A tough proposition—

TRYING to stretch 1914 telephone rates over a 1920 budget is bad enough.

But worse still for us—and you—is the fact that we can't make the many improvements which are necessary in your telephone service.

As a matter of fact, we can't keep the present service going on the present rates. Let's be frank about it.

We face 1920—on telephone rates the same as they were before the war.

They must be made adequate!

It's your service.

A Word about renovating your car

When the average car needs overhauling the owner invariably takes it to the repair shop and the repair shop in turn, sends it to the painter if it needs painting, or to the top man if it needs a new top.

A service that is not only uniform and highly efficient, but exceptionally reasonable as well. There is no feature of renovating that we are not equipped to perform.
