Agricultural.

GILT EDGE BUTTER.—In making fancy butter, there are three essentials—color, texture, and flavor. The color must be a rich golden; the texture firm, tenacious, waxy; and that nutty flavor and smell which impart so high a degree of pleasure when eating it. Butter of the very highest quality will bring $1 a pound readily. A Philadelphia maker who receives this price gave Mr. J. B. Lyman these facts as to his management; He feeds on clover or early-mewn hay; cuts fine, moistens, and mixes in corn meal and wheaten shorts; feeds often, and a little at a time; uses no roots except carrots; keeps his pastures free from weeds; keeps the temperature of the milk-room at about 58 degrees; skims clean; stirs the cream, in the cream-churns once a week; just before the butter gathers, he puts a bucket of ice cold water in the churn; in working he works out all the butter-milk without the use of the hand, absorbing the drops with a fine linen cloth wrung from cold water, and at the second working handles delicately, with fingers as cold as may be; salts nearly an ounce to the pound; packs in one-pound balls.

ABOUT CATTLE.—The books tell us that the first cattle imported into this country were by Columbus, in 1493. The first importation by the Plymouth Company was in 1642. A few years later the Dutch brought them to New Hampshire. The average weight of these cattle was a little less than 300 pounds. In 1710 the average weight of beef cattle in the London market was 370. In 1763 it had gone up to 490 pounds. In 1833 the average weight had increased to 756 pounds. Since then the average has steadily advanced until in the Brighton market of Boston, to-day, they, average fifty per cent more than in 1850. The largest beef reported in the books was raised by Mr. John Sakers, of Massachusetts, weighing 3,000 pounds, live weight. Mr. Wm. Smith, of Detriot, owned the steer "Greeley," weighing 4,110 pounds gross, net 3700. At the present time it is a common occurence that a shipment of Illinois cattle average 1,600 pounds. This increase in the weight, and consequent value, has been brought about by judicious selection, and feeding.

Having recently become acquainted with a new remedy for scratches, and all others diseases of domestic animals that require an external application, and having tested it in scratches, inflamed eyes, bruises, and sprains, I feel that I cannot do your readers a greater service than by calling their attention to this new and very valuable remedy. I allude to cosmoline. It is the emollient principle of petroleum, and is far superior as an external application, to any other ointment or liniment I have ever tried. It is equally good for cuts and wounds, and is, in short, of universal application. Galls are rapidly healed by its use, and for all kind of diseases it is invaluable.

A FRIEND of ours told us the other day, how his wife cures hens of setting; and as it is a very novel way we will repeat it for the benefit of others who are bothered with inveterate old setters. Picking up some splinters from the chipyard (some four or five inches long) she bound them firmly to the hen's legs, leaving only the hip-joints in working order. Biddle was outwitted; like the old Dutchman's hen, she would have to set standing up.—A Rural Reader.

THE cheapest material for marking linen is coal tar, diluted with benzine to the proper consistency. Another inexpensive prescription is to place iron filing or old nails in strong vinegar; let them stand many days, and filter the liquid. Another way is to take equal quanties of vermilion and copperas, and rub them up with oil varnish. The first and last preparations have to be used with a fine brush; the second with a common pen.

CHILBLAINS.—Sulphuric acid should be applied with a camel-hair brush, or by means of a spray-producer. One application of this usually affects a cure. The acid should be used pure. A good wash for hands or feet affected with chilblains is sulphric acid, three parts; glycerine, one part; water, one part. The acid will be found particularly useful in the irritating, tormenting state of chilblains.

TO REMOVE SPOTS FROM CARPETS.—Mix half an ounce of ox gall with a quart of hot water. Wet and rub the spot with this, then with scrubing and warm soap suds, not too strong. Scrub thoroughly; rub as dry as possible, then pin a coarse brown paper over the damp place to prevent the dust setting on it while wet, and let it remain till it is dry. This last item of the brown paper is an important one.

TO CLEAN PAINT AND WINDOW PANES.—Whiting is an excellent polish for window glass. After the panes are washed, put a little whiting in the center of each, and polish thoroughly with a dry flannel cloth, taking care to keep the corners clean. In cleaning paint, soap takes the paint off or turns it yellow; a little sifted wood ashes is much better, when it is much discolored by smoke or usage.

THE following is a sure cure for a felon on the finger: Take common rock salt, such as it used for salting down pork or beef dry it in the oven, then pound it fine and mix it with the spirits of turpentine in equal parts. Put it on a rag and wrap it around the thumb, and as it gets dry put on some more, and in 24 hours we are assured the felon will be dead.

TO CURE GRUB IN THE HEAD.—J. B. Scoville has cured grub in the head by filling a clay pipe with tobacco, lighting it and inserting the stem in the nose, applying the mouth to the bowl of the pipe and blowing the smoke into the sheep's head. A. Brown cures sheep so affected by blowing camphor, vinegar and black pepper into the nose of the sheep.

POOR MAN'S LOAF CAKE.—Five teacups of flour, two of sugar, two thirds of butter, one teaspoonful of soda two of cream of tarter, and raisins and spice. Wet with milk and stir together till of the thickness of common cake.

SUSQUEHANNA COLLEGIATE INSTITUTE

The Spring term of this institution will commence MONDAY, APRIL 6, 1874.

No pains will be spared to maintain the high standing of the institution, and by carefully looking to the interests of each individual student to make its work evermore efficient. Each teacher will have his speciality, and use every facility to make the topics interesting, and to secure the largest possible results in his department.

Classes will be organized in several new studies in Science and Language. Also the classes in English will be remodeled so as to meet the wants of new students desiring to pursue these branches.

To save expense, text books, the same as in the county will be used in the English branches, with the exception of Geography.

To make the sojourn of non-resident students more pleasant, the Principal will use his house—situated but a few rods from the Institute building—for boarding purposes, where rooms furnished throughout and provided with clothes closets and other conveniences will be furnished for the young ladies.

The best rooms in the Institute will be furnished and assigned to the young men; all will board at the house of the Principal. There will be a careful supervision on the part of the Principal and teachers of the manner in which students employ their time.

Price for furnished room and board, including fuel, lights, and washing not to exceed six pieces, $4 00 per week. Students will furnish their own toilet and be held accountable for the furniture in their rooms.

Those desiring to prepare themselves for the work of teaching during the following Summer, should apply to the Principal at once.

Tuition from Four to Ten Dollars per term, according to studies pursued.

For further particulars or circulars, address the Principal, E. E. QUINLAN, Towanda Pa.

APPLETONS' AMERICAN CYCLOPÆDIA.

NEW REVISED EDITION.

Entirely rewritten by the ablest writers on every subject. Printed from new type, and illustrated with Several Thousand engravings and Maps.

The work originally published under the title of THE NEW AMERICAN CYCLOPÆDIA, was completed in 1863, since which time wide circulation which it has attained in all parts of the United States, and the signal developments which have taken place in every branch of science, literature and art, have induced the editors and publishers to submit it to an exact and thorough revision, and to issue a new edition entitled THE AMERICAN CYCLOPÆDIA.

Within the last ten years the progress of discovery in every department of knowledge, has made a new work of reference an imperative want.

The movement of political affairs has kept pace with the discoveries of science, and their fruitful application to the industrial and useful arts and the convenience and refinement of social life. Great wars and consequent revolutions have occurred, involving national changes of peculiar moment. The civil war of our own country, which was at its height when the last volume of the old work appeared, has happily been ended, and a new course of commercial and industrial activity has been commenced.

Large accessions to our geographical knowledge have been made by the indefatigable explorers of Africa.

The great political revolutions of the last decade, with the natural result of the lapse of time, have brought into public view a multitude of new men, whose names are in every one's mouth, and of whose lives every one is curious to know the particulars. Great battles have been fought and important sieges maintained, of which the details are as yet preserved only in the newspapers or in the transient publications of the day, but which ought now to take their place in permanent and authentic history.

In preparing the present edition for the press, it has accordingly been the aim of the editors to bring down the information to the latest possible dates, and to furnish an accurate account of the most recent discoveries in science, of every fresh production in literature, and of the newest inventions in the practical arts, as well as to give a succinct and original record of the progress of political and historical events.

The work has been begun after long and careful preliminary labor, and with the most ample resources for carrying it on to a successful termination.

None of the original stereotype plates have been used, but every page has been printed on new type, forming in fact a new Cylopædia, with the same plan and compass as its predecessor, but with a far greater pecuniary expenditure, and with such improvements in its composition as have been suggested by longer experience and enlarged knowledge.

The illustrations which are introduced for the first time in the present edition, have been added, not for the sake of pictorial effect, but to give greater lucidity and force to the explanations in the text. They embrace all branches of science and of natural history, and depict the most famous and remarkable features of scenery, architecture and art, as well as the various processes of mechanics and manufactures. Although intended for instruction rather than embellishment, no pains have been spared to insure their artistic excellence; the cost of their execution is enormous, and it is believed they will find a welcome reception as an admirable feature of the Cyclopædia, and worthy of its high character.

This work is sold to Subscribers only, payable on delivery of each volume. It will be completed in sixteen large octavo volumes, each containing about 800 pages, fully illustrated with several thousand Wood Engravings, and with numerous colored Lithographic Maps.

HOMEOPATHIC SPECIFICS

Have proved, from the most ample experience, an entire success. Simple, prompt, efficient and reliable. They are the only medicine perfectly adapted to popular use—so simple that mistakes cannot be made in using them; so harmless as to be free from danger; and so efficint as to be always reliable. They have the highest commendation from all, and will always render satisfaction.
