VALUABLE INFORMATION FOR OUR SUBURBAN FRIENDS

The Value of Stable Manure—The Inbreeding of Turkeys—Care and Attention in Breeding Hogs—A Good Grafting Wax—Sheep Notes.

Sheep are comfort lovers, and the man who neglects to provide them with good, dry shelter makes a costly error.

. . It is the gains that the lambs make during the fall that determine the feeder's profit.

No female can expect to transmit to her offspring better qualities than she possesses herself unless she is mated with a sire of greater propotency.

Do not go into sheep breeding, Grow into it. Begin in a small way. You will find many unexpected problems constantly coming up, and if you go into it largely at first you will find a great deal of trouble and disappointment. There is much that has to be learned by long and thoughtful experience.

Rosin, four parts (ounces or pounds); beeswax, two parts; tallow, one part, melted slowly in an iron vessel, putting in the rosin five or ten minutes before the beeswax, and all completely mixed together by much stirring. In twenty minutes or so it will be thoroughly mixed, and a convenient portion is to be poured into a bucket of cold water. In a minute or less it will be cool enough to take up with the hands(which must be greased with tallow)and pulled like taffy. When it becomes light yellow in color it is done and can be made into sticks or balls and put into another vessel of cold water to harden. Other portions may be treated in the same way until all is used up. These balls or sticks of conventional size can be laid away until required for use.

Judge E. E. Axline of Oak Grove, Mo. is one of the most successful swine breeders ever produced by that state. In a recent article he says that the value of pure bred hogs depends largely on the care and attention given them. Care and attention pay well when given to any kind of live stock, and if we have pure breds we naturally feel more interest in them and will take better care of them than if they were grades of inferior quality. Pure breds breed evener, are more uniform in color, have more style and finish. They feed quicker, mature and develop earlier, with less fat than most grades. This makes them more profitable for the farmer and feeder to grow and feed, and, of course, they are better sellers

It is a rare thing for a farmer to send very far away for a gobbler, and it is a fact that the turkeys in any community or county are more related than any other class of fowls. This is because turkeys are not raised very extensively and it is so easy for the owner of a flock to go a few miles away for new blood and the gobbler that he secures is generally closely related to the hens for the reason that he is usually the son of some turkey hen in the community that is used as a breeder. Do not use the same gobbler over and over season after season but send to some distant point where none of the farmers in the neighborhood have ever sent and get a good gobbler. The results in the end will be better and you will be more satisfied.

The most universal byproduct of the dairy farm is the stable manure resulting from keeping dairy cows and the necessary young stock says Conlin C. Lille. Scientific men have and the necessary young stock, says made various estimates of the value of the manure produced by a cow in a year. They figured the value of nitrogen, phosphoric acid and potash produced at market prices. Some of them have told us that the manure from one cow would amount to as much as $25 per year if we had to buy these fertilizer ingredients in the open market in the form of commercial fertilizer. Of course we practical dairymen know very well that the immediate benefit at least of the result from manure from keeping a dairy cow does not amount to $25 per year. We realize, however, that there is much benefit to a dairy farmer from this product, and whether it is worth $25 per year or not, we know that dairy farms as a general thing are getting better every year. The crop producing power of it increases, and it comes largely from the fact that the crops produced upon the farm are fed out upon the farm and the manure drawn to the fields, thus keeping the soil filled with organic matter, which is one of the very essential things in building up, improving and maintaining fertility. A casual observer can tell in almost any community who are the dairy farmers. The grain farm is gradually getting poorer, while the dairy farm is getting better.

A GREAT HELP

The Great Importance of the Culvert To Public Roads

At the present time it is not practical nor would it be necessary to macadamize all the roads in the county, but no other work can be undertaken to greater advantage by supervisors than the installation of culverts. To remove the water from the road so soon as possible is the first essential in road work. It is not desirable to carry water in the ditches for long distances before disposing of it but at the first opportunity it should be run from the upper ditch to the lower ditch and thence away from the road. Water should not ordinarily be carried across the road, however, if it cannot reach a natural watercourse at once, but sometimes at the junction of roads or at places where an embankment obstructs underground drainage is a prime necessity. In carrying the water across the road the culvert must be used for it is not in accordance with improved roadmaking to suffer water to pass across the surface of the roadway.

The old plank culvert has been found unsatisfactory. It generally is above or below the surface of the roadway with often a hole filled with mud on either side, and its maintenance is costly. The needs of economy can best be served by replacing it, when worn out, with a permanent structure of either corrugated metal or what will be practically everlasting, —Concrete. Concrete is the only building material that grows stronger with age. It should be used where any new work is projected. The permanent culvert is just as important to the earth road as to the macadam highway; the temporary culvert will last as long on one road as on another as it is the elements rather than the travel that destroys such structures. A two foot concrete culvert with a length of twenty feet will require about eight and a half cubic yards of material, allowance being made for wing walls and abutments. Concrete should not cost over five or six dollars per cubic yard, depending on the character of materials and convenience of the same to the work. In installing culverts of less than fifteen inches in diameter care should be exercised to give them a good fall as a culvert well inclined will not so easily clog with debris as one placed with a small fall. No culvert is complete regardless of the material used without headwall and wing, both on the upper and lower ends to hold the fill and force the water through the opening, instead of under and around it, to prevent undermining of the structure. The culvert should be installed a sufficient distance beneath the surface of the roadway to be protected from travel. Where only a small trench can be dug to receive it it should not be left like a barrel half buried in the road but suitable approaches should be made to it.

Next week's article will tell how to construct a concrete culvert.

HAPPY RESULTS

Have Made Many Mt. Joy Residents Enthusiastic

No wonder scores of Mt. Joy citizens grow enthusiastic. It is enough to make anyone happy to find relief after years of suffering. Public statements like the following are but truthful representations of the daily work done in Mt. Joy by Doan's Kidney Pills.

Mrs. C. Gillums, Main street, Mt. Joy, Pa., says: "I can add nothing to the public statement I gave in favor of Doan's Kidney Pills in October, 1907, except that the cure I then described has been permanent. A member of my family had attacks of kidney complaint for years and complained a great deal of a dull pain in the small of the back. This person slept poorly and felt all out of sorts. Doan's Kidney Pills, procured from Garber's Drug Store, brought relief and whenever they have been used since then, they have had a benencial effect."

ACCIDENTALLY SHOT

Landisville Girl Receives a Rifle Bullet in Leg.

Bessie Kline, aged fifteen years, daughter of Edward Kline, of Landisville, was received as a patient at the General Hospital last night for treatment for a bullet wound in the leg.

Wednesday afternoon Miss Kline's brother and several companions were using a rifle in the street in front of the Kline home. They were shooting at sparrows and as Miss Kline approached the boys decided to give up the sport. The supposition was that the rifle was not loaded, but as the young lady passed it was discharged. The bullet entered one of her legs and went almost entirely through.

At the hospital the X-Ray was put on the leg and when the bullet was located it was removed without trouble. Miss Kline's condition is not regarded as serious and she will probably leave the hospital to-day.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

Best Food for Babies

If you are having trouble with the boy's food, and nothing seems to agree with it, you can probably get the child to take A. D. S. Malted Milk retain it and thrive on it, as it is a particularly nourishing, satisfying and carefully made preparation, intended especially for troublesome stomachs of both infants and adults.

It is one of the standard, reliable American Druggists' Syndicate products, and its use is unhesitatingly advised by the entire 12,000 druggists who are A. D. S. members, and know its true value. There is nothing in it to prove harmful to the baby—no drugs or medicines. It is merely a scientifically made article of food, which you can rely upon.

This is the way they speak of

A. D. S. Malted Milk

Mr. V. G. Newell, a prominent druggist of Warren, Pa., says:

"Gentlemen—Enclosed you will find a picture of my youngest boy, whose LIFE WAS SAVED BY A. D. S. MALTED MILK.

"That sounds like a pretty big story, but here are the facts.

"John Winston Newell was born January 29, 1909, and after the first week his mother was unable to nurse him. He was put on a well advertised brand of malted milk, and at 5 weeks weighed only 7½ pounds, was very thin and showed symptoms of starvation. Then we put him on A. D. S. Malted Milk and he began to gain at once. At 5 months, when this picture was taken, he weighed 15 pounds. We cannot recommend it too highly."
