Putting away Potatoes.

Every method has been tried by farmers to store and preserve their potatoes through the winter and we may say until potatoes come again. It is the most valuable of all vegetables, though here and there we find a person and a writer who undertakes to tell us of its unwholesomeness. It is universally consumed in all civilized countries, as where it cannot be grown it is imported, which can be done long distances without injury when ventilation is attended to.

In storing potatoes several methods are adopted, yet they are all practically the same, the object being to protect them against freezing, whether buried in pits or stored in cellars. The first consideration is to keep them in perfect darkness; the next is the bins should not be too deep—not over three feet—to produce warmth and cause them to sprout. When stored in the field, straight trenches are dug, say twenty feet in length and four or five wide, which are filled to the depth of three feet with potatoes, then well covered with straw, top of which put eighteen or twenty inches of earth. In a pit twenty feet long there should be about three gas escapes or ventilating openings, which should be plugged with straw and covered with a board set at an angle to turn the rain. It in cellars, barn or otherwise, the bins should be covered with rugs, old carpetings or straw. Those intended to be kept for late spring sales should be frequently examined and all sprouts removed; for as soon as a potato begins to sprout it loses its solidity, dryness and quality.—Germantown Telegraph.

Harvesting Corn.

This is the month for harvesting the corn crop, or rather for cutting off the corn and shocking it to remain there until the grain hardens and the fodder becomes dry. There is a great deal in knowing how to do this in the best manner. Sometimes the size of the shocks are too large, tending to produce mould and thus injuring both the grain and the fodder. Sometimes they are too small, giving too much surface exposed to the rain and causing increased damage to the fodder from the weather. A moderate-sized shock is the best.

We have long noticed and commented on the fact, that much corn-fodder, after the ears are husked, is allowed to stand in the field, in a very exposed condition until late in November, thus allowing the weather to destroy a large proportion of its value as feed for cattle, which eat the leaves in preference to hay, and would most of the stalk if cut into inch pieces and steamed. There is no reason why the fodder should not all be stocked or housed in October. By that time the wheat has been sown and the potatoes dug, and there is no work of hurry to interfere with the proper securing of the corn-fodder. For horses corn leaves are regarded as particularly nutritious, and to the race-horses especially are they valuable.—Germantown Telegraph.

Rye in Corn.

Mr. W. P. Belknap, of Goldfield, Iowa, makes a good suggestion relating to sowing rye in corn before the last plowing. We have tried the plan and indorsed Mr. Belknap's idea: "If farmers will sow one half bushel of winter rye to the acre in their corn fields and plow it in the last time, it will not only have a tendency to choke out weeds that start up afterward, but there will be no danger of dry murrain among cattle from eating too freely of dry stalks, as the rye will remain green through the winter, and will be eaten by stock in preference to corn fodder. It makes a desirable food for all kinds of stock, and aids materially in the quality and quantity of milk produced, besides proving a saving of from one to two tons of hay for every acre that is sown—and last, but not least, it afterwards affords a green crop to plow under in the spring, which will renew and enrich the land.

Water for Cows.—Cows will quickly fall off in their milk unless they have plenty of clean water within convenient reach. They will travel long distances for water, either in hot or cold weather. If left too long without water, until they become feverish they will drink too much, and this going from one extreme to the other will affect unfavorably the health of the cow and causes a decrease of milk, and any unnecessary exertion that they are obliged to make to procure food or drink will divert just so much of their energy from milk production.

The fellow who dropped into a shop containing a tack has been uneasy ever since, and now sits down on the installment plan.

Manhood: How Lost, How Restored!

Just published, a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical cure (without medicine) of SPERMATORRHŒA or Seminal Weakness, Involuntary Seminal Losses, IMPOTENCY, Mentle and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc.; also, CONSUMPTION, EPILEPSY and Fits, induced by self-indulgence or sexual extravagance, &c.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only six cents.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain, and effectual, by means of which every sufferer can cure himself cheaply, privately, and RADICALLY.

This Lecture will prove a boon to thousands and thousands.

Sent under seal, in a plain envelope, to any adress, post-paid, on receipt of six cents or two postage stamps.

YOU WILL BE SORRY
If you replace that old Pump with a new one and do not first carefully examine the Buckeye Force Pump.
The Buckeye is the very latest improvement in Pumps. It is constructed with air-chambers which make it very easy to operate. Hose can be attached to the Buckeye Pump, and water can be thrown upon any building in case of fire. You can water your Garden and Yard, Wash Windows, Wash Buggies, and have a FIRE ENGINE
ever ready on your own premises at no more cost than an ordinary pump. It Cannot Freeze
in cold weather. Durable beyond a doubt. The very pump for deep wells. The working parts are leather sections and valves within a porcelain lined chamber. Nothing to decay about it. The Iron Turbine Wind Engine is also a great improvement in Wind Engines. Call and see these pumps in operation, or for particulars address
