The Resolutions adopted will appear in next weeks issue.

Public Debt Statement

The public debt statement for the month of May, issued from the Treasury Department recently, shows a decreasa of debt for that month of $8,525,282 50, which (says the Washington Republican), taken in connection with the light receipts from customs, and the heavy payments made by the Department on account of public works and pensions, is certainly a source of gratification not only to the officials of the Government, but to the people at large, who are particularly interested in the reduction of the public debt. The receipts from internal revenue sources were much larger than during many previous months, which aided largely in the reduction of the debt.

The total reduction of the public debt from March 1, 1869, down to date is $375,499,886 55, and the annual saving to the people in the matter of interest, consequent upon the reduction, is $25,249,716.

The country certainly has cause for rejoicing at the wisdom displayed by the President in selecting officers to preside over the finance and revenue, as well as all other departments of the Government.

Prof. Wise's Experiment.

The proposed attempt of Prof. John Wise to cross the Atlantic in a balloon has the appearance of a foolhardy adventure, and it is probable that most men will entertain a conviction that even if Mr. Wise does not lose his life while making the effort, the achievement of his design will produce no practical results of value. It is not a fact, however, that the aeronaut is a foolishly reckless man. He has devoted his life to the study of the science of balloon navigation, and his mature judgment is, that under favorable conditions a very long voyage through the air may be made as safely as a very short one. He has already made one trip of twelve hundred miles with a balloon which was but poorly prepared for such an experiment, and he is confident that with proper apparatus he may easily travel twice or thrice the distance. As for the danger of tumbling to the earth from a great height, he holds that there is a smaller chance of injury to the aeronaut than a passenger on a railroad train or to a voyager upon an ocean steamer, and in proof of this he declares that he has several times exploded his balloon purposely when at an altitude of one or two miles. In every case he has escaped injury, the resistance offered by the atmosphere to the vast area of the torn canvas being sufficient to make the decend very gradual. If Mr. Wise actually does find a direct easterly current in the upper atmosphere there is little reason to doubt that he will reach Europe safely and speedily. The fact of the existence of such current remains, we believe, to be proved, and the only real cause for apprehension is the possibility that the balloon may be swept into the artic regions. But if the current does perpetually pour toward the east, and a voyage to England may thereby be made in less than three days, assuredly a successful trip by Mr. Wise will be the first of many thousands, and it may prepare the way for the establishment of regular aerial communication with the old world. Whether such a method of travel will ever be adopted by the people may be doubted. The business will probably be left to professional aeronauts, but there is no reason why, if men are willing to accept what seem to be the risks of such transportation, balloons may not be used with great profit for the swift despatch of mails and light merchandise.

Sound Doctrine from a Rebel.

Mr. Stephens on Grant's Louisiana Proclamation.

Atlanta Sun, May 21)

Since sending to the press our article entitled: "Mr. Stephens and his assailants once more," we have seen for the first time the proclamation of General Grant in relation to the state of things in Louisiana, which was published in the Sun of Friday last. We have also seen his proclamation headed in one of our Democratic exchanges with these epithets: "A Shame and Disgrace to the Country—Grant Sustains the Usurpers with the Army and Navy."

Now, as germane to what we said in the article referred to, we deem it proper in this connection to say that we do not agree with our cotemporary, or any other cotemporaries who thus characterize this paper, and thus denounce this act of the President. In this, as in all matters, we are for dealing justly by General Grant. We are not for condemning him or any other man without a hearing. He has not proclaimed his intention to sustain usurpers of any class, but to sustain the judicial decision of the courts, and with these to sustain those authorities in the State government who have been duly declared to be clothed with rightful authority therein by the State courts—inferior as well as supreme. This is his statement of the case.

We have not seen the decisions to which he refers. Neither have we any disposition or inclination to prejudice the case, and just as little to pronounce without evidence who are the usurpers in Louisiana. Most assuredly Gen. Grant cannot be justly charged with usurpation in executing the mandates of the courts, either Federal or State, under the acts of Congress of 1805.

We, therefore, repeat what we said last December in Atlanta: "If Gen. Grant does nothing worse than execute the mandates of the courts, State or Federal, we shall have no quarrel with him." A. H. S.

Capture of Captain Jack and the Remainder of his Band.

Applegate's House, Clear Lake, California, June 1—3:30 P. M.—A series of prolonged yells and cheers aroused this camp from a pleasant siesta a half hour after the departure of my last courier. Generals Davis and Wheaton and other officers, and the men rushed from houses and tents to find the cause of the uproar. "Captain Jack captured!" shouted a sturdy sergeant. Again the valley echoed with cheers and yells. The mounted command was Perry's. He had returned from a scout of twenty-three hours. Three miles above the mouth of Willow creek, the Warm Spring scouts struck the trail, and after a brief search the Modocs were discovered. Col. Perry surrounded the Indian retreat, and his men were bound to fight. Suddenly a Modoc shot out from the rocks with a white flag. He met a warm spring Indian, and said Jack wanted to surrender. Three scouts were sent to meet Jack. He came out cautiously, glanced about him a moment, and then as if giving up all hope, came forward and held out his hand to his visitors. Then two of his warriors, five squaws and seven children darted forth and joined him in the surrender.

Captain Jack is about forty years old, five feet eight inches high and compactly built. He has a large and well formed face, full of individuality; although dressed in old clothes, he looks every inch a chief.

June 2—2.00 p. m.—The captives and captured remained at Applegate's ranche. Before night Captain Jack and Schonchin were ironed together and placed with the other warriors in a small building adjoining Applegate's house, under guard. Neither Jack nor Schonchin spoke a word. Not a muscle of Jack's face moved. Scarfaced Charley protested against the indignity, in behalf of his fellow captives, and said that none of them intended to escape, even if the opportunity offered. He obtained but little satisfaction, and retired in disgust. The usual Sunday evening services of the Warm Spring Indians were dispensed with, and instead they held a glorious war dance until midnight. They leaped and howled by the fire, and indulged in other frantic demonstrations of delight.

All the military force of the expedition will be united at this point. The card of Gen. Canby's hat was found in Jack's satchel. Col. Green's capture was made in Oregon, and Col. Perry's in California.

THE GREAT SOUTH AMERICAN JURUBEBA BLOOD PURIFIER. Is the most powerful cleanser, strengthener and renovator of Glandular obstructions known to Materia Medica. It is specially adapted to constitutions "worn down" and debilitated by the warm weather of spring and summer when the blood is not in active circulation, consequently gather impurities from sluggishness and imperfect action of the secretive organs, and is manifested by tumors, Eruptions, Blotches, Boils, pustules, Sycosis, &c. &c. When weary and languid from overwork and dullness, drowsiness and inertia take the place of energy and vigor, the system needs a Tonic to build up and help the vital forces to regain their recuperative power. In the heat of summer, frequently the Liver and Spleen do not properly perform their functions; the liver and urinary organs are inactive, poisoning weakness of the stomach and late-times and a predisposition to billious derangement. DR. WELLES' EXTRACT OF JURUBEBA Is prepared directly from the South American plant, and is peculiarly suited to all those diseases which will change the vitiated blood, strengthen the life giving powers, and remove all obstructions from Impaired and enfeebled Organs. It should be freely taken, as Jurubeba is pronounced by medical writers the most efficient Purifier, Tonic and Deobstruent known in the whole range of medical plants. JOHN Q.
