Miscellaneous.

KANSAS.

Correspondence of the N. Y. Tribune.

LEAVENWORTH CITY, Oct. 15, 1855.

Gov. Shannon, like my uncle Toby, is carrying on the siege of Slavery at Wyandott, and if he has some Widow Wadman to help out the play, he may amuse himself and "the rest of mankind" for some time to come.—It is said that he is writing a thanksgiving proclamation, calling upon the sovereign squatters to convene on a specified day in their respective places of worship, and render thanks to the ruler of the universe for all the blessings of squatter sovereignty and the Missouri laws extended over them. It will be a literary curiosity, and serve to quiet all anarchy and prevent any bloodshed in future between Abolitionists and border ruffians.—Why is it that so much bad liquor is sold here to the United States troops and others from Missouri under a license from the mayor and common council when ther exists a law of Congress prohibiting the sale of all liquors on Indian lands, and making it a felony, punishable by imprisonment! Why does not Commissioner Manypenny see to this?—And why does not the secretary of War issue his orders to the military comandant at Fort Leavenworth to put a stop to the troops coming down here on government horses at full gallop merely to get drunk and race back through our streets to the great danger of life and limb? Should he not require the chaplain to preach against intemperance and sabbath breaking on bad liquor, and practice it too, beyond military limits? This Squatter Sovereignty, so much prated about by Douglas and his disciples, is all a farce and a fiction. We are governed by more distant and higher powers than we can reach. The General government appoints a governor over us, and marshals to extend the laws of Missouri over us, all by Squatter Sovereignty. The Legislature of Missouri (according to Gov. Shannon) has appointed every officer in the Territory, so that the sovereign squatters have not the poor privilege of voting for a single officer, not even a constable; and by the act of the legislature, I am told, they dare not utter their sentiments, under pain of punishment in the State prison. Are we not serfs, governed by more than Russian barbarity?—and instead of sovereignty, are we not the most servile and subservient people in the world? "Squatter Sovereignty!" Alas! it is all a cant with hypocritical demagogues like Douglas. An upright citizen is taken from his frantic wife by a gang of these higher-law-ruffians, tarred and feathered, and ridden on a rail through Weston, where he is sold at public auction to a negro, his life is threatened unless he should sign a paper promising to leave forever the home of his choice; and in this gang there were at least two lawyers and the clerk of the U. S. District court for the first judicial district of Kansas; and for this outrage the United States court, connected with it by its silence since, and by the participation in this outrage by two members of the bar and its own clerk, sanctions this outrage and breach of the peace. Strange as it may seem, Judge Lecompte retains Boyle, the clerk, in office. It is said he is a "near relation" of the learned judge. Alas! for our judiciary! How would poor, "Master Robert Shallow, Esquire," weep over his compeer and brother judge, could he arise, on the Eastern Shore of Maryland, from the grave to which he has been so long consigned, or look down from the blessed abode to which he has been exalted for his judicial learning. Alas! for Master Shallow and Squatter Sovereignty.

Suggestions for the Farmers.

FRIEND EDITOR:—With your permission, I will offer a few more suggestions.

PLOWING.—In plowing, see that the work is well done. Let the furrow slice be fairly turned that the decomposable matter contained in the roots, may be perfectly inhumed, and secured from the wasting effects of the air. This is very important. If you apply dressing before breaking up too much care cannot be exercised in accomplishing this work, as upon its efficiency will depend, in a great measure, the success of the subsequent crop. No baulks should be passed over; what the plow share leaves unturned, should be turned with the hoe, or hand. Many plows perform this work imperfectly. In the first place they do not detach the furrow slice at the proper angle, and then instead of fairly inverting it, they either stand it on the edge, or break it into pieces. Implements of this character are worse than worthless.—When land is poorly plowed, the after cultivation is always perplexing, and as a natural consequence, is poorly performed. It is therefore much better to expend money for a good plow—one that will perform its work in a satisfactory manner than to use the imperfect one, as it will entail obstacles which it will be found no way easy to overcome.

HARROWING.—In harrowing, it is best to pass over the piece lengthwise of the furrows the first time, then diagonally, and lastly across the piece. Always roll the furrows in the first place: this will press down the furrow slice, and give greater efficiency to the action of the harrow by preventing the seeds from being displaced by the teeth.—Harrows of different sizes, and different degrees of fineness, should alway be used when fine tilth is a desirable object. When one harrow alone is used, much of the strength of the team, as well as labor actually expended, is unavoidably lost.

MANURING.—Never scant your crops.—Plant no more land than you can manure well. It is better to have half an acre of soil well managed, than ten acres imperfectly worked and manured. It requires no more labor to manage one acre of land that will produce fifty bushels of corn, than one that produces but twenty. It is acknowledged to be poor policy to half feed our domestic animals, and why should it not be equally as absurd and injudicious to half starve our corn and other crops, which we rely upon to feed us.

WOOD.—For fuel, wood should be cut and housed the year previous to its being used. Not only can the work be much more economically performed by forestalling, or anticipating the period of its actual want, but the fuel will acquire increased value by seasoning under cover. It will be more solid, and produce more heat.

WOOD ASHES.—Every bushel of wood ashes applied to the corn crop, is worth one dollar. This has been repeatedly tested by the results of experiments accurately conducted. On light soils, the action of ashes is highly energetic and salutary; they exert a warming and invigorating influence, and promote the rapid development of almost every species of vegetable.

CHAFFIG HAY, &c.—Long feed should never be fed to domestic animals. By chaffing, a very considerable saving may be effected, even of the best and most sapid materials. By using an improved chaffer in the preparation of long fodder, and a rasping machine for roots, from one fourth to one third of the food ordinarily required to winter a stock of animals, may easily be economised. With the first of these implements, much refuse matter may be advantageously worked up, and by means of the latter, provided you have a supply of beets, turnips, carrots, or other roots, it may be rendered highly palatable to almost all animals. These machines cannot be too highly recommended, and will be found to supply a desideratum on every farm. CHELTENHAM.

Even-Handed Justice.

Gilbert Gurney was invited by his friend, the portly sheriff, to visit Old Bailey Court and see the process of the trial and conviction of offenders in that ancient and British tribunal, and afterward to dine with the judges and some of the senior members of the bar, at the sheriff's table.

The sheriff secured his guest a good seat and the court opened with all the formality of big wigs and gowns.

The first prisoner placed at the bar was a poor girl charged with stealing. There was no evidence against her, her good character was abundantly manifest, and so the judge charged the jury, notwithstanding which they found her guilty. The next was the case of a pickpocket taken in the very act, and the crime was proven by two or three eye-witnesses. The judge charged the jury in substance that the case was too clear to need any remarks from him, and the jury thereupon acquitted the prisoner.

Gilbert was astonished, as well he might be, and none the less at some other cases which he saw tried and decided that day; while in some he could not deny that the verdicts were manifestly just and right. But these strange cases rather bothered him, and after the court adjourned, and while they were on the way to dinner, he ventured to ask of his fat friend an explanation of what he considered horrible injustice. The portly functionary paused and looked with profound contempt on his guest. He could not stand an insinuation against his court.

"Sir," said he drawing himself up and swelling a half size larger, "Sir, Old Bailey juries have had a great deal of experience in these matters and their wisdom has hit upon this plan: They always find the first prisoner guilty, the second not guilty, the third guilty, and so on, alternating with each trial through the day, and, Mr. Gurney' (here the sheriff grew a quarter size larger still,) 'I fancy that justice is about as evenly administered in the Old Bailey Court as in any court in this kingdom!'

☞ A Great Inner Sea is said to have been discovered in equatorial Africa. Dr. Rebmann one of the travellers with whose persevering labors in that remote region the newspaper public have become intimately acquainted. He has sent to Europe a small map, on which sea he occupies the vast space between the equator and 10 degrees of south latitude, and between 23 degrees and nearly 30 degrees longitude east from Greenwich, having at its southeastern extremity Lake Nyassa attached to it like a tail-piece. Mr. Agustus Petermann, in a letter to the London Athenaum respecting the discovery—says:

"This immense body of water, with an area about twice as large as the Black Sea (with the Sea of Azoff,) is inscribed with the name of Ukerowe or Inner Sea of Uniamezi, its narrow elongated southeastern end bearing that of Lake Nyassa; and the discovery is said, in the accompanying letters, to have been arrived at by the concurrent testimony of various natives dwelling on or close to the Lake, both on its eastern as well as on its western shores——with whom the missionaries came in contact. Some of these natives that came down to trade on the coast at Tanga, in particular, gave a clear account of it, while at other points of the coast, from Tanga southwards for six degrees of latitude, corroborative information was obtained."

AN UNFORTUNATE HABIT.—Some persons are in the habit of dwelling upon and greatly magnifying every little injury they recieve at the hands of others. They thus render themselves very disagreeable to those into whose ears they are continually pouring their complaints; and at the same time greatly injure themselves in the estimation of such, whilst they are contributing very much to their own personal misery. How much better would it be were such persons to bury their little troubles, or at least to keep them entirely out of sight! It is to be presumed that they do not sufficiently reflect upon the true nature of their conduct; or else they would certainly be more careful to avoid it than they are. Jamieson forcibly exposes the great folly of such conduct by the folowing illustration.

"A man strikes me with a sword and inflicts a wound. Suppose, instead of binding up the wound, I am showing it to everybody, and after it has been bound up I am taking off the bandage continually and examining the depth of the wound, and make it fester till my limb becomes greatly inflamed and my general health is materially affected; is there a person in the world who would not call me a fool? Now such a fool is he who, by dwelling upon little injuries, or insults, or provocations, causes them to agitate or inflame his mind. How much better were it to put a bandage over the wound and never look at it again.—German Reformed Messenger.

TALKERS.—Undoubtedly the highest personal accomplishment in the world is to be a good talker. With this charm alone John Wilkes, though a prodigy of personal ugliness was the most attractive man of his time. "It takes me," he said to Lord Sandwich, "just fifteen minutes to take my face off."—It was this power, and not his poems, nor his dictionary, nor his heavy letters from the Hebrides, that made Dr. Johnson the autocrat of his day among men of culture, and will keep his memory green while the English language remains to prove that, in spite of his boorishness and insolence, and absurd prejudices, he was the most charming talker the word has seen. It was this power, more than all others, that made the friends of Coleridge forget that he was deficient in manly honor (the most fatal of defects,) that he was a slave to one of the worst vices, and won for him not merely the admiration, but the love and esteem of all who listened to his wonderful utterances. In our own country there have not been as yet many notable conversationists. We are a nation of speech makers, but good talkers are exceedingly rare. We talk enough (God knows,) but good talkers require more culture, more leisure, more repose, than we shall know for many years to come.

☞ Three boys happening one summer's day to be caught out in a violent thunder storm, sought refuge under a tree, where they had been but a short time when a tree but a short distance from the one they were under was struck by lightning and shivered to atoms. One of the boys, with seriousness and anxiety plainly depicted in his countenance, says to the others: "Bill, can you pray?" "No." "Pete, can you pray?" "No." "Nor I either, but by hokey, something must be done."

☞ A reverend gentleman in New York, a few Sabbaths since, seeing a poor woman tottering up one of the aisles of his church, waiting in vain for some one to offer her a seat, paused in his sermon, decended from the pulpit, showed her into his own pew, and quietly returned to his desk again

The Greatest Improvement of the Age!—C. H. Williams' Double-Acting Ball Valve Force and Lift Pumps—

AN improvement above all other pumps or machines for lifting, throwing, and carrying water, combining both a Pump and a Fire Engine. This Pump, patented in February, 1854, is the whole of it metallic. No bolts or screws about it to rust, consequently it will last a man's life time. It can be used in every variety of form—can draw water from any situation, and carry it to any part of a building. It is superior to all other Pumps for Distilleries, Paper Mills, Tanneries, Brick Yards, Iron Works and Manufacturing establishments of all kinds.

All orders must be addressed to ADDISON DIMMICK, Lodersville, Pa., who has the sole right for Susquehanna county.

AYER'S PILLS.

A NEW and singularly successful remedy for the cure of all Billious diseases—Costiveness, Indigestion, Jaundice, Dropsy, Rheumatism, Fevers, Humors, Gout, Nervousness, Irritability, Inflammations, Headache, Pains in the Breast, Side, Back and Limbs, Female Complaints, &c. &c. Indeed, very few are the diseases in which a Purgative Medicine is not more or less required, and much sickness and suffering might be prevented, if a harmless but effectual cathartic were more freely used. No person can feel well while a costive habit of body prevails; besides, it soon generates serious and often fatal diseases, which might have been avoided by the timely and judicious use of a good purgative. This is alike true of Colds, Feverish symptoms, and Billious derangements. They all tend to become or produce the deep seated and formidable distempers which load the hearses all over the land. Hence a reliable family physic is of the first importance to the public health, and this pill has been perfected with consummate skill to meet that demand. An extensive trial of its virtues by Physicians, Professors, and Patients, has shown results surpassing any thing hitherto known of any medicine. Cures have been effected beyond belief, were they not substantiated by persons of such exalted positions and character as to forbid the suspicion of untruth. Among the eminent gentlemen who have testified in favor of these Pills, we may mention—

Doct. A. A. HAYES, Analytical Chemist of Boston, and State Assayer of Massachusetts; H. J. GARDNER, Governor of Massachusetts; EMORY WASHBURN, Ex. Gov. of Massachusetts; SIMEON BROWN, Lieut. Gov. of Mass.; E. M. WRIGHT, Secretary of State of Mass.; JOHN B. FITZPATRICK, Cath Bishop of Boston; Prof. JOHN TORREY, of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, New York city; Dr. C. T. JACKSON, Geologist of the Public Lands of the United States; Dr. J. R. CHILTON, Practical Chemist of New York City, endorsed by Hon. W. L. MARCY, Secretary of State; WM. B. ASTOR, the richest man in America; S. LELAND & Co., Proprietors of the Metropolitan Hotel, and others.

Did space permit, we could give many hundred certificates from all parts where the Pills have been used, but evidence even more convincing than the experience of eminent public men, is found in their effects upon trial.

These Pills, the result of long investigation and study, are offered to the public as the best and most complete which the present state of medical science can afford. They are compounded not of the drugs themselves, but of the medicinal virtues only of Vegetable remedies extracted by chemical process in a state of purity, and combined together in such a manner as to insure the best results. This system of composition for medicines has been found in Cherry Pectoral and Pills both, to produce a more efficient remedy than had hitherto been obtained by any process. The reason is perfectly obvious. While by the old mode of composition, every medicine is burdened with more or less of acrimonious and injurious qualities, by this each individual virtue only that is desired for the curative effect is present. All the inert and obnoxious qualities of each substance employed are left behind, the curative virtues only being retained. Hence it is self evident the effects should prove as they have proved, more purely remedial, and the pills a more powerful antidote to disease than any other medicine known to the world.

As it is frequently expedient that many medicines should be taken under the counsel of an attending physician, and as he could not properly judge of a remedy without knowing its composition, I have supplied the accurate formulæ by which both my Pectoral and Pills are made, to the whole body of Practitioners in the United States and British American Provinces. If, however, there should be any one who has not received them, they will be forwarded by mail at his request.

Of all the Patent Medicines that are offered, how few would be taken if their composition was known! Their life consists in their mystery. I have no mysteries. The composition of my preparations is laid open to all men, and all who are competent to judge on the subject freely acknowledge their convictions of their intrinsic merits. The Cherry Pectoral was pronounced by scientific men to be a wonderful medicine before its effects were known. Many eminent Physicians have declared the same thing of my Pills, and even more confidently, and are willing to certify that their anticipations were more than realized by their effects upon trial. They operate by their powerful influence on the internal viscera to purify the blood and stimulate it into healthy action—remove the obstructions of the stomach, bowels, liver, and other organs of the body, restoring their regular action to health, and by correcting wherever they exist, such derangements as are the first origin of disease.

Prepared by Dr. J. C. AYER, Practical and Analytical Chemist, Lowell, Mass. Price 25 cents per box. Five boxes for $1,00. Sold by ABEL TURRELL, Montrose; B. F. & R. H. EATON, Harford; CHURCH & PHINNEY, Dundaff, and by all dealers in medicines every where.

DAIRYMEN, TAKE NOTICE!

THE subscribers having secured the sole right to DAVIS' ADJUSTABLE CHURN AND BUTTER-WORKER, for Susquehanna and several adjoining counties, respectfully invite all Butter makers to examine and TEST the merits of this new and valuable invention. We propose to furnish each and all of you with a CHURN that will produce as much butter in as short a time as any other churn—one that will completely expel the buttermilk, wash and work in the salt, diffusing it perfectly through the butter and fit it for use, without removing it from the churn. This Churn is simple in its construction, scientific in its operation, and easily cleaned and kept in order, and can be easily attached to any propelling power.
