Extracts from the opinions of the Press.

Sacred Scenes and Characters.—By the Rev. J. T. Headley. This work may very properly be considered a companion to the "Sacred Mountains," by the same author. Its object is to illustrate and "render more vivid" the sacred writings. It is not the author's design to supersede the Bible. But it's wish is to excite a solicitude to obtain, and to become intimately acquainted and perfectly familiar with its history, doctrines and laws; to know its truth, to imbibe its spirit, feel its power, and partake of its salvation; in a word, to prize in some measure as it deserves, this treasure which is indeed beyond price. We predict for it a circulation far beyond any of the author's former works.—The News, Jan. 7th.

Sacred Scenes and Characters.—By the Rev. J. T. Headley, author of the "Sacred Mountains," &c. This work will add greatly to the reputation of the author. In literary merit it more than equals his "Sacred Mountains." Mr. Headley excels in his glowing style and vivid descriptions. His works are a rich treasury of all the sublimity of thought, moving tenderness of passion, and vigorous strength of expression, which are to be found in all the languages by which mortals declare their minds.—[See Daily Globe, Jan. 5th.

Rambles and Sketches.—By Rev. J. T. Headley. We have not for a long time sat down to a book with more pleasing anticipation, or found those anticipations more fully realized, than in the perusal of the work before us, and we know it will be hailed with gratification by the many admirers of the talented author. His "Napoleon and his Marshals" was, perhaps, as popular, and found at least as many enthusiastic readers as any book that can be mentioned. We think the Rambles and Sketches are destined to be as popular at least as any of his previously published works. There is not a dull chapter in the work, filled as it is with "an infinite variety." The author has ample room and verge enough for the employment of his fine talents to great advantage, and most successfully has he accomplished the task. The biographical sketch of the author is interesting and "well considered," and adds much to the value of the books, which is got up in a very neat and attractive style by the publisher.—[See Portland Transcript, Dec. 15th.

Mr. Headley is one of the most promising writers of this country, and we have here one of his best books—one on which he can safely rest his fame. It possesses the unfatiguing charms of perfect simplicity and truth. There is a graceful frankness pervading the composition, which engages the interest of the reader in the author as well as in the subject. His rambles about Rome, Paris and London, exhibit a thousand lively traits of an ingenious nature, upon which a man of taste will delight to linger. We predict for this a sale equal to that of any of the author's work.—[See New York News.

The collection is one of which no author need be ashamed. It consists, indeed, of some of Mr. Headley's most brilliant and highly finished compositions, of those specimens of his abilities by which he may be judged with the greatest safety to his fame as a word-painter and thinker. —[See New York Tribune, Dec. 17, 1848.

N. B. The above books will be forwarded to order, at the prices mentioned, free of postage, to any part of the United States, on the receipt of orders, with the money.—Money may be sent by mail at my risk.
