of cream from 1250 of milk. In a late experiment, tried in England, it was found that Alderney milk averaged from 18 to 20 per cent. of cream, Durham 17 to 30 Devon 14 to 17, Ayrshire 13 to 15 Brittany 16 to 22 per cent. From this it will be seen that the average alluded to by A. T. R. is not very much out of the way. Mr Crozier, of Northport, Long Island, claims to obtain one quart of pure cream from three quarts of milk of his best Jersey cow; this would be at double the rate my correspondent has mentioned.—Journal of the Farm.

RULES FOR POOR FARMING.—One of the roads to poor farming is well traveled, but not generally acknowledged—invest all your capital for land and go in debt for more. Hire money at a heavy interest to run the farm; have very little faith in farming and always be ready to sell out; buy the cheapest and poorest kind of stock and farming machinery; feed poor grain and hay to your stock, and you will have less repairs to make on your rickety fences and farm machinery, as fine horses and fat stock make sad havoc with the old wagon, plow, cart and fences. Use the oil of hickory whenever your oxen need strength; it is cheaper than high feeding and keeps out the hair lively, and pounds out the grubs. Never waste time by setting out fruit or shade trees, as leaves rustling around a place makes it unhealthy. Sell the best calves, lambs and shoats to the butchers, as they will bring a little more, and the thin and poor ones will do well enough to keep.

MAP YOUR FARM.—Every farmer should have a complete map of his farm, with each field, pasture, and wood lot, together with all the fences, roads and ditches plainly drawn, and either numbered or named, so they can be readily designated. Few farmers can appreciate the real value of one until they have tried the experiment, for with a map of the farm before you, you can direct your workman to any part of it without the least possibility of making a mistake. You can plan improvements and estimate their costs at your leisure, instead of spending half a day of valuable time in surveying the land itself. Any person with a little ingenuity and patience can draw a map of his farm. It should be about two feet square, or larger if desired, and draw upon thick card board to prevent its being torn or defaced. Let our farmers try the experiment, and they will soon learn its value.

GARDENING FOR WOMEN.—There is nothing better for wives and daughters, physically, than to have the care of a garden; a flower-plot, if nothing more. What is pleasanter than to spend a portion of every passing day in working shrubs, and trees, and plants, and to observe the opening of flowers from day to day, as the season advances? Then how much it adds to the enjoyment to know that your own hands have planted and tilled them, and have pruned and trained them. 'Is a pleasure that requires neither great riches nor profound knowledge.

SUSQUEHANNA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE

The Spring term of this institution will commence MONDAY, APRIL 6, 1874.

No pains will be spared to maintain the high standing of the institution, and by carefully looking to the interests of each individual student to make its work ever more efficient. Each teacher will have his speciality, and use every facility to make the topics interesting, and to secure the largest possible results in his department.

Classes will be organized in several new studies in Science and Language. Also the classes in English will be remodeled so as to meet the wants of new students desiring to pursue these branches.

To save expense, text books, the same as in the county will be used in the English branches, with the exception of Geography.

To make the sojourn of non-resident students more pleasant, the Principal will use his house—situated but a few rods from the Institute building—for boarding purposes, where rooms furnished throughout and provided with clothes closets and other conveniences will be furnished for the young ladies.

The best rooms in the Institute will be furnished and assigned to the young men; all will board at the house of the Principal. There will be a careful supervision on the part of the Principal and teachers of the manner in which students employ their time.

Price for furnished room and board, including fuel, lights, and washing not to exceed six pieces, $4 00 per week. Students will furnish their own toilet and be held accountable for the furniture in their rooms.

Those desiring to prepare themselves for the work of teaching during the following Summer, should apply to the Principal at once.

Tuition from Four to Ten Dollars per term, according to studies pursued.

For further particulars or circulars, address the Principal, R. E. QUINLAN, Towanda Pa.

APPLETONS' AMERICAN CYCLOPÆDIA.

NEW REVISED EDITION.

Entirely rewritten by the ablest writers on every subject. Printed from new type, and illustrated with Several Thousand engravings and Maps.

The work originally published under the title of THE NEW AMERICAN CYCLOPÆDIA, was completed in 1863, since which time the wide circulation which it has attained in all parts of the United States, and the signal developments which have taken place in every branch of science, literature and art, have induced the editors and publishers to submit it to an exact and thorough revision, and to issue a new edition entitled THE AMERICAN CYCLOPÆDIA.

Within the last ten years the progress of discovery in every department of knowledge, has made a new work of reference an imperative want.

The movement of political affairs has kept pace with the discoveries of science, and their fruitful application to the industrial and useful arts and the convenience and refinement of social life. Great wars and consequent revolutions have occurred, involving national changes of peculiar moment. The civil war of our own country, which was at its height when the last volume of the old work appeared, has happily been ended, and a new course of commercial and industrial activity has been commenced.

Large accessions to our geographical knowledge have been made by the indefatigable explorers of Africa.

The great political revolutions of the last decade, with the natural result of the lapse of time, have brought into public view a multitude of new men, whose names are in every one's mouth, and of whose lives every one is curious to know the particulars. Great battles have been fought and important sieges maintained, of which the details are as yet preserved only in the newspapers or in the transient publications of the day, but which ought now to take their place in permanent and authentic history.

In preparing the present edition for the press, it has accordingly been the aim of the editors to bring down the information to the latest possible dates, and to furnish an accurate account of the most recent discoveries in science, of every fresh production in literature, and of the newest inventions in the practical arts, as well as to give a succinct and original record of the progress of political and historical events.

The work has been begun after long and careful preliminary labor, and with the most ample resources for carrying it on to a successful termination.

None of the original stereotype plates have been used, but every page has been printed on new type, forming in fact a new Cyclopædia, with the same plan and compass as its predecessor, but with a far greater pecuniary expenditure, and with such improvements in its composition as have been suggested by longer experience and enlarged knowledge.

The illustrations which are introduced for the first time in the present edition, have been added, not for the sake of pictorial effect, but to give greater lucidity and force to the explanations in the text. They embrace all branches of science and of natural history, and depict the most famous and remarkable features of scenery, architecture and art, as well as the various processes of mechanics and manufactures. Although intended for instruction rather than embellishment, no pains have been spared to insure their artistic excellence; the cost of their execution is enormous, and it is believed they will find a welcome reception as an admirable feature of the Cyclopædia, and worthy of its high character.

This work is sold to Subscribers only, payable on delivery of each volume. It will be completed in sixteen large octavo volumes, each containing about 800 pages, fully illustrated with several thousand Wood Engravings, and with numerous colored Lithographic Maps.

THE MILD POWER CURES!

HUMPHREYS'S

HOMEOPATHIC SPECIFICS

Have proved, from the most ample experience, an entire success. Simple, prompt, efficient and reliable. They are the only medicine perfectly adapted to popular use—so simple that mistakes cannot be made in using them; so harmless as to be free from danger; and so efficient as to be always reliable. They have the highest commendation from all, and will always render satisfaction.
