Agricultural.

Preparing and Packing Poultry.

Poultry should be fat, and kept 24 hours from food before killing to have the crop empty. Food in the crop sours, blackens the skin, injures the sale of poultry, and buyers will not pay for this useless weight. Opening the vein in the neck or bleeding in the mouth is the proper mode of killing. If bled inside the throat the bill should be pried open with a piece of a chip and the poultry to be hung up by the feet on a line. This makes bleeding free and prevents bruising. The head and feet should be left on and the internals in. The flesh should not be mutilated in any manner. Turkeys and chickens dry-picked keep much longer and sell much higher than scalded. If the picking is done by scalding, the water should be heated just to the boiling point, and the poultry held by the feet dipped in and out of the water four or five times, counting three each time in or out. The work should be done quickly, neatly and thoroughly. After picking, hang up the poultry by the feet in a cool, dry place, till all animal heat is out and the poultry thoroughly cold and dry. Avoid freezing, as poultry will not keep long after thawing. Wrap in thin, light, strong paper. Brown and dark, heavy paper, having too much acid in it, injures the poultry. The head should be wrapped separately. Always pack head downward. This throws the soft entrails on the breast bone, the poultry keeping longer in this position. Pack in clean, dry, tight flour barrels. Geese and ducks, after being killed should have all the feathers picked off, then rubbed all over theroughly with fine resin, after which dip them in boiling hot water in and out seven or eight times, then rub off the pin-feathers, after which wash off the fowl with warm water, using soap and a hand brush. Immediately after, rinse them well in cold water, then hang them up by the feet in a cool, dry place, till they are thoroughly dry, when they can be wrapped and packed as before suggested. Poultry thus dressed and packed, will, in moderately cold weather, keep sweet and fresh for 15 or 20 days, and can be shipped from the extreme West with safety, by freight. Never pack poultry in straw, as in damp or in warm weather it causes it to sweat or heat. Game, deer, rabbits, coons, opossums and squirrels should be opened, all the entrails taken out, leaving only the kidney fat; then the inside should be wiped perfectly dry with a soft, clean cloth, after which wrap the small game in paper, packing the back downward. Wild turkeys, ducks, geese, grouse, pheasants, quails, pigeons, and birds of all kinds should always have the entrails left in them, and the head and feet left on. They should never be mutilated in any manner. Drawn birds sour in a short time, and sell for less than the undrawn, even if sweet. Wrap the head separately in paper, then the body. Pack head downward in tight, clean barrels, the same as poultry. Shippers should remember well that all game and poultry should be thoroughly cold before being packed, otherwise it will soon swet and heat. Barrels are the best packages that shippers can ship in.—Maryland Farmer.

Proper Mode of Feeding Horses.—Let me say a word or two in reference to feeding the horse, as bearing upon the condition of the foot. Every owner of a horse must have observed that the growth and strength and appearance of the horse's foot is materially affected by the condition of the horse himself. A half starved horse may have a foot injured by deficient nutrition; an over-fed horse may have a foot heated into an inflamation; and so dependant is the foot upon a healthy state of the animal economy, that for the foot alone, if nothing else, the diet of the horse should be regulated with the utmost regard to his health. I am confident that we give our horses too much grain and too little hay—especially horses under seven years of age, who will work with more endurance and courage on a good supply of hay and a moderate supply of grain—of the latter say six quarts of oats and a pint of corn daily. Older horses require and will bear more grain—but even they want more hay than is usually given. Every horse should pass a few weeks of each year without grain—either the first half or the last half of the winter, which ever is the most convenient. And this mode of feeding can be adopted without suspending the animal's work.

I have one horse fourteen years old, which had this regimen for four months every years of his life (and I brad him,) and he is as smooth, vigorous and healthy as a colt—has a sound smooth foot, was never lame and has always been in good order. He is a good specimen of what box stalls, brick floor, tar ointment, turnips and hay will do for horses towards preserving their health and strength, and soundness and promoting longevity.—Mass. Ploughman.

How to Make Good Buckwheat Cakes.—Buckwheat flour when baked into cakes, as is usual, is apt to "lie heavy on the stomach;" the fact has given rise to the remark. To obviate this and improve otherwise, mix Graham flour with the buckwheat—a little more than two-thirds buckwheat with one-third Graham or unbolted wheat flour. This may be mixed in large quantity, and kept at hand ready for use. The Graham will make it light, aid digestion, and make it palatable and wholesome. It can be mixed and baked at short notice, by making a batter with sour milk from the churn, and raised with soda, or what is more generally acceptable, mix and set by the stove over night. If the first morning it is not sufficiently light, it will be the next and therefore if not kept too warm. It may be mixed with water or milk—milk is best, and in either case a little soda should be added just before baking, more where sour milk is used. Give it a fair test. That accompaniment sausage gravy, is not absolutely necessary as a dressing. We always prefer good butter at 30 cents per pound.

To Remove Warts from Hands:—Purchase a dime's worth of spirits of hartshorn bathe the warts, or, if very numerous, that portion of the hand where the warts are with a small portion of the spirits of hartshorn, each night and morning, for about three weeks, not washing the hands immediately after. The use of it will not cause any pain unless it comes in contact with a cut or bruise. A cure is usually effected in about three weeks.

Towanda, Feb. 10, 1874.

APPLETONS' AMERICAN CYCLOPEDIA.

NEW REVISED EDITION.

Entirely rewritten by the ablest writers on every subject. Printed from new type, and illustrated with Several Thousand engravings and Maps.

The work originally published under the title of The New American Cyclopedia was completed in 1863, since which time the wide circulation which it has attained in all parts of the United States, and the signal developments which have taken place in every branch of science, literature and art, have induced the editors and publishers to submit it to an exact and thorough revision, and to issue a new edition entitled The American Cyclopedia.

Within the last ten years the progress of discovery in every department of knowledge, has made a new work of reference an imperative want.

The movement of political affairs has kept pace with the discoveries of science, and their fruitful application to the industrial and useful arts and the convenience and refinement of social life. Great wars and consequent revolutions have occurred, involving national changes of peculiar moment. The civil war of the new country, which was at its height when the last volume of the old work appeared, has happily been ended, and a new course of commercial and industrial activity has been commenced.

Large accessions to our geographical knowledge have been made by the indefatigable explorers of Africa.

The great political revolutions of the last decade, with the natural result of the lapse of time, have brought into public view a multitude of new men, whose names are in every one's mouth, and of whose lives every one is curious to know the particulars. Great battles have been fought and important sieges maintained, of which the details are as yet preserved only in the newspapers or in the transient publications of the day, but which ought now to take their place in permanent and authentic history.

In preparing the present edition for the press, it has accordingly been the aim of the editors to bring down the information to the latest possible dates, and to furnish an accurate account of the most recent discoveries in science, of every fresh production in literature, and of the newest inventions in the practical arts, as well as to give a succinct and original record of the progress of political and historical events.

The work has been begun after long and careful preliminary labor, and with the most ample resources for carrying it on to a successful termination.

None of the original stereotype plates have been used, but every page has been printed on new type, forming in fact a new Cyclopædia, with the same plan and compass as its predecessor, but with a far greater pecuniary expenditure, and with such improvements in its composition as have been suggested by longer experience and enlarged knowledge.

The illustrations which are introduced for the first time in the present edition, have been added, not for the sake of pictorial effect, but to give greater lucidity and force to the explanations in the text. They embrace all branches of science and of natural history, and depict the most famous and remarkable features of scenery, architecture and art, as well as the various processes of mechanics and manufactures. Although intended for instruction rather than embellishment, no pains have been spared to insure their artistic excellence; the cost of their execution is enormous, and it is believed they will find a welcome reception as an admirable feature of the Cyclopædia, and worthy of its high character.

This work is sold to Subscribers only, payable on delivery of each volume. It will be completed in sixteen large octavo volumes, each containing about 800 pages, fully illustrated with several thousand Wood Engravings, and with numerous colored Lithographic Maps.

DANIEL F. BEATTY & CO., or

BEATTY & PLATT'S

CELEBRATED GOLDEN TONGUE PARLOR ORGANS.

Are ranked by eminent musicians and distinguished men of honor in this country and in Europe, as the leading parlor organ now in use. We challenge any maker to equal them! For Church, Sabbath Schools, Lodges, as well as the parlor, they have no equal. Testimonials and cards of honor are constantly being received in their favor. An offer. Where we have no agents we will allow any one wishing to purchase one of our organs, the agent's discount. Also to any responsible party wishing to purchase one of our organs from a distance, and prefer to see and examine it before paying for it, the same will be granted them by sending us a recommendation from the cashier of your nearest bank, or some prominent man in your vicinity, and if the organ is not just as represented, you have the liberty to return the same at our expense, we paying the freight both ways. It is with pleasure we introduce the Golden Tongue, knowing that it will give universal satisfaction, as it possesses many advantages over all others. The tone excels in fullness, and the deep vibration of sounds an evidence that it stands first as to merits of all musical instruments now in use.

We select a few abstracts from letters and editorials which we are constantly receiving in favor of our organs, and wish you to read them:

We cry "Eureka" for we found what we wanted.
J. P. WILBAR, Harrisburg, Pa.

I am pleased with the sweetness of its tone.
