Committee Bushes Work of Taking a Complete Military Census

ATLANTIC CITY, April 11.

Atlantic City suffragists are mobilizing their resources to render efficient services to the State. To that end printed lists naming a number of occupations are being sent out to women, asking them to designate what they can do best to help in time of need. Thirty-eight kinds of work are listed, including truck farming, poultry raising, clerical work, cooking, sewing, knitting, reading, care of children, translators of languages, telegraph, telephone and wireless operators, photographers, nurses and physicians. The Atlantic City Association is working in conjunction with the Red Cross and the Emergency Aid.

The local chapter of the Red Cross has been reorganized on a war basis. The officers are chairman, Mayor Harry Bacharach; executive chairman, Dr. Gurney Williams, formerly of Philadelphia; secretary, Miss Elizabeth White, daughter of Judge John J. White; treasurer, Brinkle Gummey; vice chairman, Hon. Walter E. Edge; the Rev. Charles Martin Niles, Mrs. J. White and the Rev. Henry Fisher. Walter J. Busby heads the executive committee. Up to the present time no cottage has been offered for permanent headquarters for the Red Cross. As soon as school is over, the school buildings throughout the city will be used as branch workrooms. More than 4000 members are now enrolled. Visitors are interested in the work that is being done and give a great deal of time in aiding with the work.

Citizens are heartily co-operating with the census committee named by Mayor Bacharach to list men of military age and also all motorboats, automobiles, motorcycles, motor trucks and wireless plants. A home guard will be formed under the direction of Director of Public Safety Sooy, who has had military training, being formerly an officer of a company in the Sixth Regiment. Ventor City also has a home guard, many of whom are Philadelphia cottagers. Mayor Schimp, of Ventor, is a graduate of a military school and has had four years of service. He attended the camp at Plattsburg last summer, and has applied for a commission in the Officers' Reserve Corps.

Commodore Allen K. White, of the Atlantic City Yacht Club, expects the fifteen boats turned over by the club to the Navy Department to be inspected on Saturday. Should the officials request it, Commodore White will name a committee from the yacht club to recruit crews to man the yachts, and predicts that the full complement of men desired will be made up in less than a week. The commodore himself is an able yachtsman. His boat, Sand Burr, held the world's hydroplane championship when this class of boats was first introduced. During the championship race Commodore White was at the helm.

Lord and Lady Aberdeen concluded a very successful sale of Irish lace at the Marlborough-Blenheim yesterday. Assisting them were several Philadelphians: Mrs. R. Tait McKenzie, Mrs. Robert Daniels, Miss Marie E. Keating, the Misses Burchenan, Miss Donaldson, Mrs. Brinton Lucas and Mrs. John Muckle. This was the first visit of these titled folks, and they are so delighted with their reception here that they are planning to come again in June.

Mrs. John Newbold Wilkins, Jr., wore a London smoke tailored suit with a moleskin stole and a turban of the same dull hue.

Mrs. Samuel P. Huhn wore with her close-fitting black turban a chenile, cobweb veil and topped her frock with a broadtail coat.

Mrs. Charles Turner prepared in a mixed green sport suit with a green sailor.

Miss Alice Brady chose a smart rig consisting of a white broadcloth skirt, dark blue coat and a blue tailored hat. She carried a mannish cane with curved handle.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Watson entertained at luncheon at the Brighton for Mr. and Mrs. Frank J. Watson. Joseph S. Lowrey joined his father, W. A. Lowrey. Mrs. Robert Steel is here accompanied by Mrs. Ada Hayward.

Mrs. E. S. Lawrence has joined her mother, Mrs. W. D. Moore.

Miss Margaret Smith entertained at luncheon at Haddon Hall for Mrs. G. H. Clamer.

Philadelphians who are recent arrivals include Miss Mary L. Bachman, Richard Buchman, Mrs. George C. Thomas, Jr., Dr. and Mrs. R. Tait McKenzie, Mrs. Henry A. Rogers, Mr. and Mrs. D. Levis Moore, Miss Julia A. Brill, Mrs. A. J. Sloan, Horace Brock, Mrs. Wharton Sinkler and Samuel Humphreys.
