A Great New Oil Field Re-discovered

This week's issue of Investor & Trader tells of remarkable pools found under abandoned claims

They drilled and drilled in this field a few years ago and found little. Another man went back this summer and drilled deeper. Result — a number of gushers. Which companies will profit?

SHARP RECESSIONS OCCUR IN CORN PIT

Rains, Cooler Weather and Break in Oats Bring Heavy Selling

GRAIN BELT WEATHER FORECAST

Chicago, July 14.—Illinois—Unsettled tonight and Tuesday, probably thunder showers except fair southeast tonight and extreme north Tuesday; cooler. Missouri—Partly cloudy tonight and Tuesday, probably showers, except fair northwest Tuesday; cooler. Wisconsin—Unsettled, with thunder showers southeast this afternoon or tonight; cooler. Minnesota—Fair tonight and Tuesday; cooler tonight. Iowa—Unsettled, with thunder showers south and extreme east this afternoon or tonight; cooler. North and South Dakota and Nebraska—Fair tonight and Tuesday; cooler tonight; warmer Tuesday in west. Kansas—Unsettled and cooler tonight with thunder showers south and extreme east; Tuesday fair, except showers and cooler southeast. Montana—Fair tonight and Tuesday; warmer Tuesday. Wyoming—Fair tonight and Tuesday; cooler extreme east tonight; warmer Tuesday.

Chicago, July 14.—Reports of beneficial rains in Kansas, Iowa and Nebraska with indications of cooler conditions, and a break in oats brought out heavy selling orders in corn today and caused sharp recessions after prices had been stronger on a renewal of aggressive buying by commission houses early. December then touching a new high record for the movement.

Extension of the strike of marine workers, a further drop in foreign exchange and reports of an advance in freight rates, together with assertions that purchasers of the cast article were backing away from the market, prospects of somewhat larger receipts and a belief that futures had reached an overbought stage, also had considerable to do with dulling bullish enthusiasm.

Advices from Argentina on the crop were unfavorable, continued wet weather having led to further deterioration.

Reports that exporters were re-selling in the east and heavy profit-taking by eastern and country longs put a surplus of offerings in the oats pit which was hard to digest, and the market weakened after new high records had been established early on a rush to buy.

For a time offerings were light, owing to fresh fears that the crop was uncertain and that Europe would want large quantities. Exporters said that the advance in prices, the marine workers' strike, higher freight charges and the position of foreign exchange had virtually precluded business.

The visible supply of wheat in the United States is 5,297,000 bushels.

Leading futures ranged as follows:

Fire Chief's Body is Found in Ruins

ion. He and his driver were close together when the walls collapsed. The driver, Thomas Evans, suffered a fractured wrist but escaped being buried in the walls.

Stevenson was in the building to find if it was safe for his men to enter. He screamed for them to run! when the walls collapsed but could not get out himself.

Three official investigations to determine the source of the fire and to place the blame for the cave in of walls that resulted in the death of six firemen and the injury of thirty-one others have been begun.

One is being directed by the coroner, one by the fire marshal and one by the chief of the bureau of building inspection. Pottash Brothers, owners of the bag and burlap warehouse in which the fire occurred, also are investigating.

The two brothers were in Atlantic City yesterday and could not be reached to throw any light upon the subject.

Of the injured firemen all but two were reported out of danger last night. William Heiser, hoseman, Engine Company No. 20, and William G. Perria, hoseman, Truck No. 7, are still in the Roosevelt Hospital. Their condition, it was said, is critical.

The work of clearing away the wreckage of water-soaked bags, timber and crumbled walls will not be ended until tomorrow night, it was estimated. While the firemen piled the miscellaneous litter into a heap, hundreds of curious persons, many of whom were friends of the missing fireman, watched in the hope that he might 'e taken out alive from the ruins.

In their investigation the authorities will seek to discover whether the floors of the burlap factory were overweighted. Coroner Knight said an examination by him disclosed the building was substantially built. It is possible, according to Ross B. Davis, deputy fire chief, that the floors may have collapsed, bringing down the walls by the overweight caused when the bags became soaked with water.

Funeral arrangements were made yesterday in the homes of the firemen who lost their lives. Lieutenant Thomas Kelly, 38 Laurel street, and Harry Le Grande, ladderman, of 6 Bristol place, will be buried Wednesday. John Green, engineman, of 132 Brown street, will be buried on Thursday. All were members of Fire Company No. 21.

Mrs. Mary Stevenson, wife of the missing fireman, was not told of her husband's disappearance until late yesterday. Until then it had been hoped he might be rescued. William, a son, insisted in joining the search for his father when he learned he was buried under the ruins.

Fred Tener was held in $400 bail yesterday, charged with stealing silverware during the blaze.

Tener, who lives at 113 West Jefferson street, is attached to Truck Company No. 2 at Fourth and Race streets. His accuser is Harry Ernst, who testified at a hearing in the Third street and Fairmount avenue station that the man took the silver from his home, 617 North American street, which adjoins the structure destroyed by the fire.

After Magistrate Deitz had held the defendant in $400 bail under a charge of larceny the prosecuting witness announced his intention of "dropping the case." Tener said last night he had "settled" with Ernst and that "nothing further would happen in the case." Ernst's sudden change of heart occurred after repeated visits paid to him by the police.

Harry A. Mackey, chairman, today detailed Harry Myers, chief adjuster, and William B. Smith, resident adjuster of the Workmen's Compensation Bureau, to assist the families of the victims of the warehouse fire to obtain immediate relief under the workmen's compensation law. The families of the dead men are entitled to relief under the workmen's compensation law, irrespective of any benefits from public or private funds.

Burglar Killed by U. P. Professor

the window sill. With a scream, the burglar dropped to the alleyway. He fell the fifteen feet with such force that his ankle and right arm were broken.

"Don't go near him," shouted the men from the second story window to the summer school students who were already collecting in the street, he's armed."

With serious purposefulness, believing in his benumbed mind that escape was still possible, the mortally wounded man crawled down the alleyway to Thirty-sixth street. He left a trail of blood.

He crept painfully across the belgian blocks of the street, and reached the lamp post in front of 202 South Thirty-sixth street. He collapsed, his feeble hands clinging to the post.

There was still a chance. He might hide somewhere! Still fighting, he strained a few feet more, then fell behind the doorstep. Police Sergeant Grim found him crouching there, dead.

"When he called out: 'Throw up your hands!'" said Doctor Schappelle today, "and threatend to shoot me full of holes, I knew that if I didn't shoot first he'd get me. I fired at him. I saw him fall.

"I rushed to the window of my room and fired three shots in the air to attract attention."

Professor Is Arrested

Robin and James Meredith, who also was sleeping on the second floor, were arrested with Schappelle by District Detectives Boston, McDowell and Baker.

Robins heard the noise of the intruder in the room next to his.

"It's Oc Kennedy's room," he said, "but I knew it couldn't be Oc in there because he went to New York. I heard him pulling at the trunk and throwing things about a bit.

"I knew that if I ran down the hall toward the rear of the house we had him trapped unless he was willing to risk his neck by jumping out of the window. At the rear we could block his getaway at the stairway.

"I switched on the light in my room and slipped as quietly as I could to the doctor's room. I waked him and then jumped into the booth to notify the police. The operator kept me waiting an awful long while, and said that she was ringing the police station, but that they wouldn't answer.

"Then I heard the shot and a scream. I dropped the receiver and beat it to the hall, where I found Schappie. The burglar, groaning, was just passing into the bedroom door."

James Latham and Lowell Myrick were sleeping on the third floor of the house when the shooting occurred. They did not witness the shooting, however, and are not being held by the police.

Doctor Schappelle was held without bail by Magistrate Harris in the Thirty-second and Woodland avenue station today, to await the action of the coroner, on the technical charge of manslaughter.

"I regret that I am by law compelled to hold you for the slaying of the burglar," said Magistrate Harris. "From the evidence it seems that you were justified in killing him."

Later, the doctor, escorted by his friends, was taken to City Hall, where his release under $1500 bail was obtained.

Schappelle Sorry for Affair

"I am mighty sorry," said Doctor Schappelle at the fraternity house today after he had been released under bail. "The poor chap seemed down and out. But it had to be done.

"It was a case of either be shot or shoot him.

"When Robins woke me up I went out into the hall to go to Kennedy's room. I was just about to move along the hall when the man popped out of the bedroom on the north side of the hall between Kennedy's room and me. He literally popped out, suddenly. And he had something in his hand.

"He called at the same instant: 'Hands up there!'

"And I shot from the hip. Then he went back through the same door he came out of and jumped.

"I never shot a man before, though I've hunted animals most everywhere in the world. I never shot at a man, let alone hit him. I'm sorry, but there seemed nothing else to do. The poor chap looked as if he were a cocaine addict, too.

"The bullet went clean through the burglar's chest and lodged in the woodwork behind him.

"What appeared to be a gun in the burglar's hand was a flashlight."

Doctor Schappelle is a crack marksman. He is of American parentage, was born in France and has traveled a considerable extent over the world, studying the languages of people by living closely with them. He has hunted in the big game areas of South America and in other sections known to the enthusiastic hunter.

The police believe that the burglar is the man who robbed Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity house, 3908 Spruce street, obtaining $500 worth of loot, last Friday.

This is the second time the Alpha Chi Rho fraternity has been entered by robbers within the last five years. The fraternity, which has among its members Dr. O. W. Shinn, of the chemical department; former Dean McClellan and Major Pickering, graduate manager of the Athletic Association of the University, moved into the new house in 1916. The former house was located at 113 South Thirty-seventh street. Burglars entered the place and left it with more than $400 worth of jewelry and personal belongings of the students. The thieves entered while the fraternity men were meeting in secret session.

Is Dickinson Graduate

Professor Schapelle is a graduate of Dickinson College. After leaving that institution he took graduate work at the University of Pennsylvania and following that, taught several years at Gettysburg.

He was sent down under the auspices of several American colleges to Brazil to study the dialects and spent some time down there in this research work, making a detailed report on his return.

He received his doctor's degree at the University shortly after his South American trip and taught for some time at the University of Nevada when a call from Pennsylvania brought him here in the fall to do the work of several members of the French department who had gone into active service.

He has written several textbooks and has made several important translations.

Republican, of Massachusetts, of cruelty to soldiers in France.

The ways and means committee plans to meet this week to begin consideration of general tariff legislation after a special inquiry into operations by the Chemical Foundation, Inc., of German properties seized by the alien property custodian.

House leaders plan action this week on the resolution of Representative Walsh, Republican, of Massachusetts, proposing a general investigation of the shipping board's operations, through a special committee, while the merchant marine committee will continue its study of permanent shipping legislation.

Hearings will be continued by the Senate banking committee on the renomination of John Skelton Williams, comptroller of currency, while some action is expected by the Senate judiciary committee on the nomination of A. Mitchell Palmer as attorney general.

Threat of Arrest for Showing Film picture they are acting in the best interests of the public by refusing to permit further showings.

"The health department certainly will not contest their right to ban it. According to its light, the board of censors is doing what is its privilege to do.

"If the picture is to be continued, the department of health will want it to be recognized as an educational picture.

"I think that the audiences might be grouped together in such manner that there would be no objection to having mixed audiences at all.

"Furthermore, I do not believe, as has been suggested, that the owners have been exploiting an illegitimate thing for the sake of the money they might gather in. I feel that the owners have handled the picture with entire honesty, feeling that they were doing communities a great deal of good. Of course, they are making money with the picture, but they are also doing good with it."

Promoters of "The End of the Road" may fight the ruling in court. Advertisements appearing in yesterday's newspapers announcing the second week of the production of the photoplay indicate this.

Harry Knapp, chairman of the board of censors, said he believed the promoters may seek an injunction to prevent the inforcement of the board's order.

Samuel Nirdlinger, manager of the theatre, where the film is being shown, said there was no intention of discontinuing the production, but intimated the audiences might be segregated. It was said to be possible that the men of the audience would be placed in one portion of the house and the women in the other, but whatever is done the play will not be stopped, he said.

"In New York the management of the same play sought to thwart the censors by an injunction, but they lost their suit," said Mr. Knapp. "It may be possible that they contemplate the same action in Philadelphia. I have forbidden the showing of the film, and we will see now what will be done."

Isaac H. Silverman is said to be back of the production.

Senators Request Facts in Treaty

his visitors that the treaty did not give Japan any political rights in Shantung and in Kiao Chau, but only economic rights which would terminate in sixty or seventy years.

Japan's delegates at Versailles, the President was said to have told his callers, were instructed not to sign the treaty unless the Japan-Allied treaty provisions regarding Shantung were adhered to.

Expedient to Yield, Says Wilson

The President also was represented as having expressed the view that it was expedient to yield on Shantung in order to have Japan a member of the league of nations.

Before the committee met Senator Hitchcock, of Nebraska, senior Democratic member, conferred with President Wilson by telephone. The conversation was understood to concern the question of Mr. Wilson's appearance before the committee.

Senators King, Utah, and McKellar, Tennessee, Democrats, were among those with whom the President discussed the treaty. Senator King said later that he was convinced that this question eventually would clear itself.

Senator King called at the White House primarily to urge appointment of Abbott McGinnis, a Salt Lake City lawyer, as minister to Bolivia.

Both he and Senator McKellar urged that Minister McMillan be given the rank of ambassador and continued as the representative of Peru. Mr. McMillan has been nominated by the President as minister to Guatemala and William E. Gonzales, minister to Cuba, has been nominated as ambassador to Peru. The President suggested to the senators that they take the matter up with the State Department.

While definite information regarding the itinerary of the President's forthcoming tour of the country still was lacking today, Senator King said it was his understanding that Mr. Wilson would speak in Utah.

The program of the Republican majority of the Senate foreign relations committee was taken up yesterday in scattered conferences of Republican senators participated in the various confabs, which occurred at the homes of different leaders in the league fight.

As an outcome of the conferences it was stated by Republican leaders that there was no longer any doubt on their part as to the ability of the league opposition to put through reservations as a part of the resolution of ratification of the peace treaty.

Senator Moses, a member of the foreign relations committee, said that every one of the forty-nine Republican senators favored reservations to the covenant.

3 ARRESTED IN QUARREL

Soldier Finds Man Walking With Wife—All Are Released

Revolver shots, fired during a quarrel at Fifty-eighth and Callowhill streets early today where a returned soldier is said to have met his wife walking with a youth, resulted in the arrest of the trio.

The soldier, Fred Kingelback, 408 North Hobart street, is said by the police to have engaged in a fistic combat with the youth, Bertram Munyon, nineteen years old, of Robinson street, near Jefferson. During the trouble a revolver was fired, attracting the attention of Sergeant Whalen, of the Sixty-first and Thompson streets station.
