GRAIN BELT WEATHER FORECAST

CHICAGO, March 7.—The weather forecast for thirty-six hours follows:

Illinois—Unsettled tonight, probably rain in north turning to snow, partly cloudy and colder in south.

Missouri—Generally fair tonight and tomorrow, preceded by unsettled weather in northeast, colder tonight, warmer in northwest tomorrow.

Minnesota—Partly cloudy in west and snow in east and central sections tonight, clear and warmer in west tomorrow.

Iowa—Unsettled and colder tonight and probably snow flurries in northwest.

North Dakota, South Dakota and Nebraska—Generally fair tonight and tomorrow, colder tonight, but warmer tomorrow.

Kansas—Fair tonight and tomorrow, colder tomorrow.

CHICAGO, March 7.—Selling by longs and others on an enormous scale made the wheat market very weak today, following strength in the initial trading, when May got to within 3¼c of the season's high mark, established on November 13 last. The initial strength was due to the running for cover of a large speculative short interest, mainly May. The demand was supplied quickly.

Some of the biggest commission houses were conspicuous on the selling side, and a great amount was thrown over by eleventh-hour bulls. A misreading of a Berlin wireless message as to the amount of tonnage destroyed by submarines caused uneasiness for a time. There was a rally from the bottom on reports from Washington that the armed merchant ship question would be settled soon.

May, after touching $1.82, dropped to $1.87, closing at $1.87½ to $1.87¾, against $1.90⅝ at the end yesterday. July after having reached $1.60, fell to $1.57, ending at $1.57½ to $1.57⅝, against $1.59⅞, yesterday's last price. September's high was $1.47⅝, from which it receded to $1.45¼, finishing at $1.45⅝, compared with $1.46½, the final quotation of yesterday.

An immense quantity of long corn was put on sale, causing a sharp break in prices. The market ended at the bottom.

There was extensive selling of oats, but it ended a little above the lowest on covering.

COTTON BELT WEATHER CONDITIONS

NEW YORK, March 7.—The following temperatures were recorded in the cotton belt this morning: Knoxville, 30; Abilene and Raleigh, 34; Oklahoma, 36; Asheville, Atlanta and Wilmington, 38; Chattanooga, 40; Forth Smith and Macon, 42; Montgomery and Nashville, 44; Birmingham, 46; San Antonio, Del Rio, Memphis, Little Rock, Meridian, Thomasville and Savannah, 50; Mobile, 52; Pensacola and Charleston, 54; Vicksburg, 56; New Orleans, 58; Corpus Christi, 60; Jacksonville, 62, and Galveston and Tampa, 64.

There was .04 inch of precipitation at Fort Smith, .26 inch at Memphis, .42 inch at Little Rock.

NEW YORK, March 7.—Advances of 12 to 17 points were recorded at the opening of the cotton market, influenced by favorable cables, and the tone was steady. However, it turned easier during the middle of the morning on reports that a large amount of tonnage had been sunk by German submarines since the first of March. A news item from Berlin, reporting that submarines returning to home ports between March 1 and March 3 reported the sinking of 204,000 tons, seemed to be read to the effect that such a large amount had actually been sent to the bottom during the first three days of March. The reports turned the attention of the trade from the immediate spot situation to the difficulties of ocean shipping and there was a rush of liquidation, which sent the market about 11 to 20 points net lower, or some 30 to 35 points under the high point of the morning.

A rereading of the Berlin press dispatches seemed to indicate that sinkings reported referred to losses during February and the market steadied up during the middle of the day. May contracts, which had eased off to 17.40c, rallied to 17.81c, and late months showed similar gains. The tone, however, remained rather nervous and unsettled early in the noon hour, and bulges were barely maintained.

G. J. HAVEN, OF CAMDEN, DIES

Former Philadelphia Mirror Manufacturer and Prohibitionist Pneumonia Victim

George J. Haven, a pioneer prohibitionist of Camden County and for many years in business in Philadelphia, died today at his home, 125 Linden avenue, Collingswood, after two weeks' illness with pneumonia. He was seventy years old.

Mr. Haven was active in the prohibition movement for forty years. He was once a candidate for Governor of New Jersey and at other times for State Senator and other offices on the Prohibition ticket.

For the last four years he has been retired from his business of plate glass mirror manufacture in Philadelphia. He was an elder of the Collingswood Presbyterian Church and a trustee of the West Jersey Presbytery.

His widow and four children survive. Clarence, who is assistant treasurer of the West Jersey Trust Company, Camden; Miss Anna P. Haven, Charles Haven and Mrs. Florence W. Davidson.

Funeral services will be held Saturday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Interment will be in Arlington Cemetery.

Marcus Johnson Dead

Marcus Johnson, chief clerk to the general auditor at the offices of the Lehigh Valley Railroad Company in the Bourse Building, died at noon today at his home in Norristown. He was suffering from brain fever which developed from grip, with which he was stricken one week ago. He was forty-five years old and is survived by his widow.
