COURT JOHN HAY IN WASHINGTON MEMORIAL

Joint Ceremonies by Native, Patriotic and Fraternal Forces in South Philadelphia

Court John Hay No. 343, at 1226 South Eighth street, held one of the largest fraternal celebrations in South Philadelphia in honor of the 185th anniversary of the birth of George Washington. At the preliminary session thirteen candidates were initiated. The public exercises were presided over by P. C. R. Frank Willard. Present as guests were Reynold Post, No. 71, G. A. R., representatives from Grand Army posts, camps of the Spanish-American War Veterans, commands of the Army and Navy Veterans and many patriotic organizations, together with retired as well as active service men of the army, militia and naval forces. Forty-five courts of the downtown sections were represented.

The committee of reception were Brothers Dougherty, Etriss, Molesmeau, Bosher, Schaffer, Hayes, McGinley, Hagerty and Celuntono; musical director, Brother Rienzi; conductor of chorus, Brother Lyster; soloist, Brothers Salerno, Santalucci and Tiesi. Participating in the program were Brothers Coward, Ransley, Drs. Rosener, Greenbaum and Wainwright; Brother Longo, harpist. The orchestra of Court Menno gave patriotic selections.

The program comprised features suited to the event. The court's auxiliary deputy, P. G. C. R. Bradley, made a brief introductory address and presented as the speaker of the occasion P. G. C. R. J. H. Kirk, a member of Schuylkill, No. 108, whose subject was "The F. of A. Responds to the Call for Patriotism in the Present Crisis." In his stirring words, the speaker said: "Here tonight appear men in the ranks of the F. of A. who bear the insignia of honorable service. Hearth our membership rolls and you will find inscribed the names of our brethren who responded to every call to duty from Lincoln's to Wilson's day. Should present conditions demand, our recruits will swell by many fold the ranks of peaceful defenders. Our order recognizes our country as our social family and when America calls we obey willingly and for conscience sake, because we heed it as the call from the throne of God. Unless fraternal organizations are centers of patriotic ideals and personal services promotion factors they will not survive. In our ranks, standing loyally shoulder to shoulder with the native-born, are many who, if not themselves born in other countries, trace back their lineage to a not remote foreign ancestry.

"Of the 110,000,000 persons of our land, 33,000,000 of them Uncle Sam has assimilated as souls of foreign descent. I am not one, native born that I am, that deems it a crime to revert in pleasing memory to scenes of childhood, to cherish the ground that covers the graves of kindred. But, with my F. of A. brethren, when I is question of allegiance and loyalty, then for all of us there is only one country, and that is America; only one flag, and that is the Star Spangled Banner. When America sounds its call, we all of us must answer as Americans single, without any hyphen. The F. of A. challenges any who dispute the cyalty of its membership to equal us in sacrifice, to be as quick as we are to rally to the call of duty, to be as free from the stain of diphonor dare besmirch our flag. We covet no holocaust, we fain would repel the advancing shades of war. Tonight we rededicate ourselves without regard to race or creed or nation, to political differences, to a whole-souled Americanism."

At the bimonthly conference of the supervising deputies, the grand chief ranger suggested that one of the special considerations that should be taken up at the sessions of the grand court convention is the reclamation of such lapsed members as are still within the prescribed requirements and eligible for reafficiation. On attending officials adopted the idea and hope to have it put into operation, through the assistance of the auxiliary deputies in their respective territories. Those taking part in the conference were Brothers Farrest, Montag, Palmer, Emmert, Fisher, McGuire, Jones, Frill, Campbell, Farrell, Hurley, Baglive, Mooney, Mann and Cathcart. A large number of the 154 local deputies were attentive listeners to the proceedings.

In his remarks, G. C. R. Pilot set forth: "The growth of the order and the wide extent of the membership suggests that besides the free and various fields of effort there should at times be some concerted action, to formulate some definite plan of special effort and to concentrate on some particularly needed activity, so that while not neglecting other fields of effort the membership should attend especially to the one field out for them. Accordingly we suggest now the obtaining of the return to the ranks of such precluded brothers as are still eligible under the requirements. This work is necessary by our side and there is no one who is not able in one way or another to take part in this most important work without neglecting the other fruitful field of effort. This work, it is needless to say, has not received the attention that it demanded, and there is great danger of its still being overlooked or neglected; so I appeal for a propaganda of fervent interest and personal service in the work, as in no better work could we engage."

Commencing tonight and covering different dates during this month, twenty local F. of A. courts in the city will celebrate the anniversaries of their institution. Beginning with the younger, with its fifth natal day, and going up the scale of years in the career of each body, the older celebrates its twenty-fourth birthday, the commemoration fetes being held by the following courts: Lindenwood, No. 356; McKean, 345; Humbert, 339; Huntingdon, 294; Whitney, 292; Wharton, 263; North Philadelphia, 262; Lawton, 232; Bleucher, 203; Haverford, 201; Pride of Nicetown, 201; Macco, 200; Corinthian, 197; North Penn, 162; Garfield, 161; Independence, 134; Jackson, 120; Energetic, 107; Liberty, 94, and Woodland, 88.

Court Americus, No. 57, at American Star Hall, Twenty-first and South streets, Fridays, holds a symposium arranged by the good and welfare committee—Brothers Christie, Cunningham, Owens, Scott, Thompson, Hollingsworth, Lamont, Barclay, Stroup, Johnston, Campbell, Taylor, Morby, Bahle, Stewart and Deputy Miller. One question that is of present interest and the subject of much importance to many was considered and tentative plans submitted analyzed. It was upon the question of the benefit system, embraced in the doctor and druggist plan now in vogue. Due to changes in the domiciles of many city members, occasioned by conditions arising in later years, the present splendid system needs to be made to suit the newer requirements demanded by the removal of many to other localities, suburban or at least beyond time limitations as to the personal services of the physician and apothecary. A member actually confined to his home by disability is not affected, as he receives the benefits complete from the court nearest his home.

But to such as are only slightly indisposed this benefit is not usually procurable, except through his own local branch. To give the latter, be he residing where he will, the full benefits, including doctor and druggist, and to remove the necessity of his personal call upon his own court physician and druggist in minor disabilities, two suggested means were proposed: That he be allowed to remain a financial member of his own court and be placed as a medical member upon the rolls of the court nearest his home, thereby adding no additional cost to him, and the other that he remain fully entitled to all benefits in his own branch and in addition be allowed to become a medical member of the body closest to his residence. This would entail additional dues of four cents a week upon him, but would give him the services of two doctors and two druggists, to cover every contingency that might arise. Other suggestions will be taken up at subsequent sessions, so that a general feasible plan may be evolved for presentation at the grand and supreme conventions.

Court George B. McClellan, No. 143, is holding interesting inspirational meetings. Lecturer Brother D. O'Neill has arranged a plan of exercises that will develop new features of enterprise features each session, eliminating monotony of routine transactions. An increased attendance is attracted by the novelty program, and a further incentive is furnished in a unique trophy to the lucky attendant whose good fortune brings his name from the box wherein are deposited the names of all present, and in the drawing the lucky one is presented the gift without cost to him or the court. The prize for each session is donated by one of the willing worker corps.

The talent comprises the court's own galaxy, augmented by volunteers from other courts, the local aggregation, Brothers Welsh, Blake, O'Brien, Levins, Ryan, Murphy, Decourt, Wolf, P. Kenny, J. O'Neill, Smyth and O'Hara being an entertainment host in themselves. Brother William Kenney at last assemblage delivered an interesting discourse on "Eternal Vigilance Is the Price of Liberty." It was an eloquent plea to stand by the President in these trying days "that demand there be no outbreaks of any hysteria, but require calmness and intellectual sobriety upon the part of every one in our land. We are Americans and we must show it in every act." Pleased delegations were present from Courts Robin Hood, No. 14; Federal, No. 60; Columbia, No. 86; Pride of Clearfield, No. 106; Shamrock, No. 216, and Schuylkill, No. 108.

Court Neshaminy, No. 140, Friday held its monthly "smoketalk" social assembly, P. C. R. McDermott presiding. Deputy P. Fite gave a specially selected fraternal subject short talk. Brothers McNamara, Byrnes, Noonan, Sharp, O'Malley, Nolan, Herbrick, Meyers, Broyine and Grosshopfer, the versatile ten, gave specality acts that elicited commendation. Brother Bernard in his eulogistic tribute to the work done by Brother George and the latter's felicitous reply were gems of oratory that were appreciated by the audience. Brother Rudolph in his masterly exposition of the "Practical Application of Fraternal Principles" pointed out a plan of activities, which he outlined in an activities propaganda, designated by him as the later work for the United Booster's Federation. The subject appealed to all and will be agitated.

The attending representations from Courts Passyunk, No. 34; St. Albans, No. 85; Southwark, No. 61; Woodland, No. 88; Energetic, No. 107; Cohocksink, No. 142; L. J. Smith, No. 241; Franklin, No. 246, and Menno, No. 338, were treated to a surprise feature in the introduction by Brother Brady of a new drill maneuver, in which Brothers Doherty, Ritter, Craig, O'Hara and Brady took the assigned leading parts. So well was the feature rendered that it will be added to the manual and the members rehearsed until they shine brilliant. Some depleted ranks will give a public exhibition of the splendid work. Brother McCaffrey, the veteran activity promoter, who is confined to his home by illness, was remembered in appreciative sentiments of love and the expression conveyed to him by official record.

Court Menno, No. 338, meeting Fridays, Passyunk avenue and Moore street, is creating favorable comment upon its fraternal visitations. Its talented string band is the recipient of much commendation, not alone for its proficient performers, but particularly for the zeal and enthusiasm shown by its members in advancing the social features. The recent visitations to Courts Lincoln, Gideon, Schellhammer, Southwark, Neshaminy, John Hay, Standard and Robin Hood show the demands upon its services and those visited have manifested appreciation and request a return visit as soon as its engagements permit. Brother J. J. Kelley and his colleagues deserve praise for their fraternal co-operation in all that tends to benefit the Order. Brother Berkery, of Court T. B. Reed, voices the sentiment of the membership, in according due praise to this court's fraternal workers.

The returns received by Grand Chief Ranger L. G. Pilot from the state contests between counties arrayed as competing factors in the increase of membership crusades, show the interest is increasing as the time for awards of victory drawing to a close. Washington County, with Bros. Isherwood of No. 78, and Watson, of No. 175, lay claim that Westmoreland County is not in their class, while Bros. Devey, of No. 4, and Davis, of No. 12, report that the outcome of the contest will show the latter county far in the lead. The executive officers are delighted with the merry play of kindly banter and await the final figure that will determine the issue.

The State of Delaware and the District of Columbia are competing to show their appreciation of the honors bestowed upon them as being part of the Grand Court of Pennsylvania, and Brothers Hayes, of Court Brandywine, No. 1, and Crimmins, of Diamond State, No. 4, of the former, and Bro. Fryer and colleagues of Washington, No. 2, of the latter, have matters well in hand in their contest. In Lehigh County Bros. Hoffman, Eagle, Jaeger, Bechtel and aids have their nearby neighbor, Northampton County, on the run, and Bros. McCluskey, Tucker, Hill, Gaffney, Kelley, Alterizio and Pellicciotti are more concerned over the unexpected course the contest has assumed. Bucks County, with Bros. Dalton, of No. 89; Keating, of No. 177, and Geiger, of No. 290, is concerned over the progress its competitor, York County, is making, under the auspices of Bros. Mann, of No. 148; Troutwine, of No. 236; Filakee, of No. 302, and Oberlander, of No. 344. The result is a problem that must be solved. Luzerne County, with Bros. Reese, of No. 2; Lewis, of No. 4; Jones, of No. 51, and Evans, of No. 56, made Lackawanna County get a lively move on, that keeps busy Bros. York, of No. 85; Davis, of No. 50; Longmire, of No. 65; Wilson, of No. 73, and La Nara, of No. 242. Deputies W. R. McCann and John Emmett are, respectively, county supervisors.

Court Summit Hill, No. 565, the latest acquisition to the ranks of Forestry, was instituted on Saturday by Grand Secretary Robert Comber, assisted by Chief Ranger Cosimo Mustacchia, of Court Sons of Columbus, No. 848, of Nesquehoning. The last-named court officiated as the opening court, having previously initiated a large class of candidates who were subsequently transferred to the new court when instituted.

Officers for the balance of the present term were elected and installed as follows: Chief ranger, Paul Grosso; sub chief ranger, Salvatore Ferrare; treasurer, John Ferrare; financial secretary, George E. Dick; recording secretary, Eugenio Da Col; senior woodward, John Gine; junior woodward, Peter Brandone; senior beadle, Joseph Castagnero; junior beadle, Angelo Stivale; trustees, John Casazza, John Mazzero and Peter Delorenzo; physician, G. P. Hill, M. D.; apothecary, Frank Leroy Reid.

The court was organized through the efforts of Brother Cosimo Mustacchia, No. 848, who has been appointed deputy grand chief ranger to look after its interests, and having started under favorable auspices and a bright outlook the success of the new organization seems to be assured.

Child's Plea Reveals Dead Man

ATLANTIC CITY, N. J., March 1.—A policeman who responded to a child's plea "to come see a man in swimming" found the body of Joseph Smith, a bayman, floating in a slip on Gardner's Basin. How he came there is a mystery, but the officials believe he fell overboard. He leaves a family.
