Religious and charitable institutions benefit to the extent of $2,000,000 by the will of Miss Harriet Blanchard, who died June 2 at her home, 1511 Walnut street. Relatives are bequeathed approximately $200,000.

The will is dated December 5, 1913, and carries out, after the death of the testator, the charities in which she was interested in life. The representatives of the estate are Mr. Blakiston and the Pennsylvania Company for Insurances on Lives and Granting Annuities, executors, and George Wharton Pepper, counsel.

Miss Blanchard was the last of three aged sisters. They were Anna, Maria and Harriet. Their father was a member of the firm of Blanchard & Lea, who succeeded to the publishing business of Matthew Carey. They were members of Holy Trinity Church and were advisers of Bishop Brooks and Bishop McVickar in the charitable work of the church. A brother, William Blanchard, was a gallant federal officer in the Civil War. In their youth the three sisters lived at Chestnut Hill in a house on the brow of a hill overlooking the Chester valley. A brother died there. The house afterward came into the possession of George C. Thomas.

EDMONDS TO ASSIST SHIP BUYERS HERE

Congressman Offers Help to Those Negotiating for Government-Owned Vessels

MARITIME LEADER PLEASED

Offer of assistance to Philadelphia shippers who desire to negotiate with the United States shipping board for the purchase of government-owned vessels was made yesterday by Congressman George W. Edmonds.

Mr. Edmonds made the offer in a letter to J. S. W. Holton, president of the Maritime Exchange.

Congressman Edmonds announced that the shipping board is offering wooden vessels under the following three arrangements:

First. Cash to be paid for the vessel upon delivery at $90 per dead-weight ton.

Second. Fifty per cent of the amount of the purchase price to be paid on delivery of the steamship, the remainder to be paid in quarterly installments over a period of eighteen months; rate, $100 per dead-weight ton.

Third. Twenty-five per cent of the purchase price to be paid on delivery of the vessel, the remainder in quarterly installments over a period of three years; rate, $115 per ton dead weight.

The shipping board is also negotiating the sale of some of its newly constructed steel tonnage, although these negotiations are limited to a certain number of vessels. On the type of steamship built on the Great Lakes, which is from 3500 to 4200 tons dead weight, the price is $200 per ton. On the type constructed by the Submarine Boat Corporation at its Newark shipyards the price is $210 per ton.

The shipping board will accept either a cash basis or time basis. If on the latter basis, the minimum charge amount of the first payment must be 25 per cent and the maximum time allowed for the payment of the remainder is five years, the deferred payments carrying an interest charge of 5 per cent. If a purchaser pays all cash he will save his interest charge.

Commenting on Congressman Edmond's letter, Mr. Holton said he hoped that the proposals of the shipping board would receive the earnest attention of Philadelphia maritime interests, with a view to determine the desirability of negotiating for the purchase of tonnage sufficient for the establishment of additional steamship lines out of this port.

LLOYD

Crossing a Bridge

Building is a very simple matter—on paper; but the real operation is different. From the architect's plan to the finished house is like crossing a long bridge. It's awkward to get half-way across and find that one span is missing—that you can't get the flooring, say, until after the roof ought to be finished.

What will you do about it?

"The best way to prevent what's past," said Mrs. Partington, "is to put a stop to it before it happens." Fix on your lumber merchant at the start. Choose an old house, and a large one. A house fifty years old has taken many customers across that bridge; and a big house can't afford to let a valuable reputation go to smash.

Some day you'll build. If you want the work finished on time, see that the lumber comes from LLOYD.
