How Horses Become Blind.

One of the worst eye traps known is the abominable hay rack, where the horse has to reach up and pull the hay down, filling his mane, forehead, and, worst of all, his eyes with hay seed, chaff or whatever may be mixed with the provender. These traps are met with nearly everywhere throughout the land. These throw the horse in the most unnatural position for feeding, as the natural position is to reach down and pull up, not to reach up and pull down, as these hay racks make them do. In reaching up to eat it exposes the forehead, face and eyes to seed, chaff and dirt, which, getting on the head once, is liable to get in the eyes at any time. We will speak now of the abuse that horsemen resort to in controlling a horse. The worst of all is in striking him over the head with a leather strap, your fist, a club or whip. Shame on a man that would dare to club over the noblest of creation next to man! But I am sorry to say we find a great many so-called horsemen that take a delight in sitting on their wagon seat and trying to see how close they can send the point of a cracker to the horse's ear, or strike some particular spot on the back of the head, neck or shoulders. But my word for it, a man who will practice this, comes to grief sooner or later. Instinct tells the horse to be careful of his head, and especially of his eyes, for when they are gone that ends his seeing, as they can never be restored or new ones put in, as we all know. Therefore, never strike a horse about the head. The number of horses' eyes hurt by slipping the collar over the head would surprise us all if known. A horse's head, with a good eye setting out boldly on a square face, is a hard thing to slip a stiff collar over without rubbing and bruising the eye. Next, we have the stable to contend with, and it produces more weak eyes than any other one thing we know of. The gases arising from the body are ruinous to the eyes. Let a man stand over a pile of warm decomposing manure and see how quickly it affects the eyes. But he thinks nothing about the horse in his closely-confined stall with no ventilation neither above or below to carry away this poison. Set your stables up from the ground, give ventilation underneath so as to confine this gas and compel it to rise through the cracks in the floor. Also, put good ventilation high above the horse's head to cause a current of air to carry off this poison as it generates. Always give the horse plenty of light, but not through a small hole; make it large so as not to condense the rays as they come through a small opening. Never whitewash a stall, as white is very bad on the eyes. Take a sheet of white paper and hold it before your eyes a short time and see its effects; but you can turn your head and look away from it while the horse cannot, as he is tied up with a white sheet all round him. Never whitewash a stall, but always use blue, as it well never hurt the eyes.

Ants, Roaches and Bedbugs.

The Scientific American says: "To thoroughly rid a house of red and black ants, cockroaches, spiders, bedbugs, and all the crawling pests which infest our homes, take two pounds of alum and dissolve it in three or four quarts of water. Let it stand on the fire till the alum disappears, then apply it with a brush while nearly boiling hot, to every joint and crevice in your closets, bedsteads, pantry shelves, and the like. Brush the crevices, in the floor of the skirting or mop boards, if you expect they will harbor vermin. Cock-roaches will flee the point which has been washed in cool alum water. If, in white-washing a ceiling, plenty of alum is added to the lime, it will serve to keep insects at a distance."

The Wheat Weevil.

This little pest is not, as many suppose, brought in from the field, but works upon the grain after it is stored. In its perfect state it is a little beetle, one-eighth of an inch long, and has great powers of multiplication—a single beetle is said to produce 6,000 eggs. The eggs are deposited on the housed grain, and, soon hatched, the grub eats at once into the interior of the grain, and in time leaves only an empty hull. Fumigating the granary with sulphur is a remedy; the sprinkling of air-slacked lime has been recommended. If the granary is badly infested, it is better to change the place for a year or two, and starve them out.

The skin of a boiled egg is the most efficacious remedy that can be applied to a boil. Peel it carefully, wet and apply to the part affected. It will draw off the matter and relieve the soreness in a few hours.

Manhood: How Lost, How Restored!

Just published, a new edition of Dr. Culverwell's Celebrated Essay on the radical cure (without medicine) of SPERMATORRHŒA or Seminal Weakness, Involuntary Seminal Losses, IMPOTENCY, Mental and Physical Incapacity, Impediments to Marriage, etc.; also, CONSUMPTION, EPILEPSY and FITS, induced by self-indulgence or sexual extravagance, &c.

Price, in a sealed envelope, only six cents.

The celebrated author, in this admirable Essay, clearly demonstrates, from a thirty years' successful practice, that the alarming consequences of self abuse may be radically cured without the dangerous use of internal medicine or the application of the knife; pointing out a mode of cure at once simple, certain, and effectual, by means of which every sufferer can cure himself cheaply, privately, and RADICALLY.

This Lecture will prove a boon to thousands and thousands.

Sent under seal, in a plain envelope, to any address, post paid, on receipt of six cents or two postage stamps.

YOU WILL BE SORRY

If you replace that old Pump with a new one and do not first carefully examine the

Buckeye Force Pump,

The Buckeye is the very fastest improvement in Pumps. It is constructed with air-chambers which make it very easy to operate. Hose can be attached to the Buckeye Pump, and water can be thrown upon any building in case of fire. You can water your Garden and Yard, Wash Windows, Wash Buggies, and have a

FIRE ENGINE

over ready on your own premises at no more cost than an ordinary pump. It in cold weather. Durable beyond a doubt. The very pump for deep wells. The working parts are leather cushions and valves within a porcelain lined chamber. Nothing to decay about it. The

Cannot Freeze

Iron Turbine Wind Engine

is also a great improvement in Wind Engines. Call and see these pumps in operation, or for particulars address W. C. BRATTON, Lewisburg, Union Co., Pa.
