The Evening Skies.

BY AMELIA B. WELBY.

Soft skies! amid your halls to-night,
How brightly beams each starry sphere!
Beneath your softly mellowed light
The loveliest scenes grow lovelier:
How high, how great the glorious Power
That bade these silvery dew drops fall;
That touched with bloom the folded flower,
And bent the blue sky over all!

I love to glide in these still hours
With heart and thought, and fancy free,
When naught but stars, and waves, and flowers
May give me their sweet company!
When far below the waves outspread
Glide softly on with liquid hue:
When winds are low,—and skies o'er head
Are beaming beautiful and blue.

Oh, what a heavenly hour is this!
The green earth seems an Eden-home,—
And yet I pine amid my bliss,
For purer blisses yet to come!
How can my spirit gaze aloft
Upon your deep delicious blue,
And float to those far realms so oft,
And never sigh to flutter through!

And this spot, so still, so lone,
Seems formed to suit my mournful mood—
The far blue heav'ns seem all my own,
And all this lovely solitude!
A voice seems whispering on the hill
Soft as my own, and on the sea
A living spirit seems to thrill
And throb with mine deliciously!

Yet, though my thoughts from care seem freed,
And a soft joy pervades my breast,
That makes me almost feel indeed
That hearts on earth are sometimes blest!
There is a spell in those hushed skies—
A something felt in this lone spot,
That makes my very soul arise
With longings for—it knows not what!

Beneath such skies I sometimes doubt
My heart can e'er have dreamed of sin—
The world seems all so calm without,
And all my thoughts so pure within!
Such dreams play o'er my folded lid!
Such heavenly visions meet my view!
I almost seem to glide amid
The angel bands, an angel too!

Farmers' Department.

Origin of Various Plants.

Every farmer ought to be so far acquainted with the history of all plants and trees, as to know their nature, country and condition.—Such knowledge, being on every account proper and desirible, will sometimes explain phenomena in their habits that would otherwise appear anomalous and inexplicable.

Wheat was brought from the centralTable lands of Thibet, where it is original, yet exists as a grass, with small mealy seed.

Rye exists wild in Siberia.

Barley exists wild in the mountains of Himalaya.

Oats grow wild in Northern Africa.

Maize (Indian corn) was brought from America.

Rice from South Africa, whence it was taken to India, and thence to Europe and America.

The Garden bean from the East Indies.

The horse bean from the Caspian sea.

Buckwheat originally came from Siberia and Tartary.

Rape seed and Cabbage grow wild in Sicily and Naples.

The Poppy from the East.

The sunflower from Peru.

Flax, or linseed, is in Southern Europe, a weed in the ordinary grain crops.

The radish from China.

Garden cress out of Egypt and the East.

Hemd is a native of Persia and the East-Indies.

The nettle, which sometimes furnishes fibres for spinning, is a native of Europe.

Of dye plants, madder comes from the East; dyer's weed grows in Southern Germany; saf flower comes from Egypt; dyer's knotgrass from China.

Hops come to perfection a wild plant in Germany.

Mustard and carraway seed the same.

Anise from Egypt and the Grecian Archipelago.

Coriander grows wild near the Mediterranean.

Saffron from the Levant.

The onion out of Egypt.

Horse-radish from south Europe.

Tobacco is a native of Virginia, Tobago, and California. Another species has also been found wild in Asia.

Fuller's teazle grows wild in Southern Europe.

The grasses are mostly native plants, and so are the clovers, except lucerne, which is a native of Sicily.

The Gourd is probably an Easterns plant.

The potato is a well known native of Peru and Mexico.

Turnip and mangle wurtzel come from the shores of the Mediterrnean.

Monalribi and white turnips are natives of Germany.

The carrot is supposed by some to have been brought from Asia, but others maintain it to be a native of the same place as the white turnip.

Amongst other kitchen garden plants, the spinnach is attributed to Arabia.

The Cucumber from the East Indies.

The mellon from Kslmuck.

Celery in Germany.

Of fruit trees and shrubs, the currant and gooseberry come from Southern Europe.

The medlar pear and apple are likewise European plants; but the Seckel, the best of pears, is traced to near Philadelphia, its original locality so far as known.

The cherry palm, and almond, came from Asia Minor.

The walnut and peach from the same country.

The citron from Media.

The quince from the Island of Crete.

The Chestnut from Italy.

Of forest trees, the majority are native plants of England, except the pine and horse-chestnut; the former of which was brought from America, the latter from Tlibit. But the greatest variety of oaks and other fine timber trees, are natives of North and South America.

The whortleberry is a native of Asia, Europe and America.

The cranberry of Europe and America.

The object of Plowing,

The object of plowing is not fully understood and considered by the majority of those who perform the work; if it were, it would be done more faithfully and thoroughly. It is not alone to kill the weeds and grass, nor even to furnish a seed bed or fresh turned soil for planting or sowing—nor anything which looks merely to the inversion of the sod,—which constitutes good plowing. Large plow turning a wide and shallow furrow, will show a large days work—but the work is very imperfectly accomplished, when the true object of plowing is considered. The chief value of plowing is the preparation it gives the soil for producing vegetation—for giving to the plants sown or planted, the elements of growth and fruitfulness. It should thoroughly pulverize and "loosen the texture of the soil, and thus admit a free circulation of air and moisture, which by chemical action disintegrates or breaks down the stony or mineral portions of the same, so that they may be more readily dissolved and taken up by the roots."

In a soil thus plowed—thus prepared for yielding its support to vegetable life—plants can appropriate, from far and near, the nutriment needed for their growth.

Fineness and depth of soil are requisite in order to receive the full benefit of the manures applied. It is not fertilizing food in its crude stage which assist vegetation. It must first become intimately mixed with, or in fact a part of the soil. Barnyard manure especially, seems of little worth, while forming visible layers between the clods of half plowed soil—it is often dry and coarse—and rather shunned than sought by roots sent out to forage for suitable food. If a well prepared soil has any strength and virtue, it will yield it readily; and poor land in good tilth is often more productive than better soil less perfectly prepared.—Rural New Yorker.

MANURE FOR ROSES.—Thomas Rivers, in his last rose catalogue, says that for a neat surface dressing for Autumnal Roses, "to be applied late in the spring, wood ashes and guano have proved most excellent fertilizers, in the proportion of half a peck of guano to a bushel of ashes, applying two quarts of the mixture to each tree, in a circle of eighteen inches in diameter round the stem, and suffering it to remain undisturbed upon the surface. The ashes retain the moisture from the dew and showers, and the effect, in giving a vigorous growth, with an abundant crop of the flowers in the autumn, has been very apparent. In our dryer climate, an occasional copious watering of a thin grass mulching, placed over this compound, would doubtless be of decided benefit, and during dry periods would in fact be indispensable.

GREASE FOR CARRIAGE WHEELS.—This composition prevents friction to a great extent. Its cost is not comparatively greater than the materials often employed for the purpose, it is not changed by heat, and hence does not liquify and flow away from its proper place:

Black lead pulverized	50	parts by weight,
Hog's lard,	50	do.
White soap,	50	do.
Quicksilver,	50	do.

Amalgamate well the lard and mercury by rubbing them together for a long time in a mortar; then gradually add the black lead, and lastly the soap, mix the whole as perfectly as possible.

The Printer's Reward.

When we purchased the Jefferson Democrat newspaper, we found the name of Isaac L. Bieber upon the subscription list; and presuming, as we had a right to do, that it was there with his own knowledge and consent, we continued to send him the Gazette and Democrat. But now after nearly six years have elapsed, Mr. Bieber sends us a polite letter, of which we give a literal copy below, informing us that he never subscribed for the paper, and will not pay for it. How long he received it, or whether he ever took a copy from the Post Office to which it was addressed, we know not. We should be sorry to believe, however, that any man, woman or child, who had read our paper even during one year, let alone six, could remain stupid enough to abuse the people's English in this horrible style. If this man don't want our paper, he certainly stands in need of a newspaper of some kind to enlighten him, and if he will promise to go and subscribe for one, we will cheerfully contribute a dollar towards paying for it.—Reading Gazette.

The Dream of Happiness.

Often had I dreamed of happiness, but was ignorant of it myself. My anxious heart inquired, it is all a phantom—a thing of fiction merely, and not of fact? I determined to travel through the earth and see if it were in the possession of any mortal.

I beheld a king on his stately throne.—Subjects obeyed his laws. A multitude of servants went and came at his bidding. Palaces of the most costly materials were at his service, and his tables groaned under the richness of their burdens. He seemed furnished with all he could desire, but his countenance betrayed that he was not happy.

I saw a man of wealth. He resided in an elegant mansion, and was surrounded by every luxury. But he lived in constant fear of losing his possessions. He was continually imagining that all his property would be consumed or taken from him. Thus picturing to his own mind the miserable condition of himself and family, he was not satisfied with his present wealth. The more he had the more he desired. Surely here was no happiness.

I looked upon a lovely valley, surrounded by hills. In the midst of this stood a neat little village. Gurgling streams came murmuring down the hill-sides. The lambs frolicked merrily about. Cattle grazed in the verdant pastures, and now and then went to quench their thirst at the nearest spring or purling brook. Every thing seemed pleasant. I thought certainly here is happiness. But I visited the inhabitants of this beautiful spot, and saw they were not happy. They had not lived peaceably among themselves, and murmured because great wealth was not their portion, or that they were not born to his station.

I beheld a fair young creature, blessed with health and beauty. She was the life of the ball-room, and received the most constant attentions. But I perceived that she was not truly happy. These things could not satisfy the longing of her heart.

I saw a true and heartfelt Christian. He was constantly exercising love to his fellow men, and doing all in his power to extend the knowledge of Jesus Christ and Him crucified. He trusted not to the vanities of this life for happiness. He sought not the world's riches, but laid up treasures in Heaven. His soul was at rest and at peace with God, and with mankind. Although he experienced many trials both in public and private, still he was cheerful and content with his lot. He only, of all of these, was possessed of true happiness.

☞ He is not wise who don't advertise. So says our devil, and he knows.

AFFLICTED READ.

PHILADELPHIA MEDICAL HOUSE—Established 20 years ago by Dr. KINKELIN, corner of Third & Union sts. between Spruce and Pine, Philadelphia, Pa.

Invalids are apprised that Dr. KINKELIN confines his practice to a particular branch of medicine, which engages his undivided attention. He cautions the unfortunate against the abuse of mercury; thousands are annually mercurialized out of life. Recent affections are promptly extinguished.

Twenty Years of Experience in the treatment of a class of diseases hitherto neglected and imperfectly understood, has enabled Dr. KINKELIN (Author of a work on Self Preservation,) to prove that nine tenths of the causes of nervous debility, local and constitutional weakness, mental and physical suffering, are traceable to certain habits, forming the most secret yet deadly and fatal springs of domestic misery and premature mortality.

Take particular Notice—There is an evil habit sometimes indulged in by boys, in solitude, often growing up with them to manhood, and which, if not reformed in due time, not only begets serious obstacles to matrimonial happiness, but gives rise to a series of protracted, insidious, and devastating affections. Few of those who give way to this pernicious practice are aware of the consequences, until they find the nervous system shattered, feel strange and unaccountable feelings, and vague fears in the mind.

The unfortunate thus affected becomes feeble; is unable to labor with accustomed vigor, or to apply his mind to study: his step is timid and weak, he is dull, irresolute, and sunken in his spirits with less energy than usual.

The consequence is, he shrinks from the society of his fellows, and, if he ventures to enter matrimony, his marriage is unfruitful and his house tells him that this is caused by his early follies. These are considerations which should awaken the attention of those similarly situated!

Marriage requires the fulfilment of several conditions, in order that it may be really the cause of mutual happiness. Could the veil which covers the origin of numerous wretchedness be lifted, and the true source in every instance disclosed—in how many could it be traced to physical disqualifications and their attendant disappointments! Apply them while life is yet time, in order to have your unstrung and relaxed organization robraced, revivified and strengthened.

REMEMBER—He who places himself under Dr. KINKELIN'S treatment may religiously confide in his honor as a gentleman, and rely upon the assurance, that the secrets of Dr. K's. patients will never be disclosed.

Young man—let no false modesty deter you from making your case known to one who, from education and respectability, can certainly befriend you.

Too many think they will conceal the secret in their own hearts, and cure themselves. Alas! how often is this a fatal delusion, and how many a promising young man, who might have been an ornament to society has faded from the earth.

Strictures of the urethra are rapidly removed by the application of a new therapeutical agent, used only by Dr. K. Weakness and constitutional debility promptly cured, and full vigor restored.

Country Invalids Can have (by stating their case explicitly, together with all the symptoms, per letter enclosing a remittance) Dr. K's. medicine, appropriated accordingly.

Forwarded to any part of the United States, and packed secure from DAMAGE or CURIOSITY.

The Artist's Greeting.

Friends, Patrons, and Everybody, another mile stone has been reached on the journey of life—another degree has been marked on the scale of time—another link has been severed from the chain of the future—another page has been written in the great volume of the past—and again we witness the bright opening of a New Year:

And at its early dawn we meet you,
And with a "happy new year" greet you.

And now, as you review the year just departed, and dwell upon its joys and sorrows—its privileges enjoyed, and its duties neglected: perchance, some of you have neglected to call on the Artist and secure one of those "Faithful Shadows"

Which light and art, with magical spell,
By working together, can catch so well!

But you may yet redeem the past. As you lay your plans for the advancing year, let this occupy an early and prominent place on the programme of your future intentions.

Would you leave a lasting impresson behind you? Come to the Daguerrean Gallery! Would you "see yourselves as others see you?" Come to the Daguerrean Gallery. Would you make an appropriate present to a cherished friend? Come to the Picture Rooms! And beside all this, would you encourage art, and make glad the heart of the Artist?

Then let it appear by promising here,
That during the year Fifty Four,
You will, one and all, be sure to call
At "Odd Fellows' Hall." Second Floor.

ZINC PAINTS.

One third cheaper than White Lead, and free from all poisonous qualities.

THE NEW JERSEY ZINC COMPANY having greatly enlarged their works, and improved the quality of their products, are prepared to execute orders for their Superior Paints. Dry and ground in oil, in assorted packages of from 25 to 500 pounds; also, dry in barrels, of 200 pounds each.

Their White Zinc, which is sold dry or ground in oil, is warranted pure and unsurpassed for body and uniform whiteness.

A method of preparation has recently been discovered, which enables the Company to warrant their paint to keep fresh and soft in the keys for any reasonable time. In this respect their paints will be superior to any other in the market.

Their brown Zinc Paint, which is sold at a low price, and can only be made from the Zinc ores from New Jersey, is now well known for its protective qualities when applied to iron or other metallic surfaces.

Their stone color Paint possesses all the properties of the Brown, and is of an agreeable color for painting Cottages, Depots, Out-buildings, Bridges, &c.

Invalids of Pennsylvania,

Your attention is urgently invited to a careful and candid perusal of something that has just been introduced into your rich and time honored State.

Pulvermacher's Hidro Electric Voltaic Chains.

A new and novel mode of applying a powerful remedial agent, so constructed as to be worn under the garments, next to the skin producing a constant uninterrupted current of Electro Magnetism, effecting immediate relief from the most acute pain, and also a permanent cure of all Nervous Diseases. It seldom has failed to furnish almost instant relief, and a final, permanent cure, by being used according to directions, to the following diseases.—Rheumatism, Gout, Sciatica, Paralysis, Painful and Swelled Joints, Neuralgia of the face, Diseases of the Spine, Deafness and Blindness, Uterine Pains, Palpitation of the Heart, Periodical Headache, St. Vitus Dance, General Debility, Pains of the Chest, Hysterics, Dyspepsia, all diseases that are caused by a deficient amount of Nervous Fluid are greatly relieved, if not permanently cured by simply wearing the chains a few hours each day.

Be it understood that it is not claimed that it cures all diseases, but only those for which it is recommended; and moreover we boldly claim and defy that no medicinal agent of any kind has performed so MANY cures during the last year, of those diseases just named as Pulvermacher's Electric Chain.

And to prove this assertion, we defy any person to produce so many well authenticated Certificates of scientific Physicians and intelligent patients as may be found in a pamphlet of 36 pages, to be had (gratis) of the agent in this town. The Electric Chains were first introduced in France in 1850, and after being subjected to the most thorough and rigid trial, by the first medical men in Paris, they were found to possess strange and marvellous power for relieving pain, wherever applied, and by their influence were introduced into the hospitals of that city, and also secured letters patent by the French Government. They are now introduced into almost every Hospital in England, Germany, Austria, Belgium, and patented in those countries, where they have become the most Popular Curative Agent in the World.

They were first introduced into the U. States about one year since, and went through the same trial as in Europe, and were at once introduced into every Hospital in N. York, where they are now in daily use, effecting even more wonderful cures than had ever before been awarded them. They are highly recommended by Prof. Valentine Mott, Van Buren, Post and others, who have published their views of their power and value in several of the medical journals in that city, and are also in the daily practice of recommending their use to patients. A full account of their opinion may also be found in every pamphlet, and sent to the address of every person in the State by applying (post paid) to ABEL TURRELL, Agent, Montrose, Pa. The Chains can be sent by mail, with full descriptions for use. Price of Chains, $3 and $6.

Physicians are politely invited to call and examine their construction, and pronounce upon their merits. ONE WORD TO INVALIDS, no person need fear that they will not accomplish just what it is claimed they can do.

N. B. One Chain will last for years and lose none of its electric power by use, and can be applied to either adult or child.

THE MARRIAGE STATE;

Shall Happiness and Health, or Misery and Sickness, attend it?

MOST STARTLING CONSIDERATIONS!

Reflections for the Thoughtful.

Strange that countless human beings exist and drag through life as do the beasts of the field, or the insects of the earth, evincing no more thought or reflection than though the noble faculties of mind were not vouchsafed to them!

Many such are husbands and fathers, upon whom are dependent the health, the well-being, and the happiness of a confiding and affectionate wife, with perhaps a family of children.

HOW OFTEN IT HAPPENS THAT THE

WIFE LINGERS FROM YEAR TO YEAR

In that pitiable condition as not even for one day to feel the happy and exhilerating influence incident to the enjoyment of health.

She may not be an invalid confined to her bed, or even to her room; as her pride, ambition and energy induce and nerve her to take personal charge of her household, even when her health will not admit of it; but she is nevertheless perceptibly sinking from day to day, and always ailing.

Thus, day after day, and month after month transpire. Her health daily sinks, till finally even the hope of recovery no longer remains. And thus

THE BLOOMING BRIDE,

But a few years ago in the flush of health and youth, and buoyancy of spirits, rapidly, and apparently inexplicably, becomes a feeble, sickly, debilitated wife, with frame emaciated, nerves unstrung, spirits depressed, countenance bearing the impress of suffering, and an utter physical and mental prostration.

Sometimes this deplorable change may and does arise from organic or constitutional causes. But oftener, by far oftener, to gross and inexcusable ignorance of the simplest and plainest rules of health as connected with the marriage state, the violation of which entails disease, suffering and misery, not only to the wife, but often

Hereditary Complaints upon the Children

"UNTO THE THIRD AND FOURTH GENERATION,"

Transmitting CONSUMPTION, SCROFULA, HYPOCHONDRIA, INSANITY, GOUT, KING'S EVIL, and other diseases, as a

DREADFUL INHERITANCE

from the Parents.

And must this continue? Shall we be wise in all things concerns the cattle of our fields, our horses, our sheep, our cows, our oxen, the nature and character of the soil we possess, the texture and quality of our goods and merchandise; but in all that concerns ourselves as human beings, with human functions and passions, subject to great derangement, involving our future peace and happiness—in all that concerns the health and welfare of the wife of our affections, and the mother of our children; in all that concerns the mental and physical well being of those children, we should be immersed in the darkest and most

BENIGHTED IGNORANCE,

AS CULPABLE AS INEXCUSABLE!

How long shall this ignorance prevail so productive of its bitter fruits? How long shall the wife and mother be ignorant of the nature, character and causes of the various womb and sexual complaints, embittering her days by suffering—suffering often prolonged to years, eventuating in a complication of diseases utterly and hopelessly incurable? Shall we for ever close our eyes to the results of physiological science by which we may arrive at an understanding of ourselves as men and women, subject to serious life-long enduring diseases, and perpetuating them to our children.

LET EVERY WIFE AND HUSBAND PONDER!

No husband or wife need be ignorant of what concerns them most to know to secure their health and happiness. That knowledge is contained in a little work entitled

THE MARRIED WOMAN'S

PRIVATE MEDICAL COMPANION,

BY DR. A. M. MAURICEAU,

PROFESSOR OF DISEASES OF WOMEN.

SURPRISING OR WONDERFUL,

Considering that EVERY FEMALE, whether MARRIED OR NOT, can here acquire a full knowledge of the nature, character and causes of her complaints, with the various symptoms, and that nearly should have been sold. It is impracticable to convey fully the various subjects treated of, as they are of a nature strictly intended for the married, or those contemplating marriage.

HALF A MILLION COPIES
