SPROUL EXPLAINS FEW STRIKE RIOTS

Declares Lack of Disorder in Pennsylvania Due to Preparedness of Officials

PRAISES LABOR LEADERS

Preparedness on the part of county and state officials, together with the co-operative attitude of the leaders of the steel strike, has been the means of preventing greater strike disorders.

This is the opinion of Governor Sproul, expressed in a telegram to the New York World in answer to an inquiry upon that subject by the paper. The telegram reads:

"Answering your wire, I feel that the good judgment and adequate preparation for possible disorder shown by the sheriffs of the counties in Pennsylvania where large steel plants are located and by the mayors and burgesses of most communities have been effective in preventing what might have easily become a serious situation.

"The attitude of the leaders of the strike, too, has been very encouraging to good order. Most of them have taken the ground from the beginning that nothing was to be gained by violence and that much might be lost in public sympathy for their cause. This has had an excellent influence throughout all of the affected region.

"As a very large percentage of the strikers, however, were aliens and many of them were unfamiliar with our laws and institutions it was necessary to make very complete police preparations, in which the state co-operated with the local officers. Thus disorder was attended to in its incipiency and there has been no prolonged period of rioting or violence anywhere in Pennsylvania. Unfortunately some agitators, whose enmity to organized labor is as pronounced as their hatred for the state and our form of government, got to work in some localities, but these disturbers were quickly detected and taken into custody or frightened away. Our thanks in Pennsylvania are due to a generally good influence upon the part of the labor leaders and a very decided public sentiment which will not countenance disorder or defiance of law.

"WILLIAM C. SPROUL,
"Governor of Pennsylvania."

Alice Paul Here Tonight

Miss Alice Paul, of Washington, militant suffrage leader, will speak tonight at a meeting of the executive committee of the local organization of the National Women's party in the home of Miss Mary H. Ingham, 620 South Washington square. Several other out-of-town leaders are expected, including Mrs. Florence Bayard Hilles, Delaware chairman, and Mrs. Henry Leach, of New York.

CONDEMNS COUNTY PRISONS

Speaker at Commissioners' Convention Urges More Work for Inmates

Declaring county jails of Pennsylvania a disgrace to the state, and that but 15 per cent of all prisoners were employed in productive labor, David F. Magee, of Lancaster county, urged action to ameliorate conditions by Pennsylvania's county commissioners.

He spoke at the thirty-third annual convention of the Pennsylvania Association of County Commissioners at the Bellevue-Stratford yesterday. Workhouses and farms could be used to give prisoners work and make them productive, instead of lying in jails in idleness and discontent. Industrial and farm buildings could, he said, be built by county commissioners, under existing laws.

Plan for Community Service

Community service in cities and towns of Pennsylvania is planned for in the drive just started to raise $600,000 from Pennsylvania industries. The first meeting of the executive committee of Pennsylvania to arrange for the campaign, held at the Bellevue-Stratford yesterday, was attended by Dr. John C. Acheson, chairman; Otto T. Mallery, Clarence M. Clark, Mrs. Edward W. Biddle, William H. Walker, William Disston, C. Brown Hill, L. H. Wier, Frederick A. Moore and C. W. Lee.
